FLIGHT TO CONTINENT SET FOR TODAY; PREDICT SUCCESS; HAWKER STILL LOST

C-3'S CREW GAVE UP HOPE BUT SHOWED NO FEAR, SAYS COMMANDER OF EXPEDITION

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PONTA DELGADA, May 20.—"Exceptionally bad weather, which was to...pected, was the sole reason for the failure of all three of the American ...planes to fly from Trepassey, N. F., to Ponta Delgada on schedule time," ...mander John H. Towers to the the correspondent of the Associated Press ... The man who commanded the overseas flight in his flagship, NC-3, and ...bers of his crew were much refreshed tonight after having regained sleep ...r bucking the storm sixteen hours and being adrift fifty-three hours more, ...t of communication with the world. Commander Towers continued:

"Individually the members of the crew of the NC-3 virtually gave up hope Saturday night of being rescued, but collectively they showed no signs of fear and 'carried on' until they arrived in port here Monday and heard the forts firing salvos in welcome and witnessed the scenes of gratified jubilation over their escape from the sea.

"Having run short of fuel and encountered a heavy fog, the NC-3 came down at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon in order that we might obtain our bearings. The plane was damaged as it reached the water and was unable again to rise. While we were drifting the 205 miles in the heavy storm the high seas washed over or pounded the plane and the boat began to leak. So fast did the water enter that the members of the crew took turns in bailing the hull with a small hand pump, while others stood on the wings in order to keep the plane in balance. Meanwhile, we were steering landward.

"That our radio was out of commission was not known to the crew until our arrival here. Communication had been cut off since 9 o'clock Monday morning, owing to our having lost our ground wire.

"We ate chocolate and drank water from our radiator. This was our only means of subsistence. The crew smoked heavily in order to keep awake while we were drifting. Not one of us obtained more than four hours of sleep after leaving Trepassey until Ponta Delgada was reached."

The hands of all the members of the crew of the NC-3 were badly swollen as a result of their heroic work at the pump. Otherwise they did not undergo any suffering, except Lieutenant-Commander McCulloch, one of the pilots, who had a rather severe attack of seasickness. The men have now fully recovered from their trying experience.

"The NC-3 encountered heavy clouds at 1 o'clock Saturday morning," Commander Towers said. "The light instruments on board failed and we sailed the plane above the clouds in order to get the benefit of a moonlight reading of the instruments.

"We kept in sight of the NC-4 until near daylight Saturday and with the NC-1 until shortly after daylight. All the planes were flying in formation, but the NC-1 and NC-4 were underneath the clouds part of the time, because their light instruments were good.

"The NC-3 had no difficulty in being guided by star shells, searchlights and smoke from the station ships until we reached station 14, which was not seen.

"I assumed that we were off our court, but did not know on which side, and began flying a parallel course in what I though was the direction of Corvo. Shortly after daylight we encountered heavy fog, rain squalls and high winds, all of which continued until the NC-3 went down upon the water.

TWO HOURS' SUPPLY.

"Before alighting on the surface of the sea my calculations showed us to be in the vicinity of land, but with only two hours' fuel supply on hand, and, with the weather clearing, it was decided to land and ascertain our exact position.

"Our radio kept sending messages, assuming that the torpedo boat destroyers were picking them up. We did not know the radio was useless and that the destroyers had not been receiving the messages.

"All the crew thought the sea would moderate, but the plane was so badly damaged in the high billows that we were unable to rise again.

"We were sixty miles southwest of

SEA SILENT ON HAWKER

Fate of Aviator is Still Mystery.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, May 20, 11 p.m.—Up to this hour there is no word of Hawker and his navigator, Grieve. Not a single report has been received from any of the numerous airplanes, destroyers, mine sweepers and light craft of all descriptions which are sweeping the seas off Ireland.

Their task has been hampered by fog and rain.

In an official communique just issued, justifying the attitude of the government in relation to the cross-Atlantic flight, which has ended in disaster, the Admiralty warns the public that, in view of the vast areas involved, the chances of finding Hawker and Grieve are very remote.

The communique, referring to recent criticisms, says that the attitude of the Air Ministry has been to enjoin caution, rather than to urge such attempts, and, while anxious to do the utmost to save such gallant and intrepid airmen as Hawker and Grieve, the government feels bound to warn those who may in the future attempt to fly the Atlantic that its resources make it utterly impossible that the immense task of patrolling 2000 miles of ocean can be undertaken.

LONDON, May 20, 1:10 p.m.—Tuesday passed without word of any kind concerning Harry Hawker and Lieutenant-Commander Grieve and their Sopwith biplane in which they left St. John's Sunday afternoon.

LONDON, May 20, 10:56 a.m.—The weather is so bad off the coast of Ireland that airplanes ordered by the Air Ministry to search for Hawker's machine are unable to fly. There were strong southeast winds, rain and fog at intervals during the night.

All communication centers in London are silent as to news from Hawker and Grieve. Even the rumors which prevailed yesterday and last night have died out.

The opinion held in Admiralty circles is that Hawker came to grief soon after he started.

It is pointed out that the aviator almost certainly would have sent a farewell message before getting out of radio range had an accident not befallen him in the meantime.

In the House of Commons last night, Josiah C. Wedgwood and other members severely criticised the government for omitting to provide means for assisting Hawker in his flight across the Atlantic.

LESSONS GAINED IN TRANS-SEA FLIGHT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Naval experts said today that the performances thus far in the trans-Atlantic flight have demonstrated that great strides in aviation have been made from an engineering standpoint, but that development of seaplanes has not yet reached the stage where they are of demonstrated commercial value. All apparently are agreed that bigger ships are necessary for trans-Atlantic flying.

Officials emphasized, however, that the work of Commander Towers's squadron had been highly satisfactory and they are convinced that fog alone prevented all three of the flying craft from reaching the Azores through the air. The value of the design also was demonstrated, they said, by the ability shown by the NC-3 to ride through a storm.

It was said that the planes undoubtedly would have done much better had they been equipped with geared liberty motors; that is, motors of 500 horse power, but with no greater weight than the 400-horse-power engines. Engineers still are working on such a motor. Another problem which experts are seeking to solve is that of gearing the propellers down when the engine is at full speed so as to get greater efficiency. This problem is similar to that which engineers faced when the turbine ship engine first was designed.

HARNESSING COLORADO IS GROWING IN FAVOR.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Secretary Lane's plan to harness the waters of the Colorado River for irrigation and electric energy, it appears certain, will result in legislation carrying this into effect during the sessions of the Sixty-sixth Congress. Western and Southwestern Senators and Representatives are all in favor of it, and the great enterprise is gaining friends in all parts of the country.

Several bills have been introduced to get a start on this great work. Congressman Hanali of California today reintroduced a bill to improve the Colorado. In speaking of its importance, he said:

"The Grand Canyon of the Colorado River contains power and irrigation resources which stagger the human mind in their gigantic possibilities. Enough power is going to waste there to run every engine west of Denver, and it is so cheap that coal looks like 20 cents a ton. The series of dams will hold back the vast flood waters which run to the sea, imperiling millions of dollars in property in the Imperial Valley and other places. This plan does not deprive Mexico of one drop of the normal flow of the river, but conserves only the floods.

"A startling innovation in dam building is proposed as the great steel and concrete structure may be anchored to the granite walls of the canyon and will not touch the bottom of the river. The normal river flow will pass under the dam, thus tending continually to deepen and scour the river bed instead of filling it with silt behind each dam. Noted engineers have studied this scheme and given it approval.

"This ranks second only to the Panama Canal as a governmental constructive enterprise, and it will give homes and prosperity to literally millions who will tap the fabulous wealth of Southwestern United States."

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE.

MILWAUKEE, May 20.—Three men were killed and four injured in an explosion which wrecked the interior of the Smith-Parry Elevator today. Fire following the blast caused an estimated loss of $100,000. Officials of the firm are unable to account for the explosion.

SLASH TAX, FIRST AIM.

Congress Plans to Lighten Burden.

Republican Revenue Legislation Planned Anticipated Wilson's Urge.

Majority Divided on Excess Profits Impost; Tariff is Handled Gingerly.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Measures to lessen the burden of war taxation are to be presented to Congress at the earliest feasible moment, Republican leaders said today, following the reading of the President's message in each house.

The Republican revenue legislation programme, which had been formulated before the receipt of the message and which, with a few exceptions, anticipated Mr. Wilson's recommendations, follows:

(1.) Immediate repeal of luxury taxes.

(3.) Imposition of protective duties on imports of dyes and related chemicals and products of other American industries developed by the war.

(4.) Consideration of a general revision of the tariff upward to afford protection and enable further reductions of direct taxation.

The luxury taxes, which yield little revenue compared with the expense and inconvenience of collection, are to be repealed by a joint resolution of Congress, which is scheduled for passage within the next fortnight. There is virtually no opposition to this measure.

REVISE DIRECT TAX.

The income, excess profits and other direct taxes which will accrue this year are not to be reduced. The Ways and Means Committee, however, soon will announce public hearings at which business men will be invited to present their views of the revision that should be made in the taxes accruing after December 31, 1919. The entire direct tax law is to be overhauled and simplified and taxes on smaller incomes scaled down materially.

There will be much controversy over the recommendation of the President to perpetuate excess profit taxes. The Republican majority is divided on the question. The Ways and Means Committee is divided.

Representative Copley of Illinois, a majority member of the committee, proposed abolition of the excess profits tax on corporations.

"The present excess profits tax as applied to earnings of corporations is absolutely unsound from an economic standpoint," he said. "I favor income taxes reaching into the pockets of individuals after they get their profits from business. But to take the tax out of the business itself tends to prevent needed expansion and the investment of new capital.

"Recently, a man with a good plan for the financing of a new coal company tried to interest a number of men in Chicago. They all told him it was useless as long as the excess profits tax is in effect. When a man can loan his money for 6 or 7 per cent. on good security and let the other fellow do the worrying why should he go into business for himself if he has no chance to make much larger profits?"

BRAKES ON TARIFF.

On tariff legislation the Republicans will go as far as is feasible in view of the President's clear indication in the message that he would veto general tariff revision. There will be clear sailing on the proposition of protecting dyes and chemicals, his recommendation therefor having been anticipated by the Republican programme.

Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee insists that Congress go further immediately and revise the tariff upward generally. On the other hand, Senator Penrose, who probably will be chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, sees no necessity for immediate revision.

"I agree with that part of the message which says there is no immediate occasion for a general tariff revision," Mr. Penrose said today. "There is no reason, however, why it is not the duty of Congress to carefully study the question of industrial preparedness. Sooner or later American industries will need adequate protective duties to preserve their prosperity.

"Just now the world is upset;

WILSON'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

President Wilson in his message to Congress, which was cabled from Paris and read in both houses yesterday, recommended:

Repeal of the wartime prohibition act in so far as it relates to wines and beers.

Perpetuation of excess-profits taxes at reduced rates for curbing exorbitant earnings; revision of income taxes; adjustment of Federal inheritance taxes to State inheritance taxes; repeal of the excise taxes on manufactures and retail sales, and imposition of new indirect taxes to offset the loss of revenue from the forthcoming prohibition of the manufacture of liquor.

Legislation to provide uniform service in the case of the railroads, which will be returned to their owners December 31, 1919, and of the telegraph and telephone lines, which will be relinquished by the government as soon as the President can formulate the conditions.

An increase in the tariff on dyestuffs and on related chemicals, also used in the manufacture of explosives, in order to protect these infant American industries from the ruinous competition of the German articles and make America independent of foreign sources of supply.

Authority to impose retaliatory tariffs to protect the United States from hostile tariff legislation by other countries, as recommended by previous Republican administrations.

Legislation to promote foreign trade in a way to make friends instead of enemies abroad, and to assist in re-establishing a sound basis of credit in all countries and in this connection elimination of restrictions on shipyards accepting foreign orders.

Co-ordination of the several agencies of Federal conciliation and adjustment of labor disputes and creation of "new Federal agencies of advice and information," designed to point the way to democratization of industry.

Continuation and extension of the Federal employment service to assist discharged soldiers and sailors in obtaining work, and passage of Secretary of the Interior Lane's bill to reclaim waste lands as homesteads for war veterans.

THURSDAY IS TIME LIMIT FOR HUNS; NO EXTENSION

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, May 20.—The German plenipotentiaries will deliver their observations on the peace treaty terms Wednesday of this week. No extension of time for replying has been given them.

The general impression in conference circles is that the Germans will ultimately sign the treaty.

BERLIN, May 20.—The German reply to the peace terms will be handed to the representatives of the Allied and associated powers Thursday, the Tageblatt says. The contents of the reply, it is added, will adhere closely to the German version of President Wilson's fourteen points. [The fifteen days given the Germans to make a reply to the peace treaty will expire Thursday.]

COPENHAGEN, May 20.—The conference of political leaders and German peace delegates at Spa Sunday agreed that the peace terms were unacceptable, according to a German semiofficial statement, and that Germany will leave no stone unturned in an attempt to find a practicable basis of peace which takes into account our opponents' justifiable damands and those capable of being borne and carried out by the German people."

PARIS, May 20.—The answer of the council of four to the German note regarding reparations, which will be handed to the Germans tonight, points out, in reply to the German refusal to admit responsibility for the war damage, that it is impossible to disassociate responsibility from reparation.

The reply recalls that the Germans raised no objection to Secretary Lansing's note of last November 5, in which he spoke of German aggression.

LATER DISPATCHES

Trieste "Hangman" Goes

ST. GERMAIN-EN-LAYE, May 20.—Judge Schumacher, attached to the Austrian delegation as a representative of Tyrol, has left for Vienna. The presence of Judge Schumacher caused much unfavorable comment because of his repressive activities against the Italians at Trieste, where he was stationed during the war. The French press gave him the nickname of "The Hangman of Trieste" and Italians here showed decided irritation because he was a member of the Austrian delegation.

It was believed that Chancellor Karl Renner, whose role here will evidently be one of friendly understanding, if possible, has retired Judge Schumacher to avoid trouble.

Taft Defends Treaty

BOSTON, May 20.—Former President William Howard Taft vigorously defended the Versailles peace treaty at the annual meeting of the American Unitarian Association today after the Rev. H. W. Pinkham had urged adoption of a resolution attacking the treaty as a violation of the principles upon which a lasting peace could be obtained.

"The treaty," said Mr. Taft, "is a recital of the fact that the wages of sin is death and that people who have violated and outraged justice and right, as the German people have, should be restrained by a treaty that will keep them on their knees."

Bailey is Denver Mayor

DENVER, May 20.—Dewey C. Bailey, commissioner of safety and excise, was elected Mayor of Denver today by a majority of between 4000 and 5000 over all candidates in today's nonpartisan municipal election, according to returns received from more than half the precincts in the city late tonight. These returns gave Bailey a lead of 2202 over his principal opponent, Case E. Herrington, an attorney. The votes of the three other candidates were negligible.

Redfield Sees Light

NEW YORK, May 20.—The experience of the nation in Federal operation of railroads, the merchant marine and the telegraph and telephone lines has convinced Secretary of Commerce Redfield that such government operation of the great systems of intercommunication in a country as large as the United States is not a good thing. Speaking at a dinner of the Purchasing Agents' Association here tonight, he announced this as his own "settled judgment."

Another Hun Note

PARIS, May 20.—The German delegation this evening sent another note to the secretariat of the Peace Conference. This is the tenth communication forwarded by the enemy representatives.

C-5 WRECKAGE IS FOUND.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) May 20.—The belief that the wreck of the navy dirigible C-5, which broke from its moorings at St. John's, N. F., and was swept to sea is driving somewhere close to the coast of Atlantic City was given credence today when a piece of the "blimp" was found on the beach at the foot of Nashville avenue. It was a gray board, which had evidently been cast up by the sea. "C-5" was printed on it.

BATTLE ON OVER BEER

President Starts a National Fight.

Wets are Reticent in Comment on Recommendation to Lift Ban.

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 20.—With the majority of the United States geographically dry, President Wilson's proposal in his message to Congress today to repeal the wartime prohibition act as it applies to wines and beer has stirred the nation probably as no other one of his recommendations.

Congress will not restore beer and wine for the rest of the year without a bitter fight, and many Congressmen who are liberal enough to grant the change suggested will not dare to vote their views if they expect re-election from their districts.

Senator Jones of Washington today gave notice that he would fight for the retention of the wartime prohibition as now provided, and many other western men will sustain the drys in retaining the present law.

Not only do the drys believe they can put on pressure enough to hold the present law on the statute books, but they are now planning for a world-wide prohibition movement. Active work on this campaign will start in a month, and under no circumstances, say the leaders of the movement, will Congress be permitted to repeal the existing act.

DRYS NOT SURPRISED.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The Anti-Saloon League was not "much surprised" at President Wilson's recommendation to Congress that the war-time prohibition law be repealed, William H. Anderson, superintendent of the New York State branch, declared in a statement issued here today.

"The vets were unable to keep from telling, after the return of Samuel Gompers, that some assurance had been given," Mr. Anderson's statement said.

"We shall be very much surprised if the Republican party permits the President to put it in the hole on this question."

Plans of the league to have church congregations throughout the country adopt resolutions on June 8 calling on Congress to pass "adequate" enforcement laws for both the wartime and permanent prohibition acts will be modified, he said, so as to make of the meetings "monster mass meeting to protest against the repeal."

The Association Opposed to National Prohibition was "neither surprised nor over-jubilant over the President's recommendation," it declared in a statement, explaining that it had received "advices from Paris" two weeks ago that the President contemplated such action.

HINSHAW CONDEMNS.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Virgil G. Hinshaw, chairman of the Prohibition party's national committee, in a statement tonight condemned the proposal to Congress in President Wilson's message today to remove the July 1 ban on light wines and beer. His statement concluded with the words that "every patriot should see to it that Congress represents the people at this time on the liquor question and not the ideas even of a great Chief Executive when his ideas are not in harmony with as many as one-third of the people."

While the liquor forces were said to be jubilant over the President's recommendation, William G. Logner, head of the Brewers' Association, called attention to a 40 per cent. reduction in beer drinking since 1917. He said that, should Congress lift the ban, the brewers doubtless would resume beer making, but said none of the several dismantled breweries would be rehabilitated.

PRESBYTERIANS "PAINED."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, May 20. — President Wilson was criticised today by commissioners to the one hundred and thirty-first general assembly of the Presbyterian Church, United States of America, for requesting Congress to repeal or amend the wartime prohibition act and a resolution was adopted urging Congress to sustain the law. President Wilson is an elder in the church. A copy of the resolution will be cabled to the President. It follows:

"This assembly learns with pain that the President of the United States has recommended to Congress that it repeal a part End Wartime Dry Regime, Give Nation Beer and Light Wine, Wilson Advises Congress.

MESSAGE READ; PLANS FORMED.

Suffrage Amendment Comes up in House Today.

Congress Leaders Say Liquor Ban will Stay.

Prompt Action on Return of Utilities Seen.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—President Wilson's cabled message outlining legislation for the extra session of the new Congress was read separately in the Senate and House today by clerks, and arrangements were made by Congressional leaders for immediate consideration of the vast legislative programme with the equal suffrage resolution to come up tomorrow in the House.

Major recommendations of the President were for early return to private ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones, for repeal of wartime prohibition, in so far as applying to beer and wines; for woman suffrage, reciprocity tariffs, protection of the dyestuff industry and labor and employment measures. The President announced his intention to turn back the railroads at the end of the calendar year.

Republican leaders met the President's proposals for early return of public utilities by statements that such legislation already was planned. As to the prohibition recommendation, both Republican and Democratic "dry" leaders joined in vigorous statements dissenting from the President's suggestions, and predicting that no beer and wine repeal would be passed. Opinion in both Senate and House as ascertained by leaders was general that the ban on beer and wine would not be lifted.

Presentation of the President's message—the first ever transmitted to this country by cable—was the principal business of today's session. Neither the Senate nor House were in session much more than an hour, the former adjourning until next Friday and the House until tomorrow. Before the President's message was read, the House arranged to take up tomorrow the woman suffrage resolution. Its adoption before adjournment is planned. Senate leaders have promised prompt action in the upper body, probably early this month.

MANY SENATE BILLS.

The flood of bills and resolutions opened in the Senate today, while scores more were thrown into the House hopper which yesterday received about 1200. The principal measures in the Senate asked for copies of the peace treaty, for abolition of the American policy in Russia, adoption of woman suffrage, establishment of a Federal budget system and repeal of the luxury taxes and the daylight-saving law. All were referred to committees. Democratic Senators objecting to all requests for immediate consideration.

Republican plans for many investigations were launched in a resolution by Chairman Greene of the House Merchant Marine Committee, proposing inquiry into operations of the Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation. Representative Welty of Ohio asked for an investigation by a nonpartisan committee on "irregular and unlawful expenditures."

After Mr. Greene had introduced the resolution Republican members of the Merchant Marine Committee met with Speaker Gillett and the Republican legislative steering committee and decided that any Shipping Board investigation, relating to its past activities, would be by a special committee. This, they said, would leave the Merchant Marine Committee, proper, to consider the question of policy and future legislation affecting the merchant fleet.

Of the recommendations in the President's message, those for return to private ownership of railroads and wires and repeal of wartime prohibition against beer and wines drew most comment from Congressional leaders. It was agreed that legislation dealing with the public utilities virtually is assured at the present session. Leaders also were interested in the President's statement that if he was familiar with administrative questions affecting telegraph and telephone systems he could "name the exact date for their return, also."

In proposing the beer and wine repeal measure, the President said that "demobilization of the military forces . . . has proceeded to such a point that it seems to me entirely safe now to remove the ban upon manufacture and sale of wines and beers." Legislation is necessary to remove the prohibition provisions, the President said he had been informed by his legal advisers.

Senator Sheppard of Texas, Democrat, and Representative Randall of California, prohibitionist, champions of the war-time "dry" law, and other prohibition advocates, issued statements announcing determined opposition to repeal legislation. They declared a large majority of Congress favors prohibition and predicted the repeal measure would not be enacted. Some Republican leaders charged the President with shifting responsibility to the Republican Congress and said that all he would gain would be criticism of prohibitionists.

Republicans of the House Ways and Means Committee plan to meet before the end of the week to consider tariff and other revenue legislation. Some Republican members said that hearings of business men should decide whether there should be a tariff revision, while some said a general revision was impossible because of the unsettled condition of world affairs.

Organization of Senate and House was pushed forward today at a committee conference of House Republicans, a meeting of the Republican Steering Committee with Speaker Gillett and an initial meeting of the Republican Senators' Committee on Committees. The Democratic Steering Committee will meet tomorrow to consider minority changes.

PROPOSED SENATE MEASURES.

Purchase of Lower California and also a tract of Northern Sonora were proposed in a resolution today by Senator Ashurst, Democrat of Arizona, which was referred without action to the Foreign Relations Committee.

Bills for the expulsion from the country of aliens who escape military service by withdrawing their applications for citizenship, and defining sedition, were introduced by Senator Jones, Republican, of Washington.

TEXT OF PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE, CABLED FROM FRANCE

WASHINGTON, MAY 20.—PRESIDENT WILSON IN HIS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS TODAY RECOMMENDED REPEAL OF THE WAR-TIME PROHIBITION LAW—SO FAR AS IT APPLIES TO WINE AND BEER ONLY; ANNOUNCED DEFINITELY THAT THE RAILROAD SYSTEMS AND TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE LINES WOULD BE RETURNED TO PRIVATE OWNERSHIP; URGED A REVISION OF WAR TAXES, PARTICULARLY TO ABOLISH THE MANUFACTURERS' AND RETAIL SALES EXCISES; AND OUTLINED GENERALLY A PROGRAM RESPECTING LABOR. THESE WERE THE "HIGH SPOTS" OF THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE CABLED FROM PARIS. THE MESSAGE FOLLOWS:

Gentlemen of the Congress:

I deeply regret my inability to be present at the opening of the extraordinary session of Congress. It still seems to be my duty to take part in the counsels of the Peace Conference and contribute what I can to the solution of the innumerable questions to whose settlement it has had to address itself. For they are questions which affect the peace of the whole world and from them, therefore, the United States cannot stand apart. I deemed it my duty to call the Congress together at this time because it was not wise to postpone longer the provisions which must be made for the support of the government. Many of the appropriations which are absolutely necessary for the maintenance of the government and the fulfillment of its varied obligations for the fiscal year 1919-1920 have not yet been made; the end of the present fiscal year is at hand; and action upon these appropriations can no longer be prudently delayed. It is necessary, therefore, that I should immediately call your attention to this critical need. It is hardly necessary for me to urge that it may receive your prompt attention. I shall take the liberty of addressing you on my return on the subjects which have most engrossed our attention and the attention of the world during these last anxious months, since the armistice of last November was signed, the international settlements of which must form the subject matter of the present treaties of peace and of our national action in the immediate future. It would be premature to discuss them or to express a judgment about them before they are brought to their complete formulation by the agreements which are now being sought at the table of the conference. I shall hope to lay them before you in their many aspects as soon as arrangements have been reached.

LABOR QUESTION.

I hesitate to venture any opinion or press any recommendation with regard to domestic legislation while absent from the United States and out of daily touch with intimate sources of information and counsel. I am conscious that I need, after so long an absence from Washington, to seek the advice of those who have remained in constant contact with domestic problems and who have known them close at hand from day to day; and I trust that it will very soon be possible for me to do so. But there are several questions pressing for consideration to which I feel that I may and indeed must even now direct your attention, if in only general terms. In speaking of them I shall, I dare say, be doing little more than speak your own thoughts. I hope that I shall speak your own judgment also. The question which stands at the front of all others in every country amid the present great awakening is the question of labor, and perhaps I can speak of it with as great advantage while engrossed in the consideration of interests which affect all countries alike as I could at home and amid the interests which naturally most affect my thought, because they are the interests of our own people.

By the question of labor I do not mean the question of efficient industrial production; the question of how labor is to be obtained and made effective in the great process of sustaining populations and winning success amid commercial and industrial rivalries. I mean that much greater and more vital question, how are the men and women who do the daily labor of the world to obtain progressive improvement in the conditions of their labor, to be made happier, and to be served better by the communities and the industries which their labor sustains and advances? How are they to be given their right advantage as citizens and human beings?

URGES PARTNERSHIP.

We cannot go any further in our present direction. We have already gone too far. We cannot live our right life as a nation or achieve our proper success as an industrial community if capital and labor are to continue to be antagonistic instead of being partners; if they are to continue to distrust one another and contrive how they can get the better of one another. Or, what perhaps amounts to the same thing, calculate by what form and degree of coercion they can manage to extort, on the one hand, work enough to make enterprise profitable; on the other, justice and fair treatment enough to make life tolerable. That bad road has turned out a blind alley. It is no thoroughfare to real prosperity. We must find another, leading in another direction, and to a very different destination. It must lead not merely to accommodation, but also to a genuine co-operation and partnership, based upon a real community of interest and participation in control.

There is now in fact a real community of interest between capital and labor, but it has never been made evident in action. It can be made operative and manifest only in a new organization of industry. The genius of our business men and the sound practical sense of our workers can certainly work such a partnership out when once they realize exactly what it is that they seek and sincerely adopt a common purpose with regard to it.

Labor legislation lies, of course, chiefly with the States; but the new spirit and method of organization which must be effected are not to be brought about by legislation so much as by the common counsel and voluntary co-operation of capitalist, manager and workman. Legislation can go only a very little way in commanding what shall be done. The organization of industry is a matter of corporate and individual initiative and of practical business arrangement. Those who really desire a new relationship between capital and labor can readily find a way to bring it about and perhaps Federal legislation can help more than State legislation could.

POSITIVE LEGISLATION.

The object of all reform in this essential matter must be the genuine democratization of industry, based upon a full recognition of the right of those who work, in whatever rank, to participate in some organic way in every decision which directly affects their welfare or the part they are to play in industry. Some positive legislation is practicable. The Congress has already shown the way to one reform which should be world wide, by establishing the eight-hour day as the standard day in every field of labor over which it can exercise control. It has sought to find the way to prevent child labor, and will, I hope and believe, presently find it. It has served the whole country by leading the way in developing the means of preserving and safeguarding life and health in dangerous industries. It can now help in the difficult task of giving a new form and spirit to industrial organization by co-ordinating the several agencies of conciliation and adjustment, which have been brought into existence by the difficulties and mistaken policies of the present management of industry, and by setting up and developing new Federal agencies of advice and information which may serve as a clearinghouse for the best experiments and the thought on this great matter, upon which every thinking man must be aware that the future development of society directly depends.

Agencies of international counsel and suggestion are presently to be created in connection with the League of Nations in this very field; but it is national action and the enlightened policy of individuals, corporations and societies within each nation that must bring about the actual reforms. The members of the Committees on Labor in the two houses will hardly need suggestions from me as to what means they shall seek to make the Federal government the agent of the whole nation in pointing out and, if need be, guiding the process of reorganization and reform.

I am sure that it is not necessary for me to remind you that there is one immediate and very practical question of labor that we should meet in the most liberal spirit. We must see to it that our returning soldiers are assisted in every practicable way to find the places for which they are fitted in the daily work of the country. This can be done by developing and maintaining upon an adequate scale, the admirable organization created by the Department of Labor for placing men seeking work; and it can be also be done, in at least one very great field, by creating new opportunities for individual enterprise. The Secretary of the Interior has pointed out the way by which returning soldiers may be helped to find and take up land in the hitherto undeveloped regions of the country which the Federal government has prepared or can readily prepare for cultivation and for many of the cut-over or neglected areas which lie within the limits of the older States; and I once more take the liberty of recommending very urgently that his plans shall receive the immediate and substantial support of the Congress.

Peculiar and very stimulating conditions await our commerce and industrial enterprise in the immediate future. Unusual opportunities will presently present themselves to our merchants and producers in foreign markets and large fields for profitable investment will be opened to our free capital. But it is not only of that that I am thinking; it is not chiefly of that that I am thinking. Many great industries prostrated by the war wait to be rehabilitated in many parts of the world where what will be lacking is not brains or willing hands or organizing capacity or experienced skill, but machinery and raw materials and capital. I believe that our business men, our merchants, our manufacturers and our capitalists will have the vision to see that prosperity in one part of the world ministers to prosperity everywhere. That there is in a very true sense a solidarity of interest throughout the world of enterprise, and that our dealings with the countries that have need of our products and our money will teach them to deem us more than ever friends whose necessities we seek in the right way to serve.

AS TO COMMERCE.

Our new merchant ships which have in some quarters been feared as destructive rivals, may prove helpful rivals, rather, and common servants, very much needed and very welcome. Our great shipyards, new and old, will be so commerce does not yet run in its normal channels; the importation of foreign goods is not excessive. But industrial preparedness is just as essential as military preparedness. The latter was sorely lacking under the present administration, and apparently no steps have been taken by the administration looking toward industrial preparedness.

"We must make equal preparations if we are to bear our part. We read the propositions advanced in Europe for subsidies, including government subsidies for many industries.

"The cherished free trade conditions of England are set aside and it is openly urged that preferential rates be given the colonies, that protection be provided for industry through a license system or an embargo, ultimately resulting in the practice of the theory of the protective tariff."

FRENCH STATESMEN FOR WOMEN VOTERS.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, May 20.—Two former prime ministers, Viviani and Briand, have declared themselves in favor of suffrage for women in France. "It is inadmissible," says Briand, "after this war that the rights of women should be inferior to those of men." Viviani says he cannot conceive Parliament rejecting suffrage reform.

"Back in Three Hours or Not at All."—Towers

TREPASSEY, N. F., May 16.

"IF WE don't come back in three hours we won't come back at all," said Commander J. H. Towers of the NC-3 today just before the start of the flight. Commander P. N. Bellinger of the NC-1 concurred in this forecast.

That statement of Commander Towers is characteristic of the courage of the men of this country. In it rings the truth as pure and convincing as the tones of America's Liberty Bell.

Our hats are off to Commander Towers and the other Americans for this remarkable 1919 achievement and for the courage displayed in this epochal event.

And, speaking of courage—you men who have been in the habit of wearing plain, sedate clothes—let us suggest that you become acquainted with the cheerful new styles for Spring and Summer wear, now brightening our clothing salesrooms.

WILSON'S IRONY ANSWERS HUNS.

Can Buy All Food They Want from Allies, He Says.

Besides, Fewer Mouths to Feed by Loss of Lands.

PARIS, May 20.—The Allied plenipotentiaries have sent an answer full of irony to the German objections to the economic provisions of the peace treaty.

The complaint of the Allies taking the mines and nitrate beds is combatted with the suggestion that nothing in the peace treaty will prevent Germany buying these commodities of other nations.

Germany's complaint that her merchant shipping was confiscated is responded to by the statement that the retention of German vessels will not nearly compensate the Allies for the ships wantonly destroyed by German submarines. Germany's complaint that large numbers of her seamen thrown out of work through this means brings the response that more Allied citizens have been prevented from following the sea on account of the ravages of German submarines.

One of the finest pieces of irony is the answer of the Allies to the German complaint that through the deprivation of agricultural lands she is unable to feed her population. The Allies tell the Germans that agricultural products are easily obtained from other countries and besides the reduction of population through the loss of territory leaves fewer mouths to feed.

JUNE 8 DEAD LINE.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, May 19.—The Germans probably will have until the end of the first week in June to say yes or no regarding their signature of the peace treaty. The German counter-proposals, due this week, are expected in French circles to be so elaborate and voluminous the inter-Allied delegates scarcely can finish their consideration before June 1. The Germans then will be given, according to the prevailing impression in French official circles, an additional week to consider the Allied reply. It will, therefore, be known by approximately June 8, according to this French schedule, whether Germany will sign the treaty. The actual signature may come several days later, the interval being necessary to give time for engrossing the document in final form.

An intercepted wireless dispatch from Nauen denies stories of a disagreement between Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau and Philipp Scheidemann, German Chancellor, and states the German peace mission and the home government are in perfect accord.

TURKEY TOUGH CUTTING.

PARIS, May 20.—The British have introduced a new element into the Allied plans for the complete partition of Turkey by proposing that Constantinople remain the political possession of the Sultan. The British position is that a semblance of the old Turkish empire should be retained by the Allies and have planned to ask the United States to accept a mandate for the administration of Constantinople. In this connection it is confirmed that Turkey be partitioned without negotiation in the peace treaty.

The council of four is finding the partition of Turkey a difficult problem. While an agreement has been reached it apparently will be necessary to make revisions, which are under consideration.

Turkish resistance to the landing of the Greeks at Smyrna last week and the Mohammedan protests in Afghanistan, India and Egypt, doubtless induced the British government to seek a revision of the agreement.

The danger of a holy war is influencing the council, which has been advised that radical changes are inadvisable without more foreign troops at strategic points to steady the situation.

SHANTUNG AGREEMENT.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, May 19.—The peace treaty clause concerning the Shantung settlement contains no provision respecting its return to China, which, it is understood, lies in an agreement of some character, possibly a verbal agreement between President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George and Baron Makino. The text follows:

"Germany renounces in favor of Japan all her rights, title and privileges, particularly those concerning the territory of Kiao-Chow, railways mines and submarine cables, which she acquired by virtue of the treaty concluded by her with China March 6, 1898, and of all other arrangements relative to the province of Shantung.

"All German rights in the Tsing-tao-Tsinan Fu Railway, including its branch lines, together with its subsidiary property of all kinds, stations, shops, fixed rolling stock, mines, plant and material for the exploitation of mines, are to remain acquired by Japan together with all rights and privileges attaching thereto.

"The German submarine cables from Tsing-tao to Shanghai and from Tsing-tao to Chefoo with all rights, privileges and properties attaching thereto, are similarly acquired by Japan free and clear of all charges and incumbrances.

"Movable and immovable property owned by the German state in the territory of Kiao-Chow, as well as all rights which Germany may claim in consequence of works or improvements made or other expenses incurred by her directly or indirectly, in connection with this territory are, and remain, acquired by Japan, free and clear of all charges and incumbrances.

"Germany shall hand over to Japan within three months from the coming into force of the present treaty, the archives, registers, title deeds and documents of every kind, wherever they may be, relating to the administration, civil or military, financial or judicial, or other, of the territory of Kiau-Chow.

"Within the same period Germany shall give particulars to Japan of all treaties, arrangements and agreements by Jonkheer Karnebeek, Dutch and privileges referred to in the two preceding articles."

DUTCH-BELGIAN TREATY.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, May 19.—The council of Foreign Ministers today heard arguments by Jonkheer Karnebeek, Dutch Foreign Minister, and Paul Hymans, Belgian Minister of Foreign Affairs, regarding proposed revision of the treaty of 1839.

VERSAILLES, May 19.—Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German peace delegation, called the presidents of the different commissions together today to lay before them instructions he had received at Spa. He also gave instructions for the drafting of a bulletin which will be submitted to Berlin for approval.

LONDON, May 19.—Replying to a question in the House of Commons, Andrew Bonar Law, government spokesman, said the council of four, for reasons which could not be disclosed, considered the publication in full of the peace terms undesirable and a similar course was being followed in the Allied parliaments.

REPORT PARADE BY WIRELESS TO SHIPS.

SAN FRANCISCO HAS PAGEANT IN HONOR OF NAVY, MARINE AND COAST GUARD.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Wireless telephony as a parade feature was tried out here today in the big special pageant in honor of the navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard. A wireless telephone set, mounted on a truck, reported the progress of the parade to ships in the harbor and to a station in the civic center.

Big naval guns and torpedo tubes shot out clouds of confetti on the bystanders. Organized singing by the units from the San Francisco naval training station, led by their band, was a feature, also.

Two non-sinkable lifeboats from the life-saving stations here, mounted on trucks and fully manned, attracted much attention.

While the old battleship Oregon, the cruiser Marblehead and a fleet of smaller naval vessels swung at anchor in the bay, San Francisco put on a big display. In the pageant through the heart of the city, naval units from San Pedro, Balboa Park, Mare Island, Goat Island and points outside of California were represented.

Floats depicted the scenes through which the marines passed at Belleau Wood and Chateau Thierry. At one point the paraders passed through a line of war camp community girls, who hailed them with songs and flowers.

After brief addresses at the Civic Auditorium, the paraders sat down to long tables arranged picnic style in the civic center.

WILL ELUCIDATE LEAGUE POINTS.

Expert to Explain Clauses to the Senate.

Hitchcock Predicts Pact will be Ratified.

Says Divorcement Would Entail Peace Delay.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, May 20.—Some one of the leading experts on international affairs connected with the American peace mission may go to Washington shortly to explain doubtful points found in the covenant of the League of Nations while it is under examination in the American Congress, and in this connection the name of David Miller, the principal expert among the Americans who took part in preparing and drafting the document, has been mentioned.

It is the view of American authorities here that such personal explanation by an expert who had taken part in the framing of the document would elucidate a number of points which reports received in Paris showed to be matters of controversy in America.

PREDICTS RATIFICATION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska predicted in a statement today that the Senate would ratify the covenant of the League of Nations and that the necessary majority vote to amend it or separate it from the peace treaty would not be obtained.

Senator Hitchcock has been the chief spokesman for the administration throughout the long Senate controversy over the League of Nations and his statement generally was regarded as a reply to that issued last night by Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, who said the league covenant was not acceptable to a majority of the Senate.

"The supporters of the peace treaty in the Senate are confronted by divided forces," said Senator Hitchcock. "First, there are those who would like to eliminate the article of the treaty which established the League of Nations. Second, there are those who profess to support the League of Nations, but insist on amending some of the provisions to meet their own particular views.

DOOMED TO FAIL.

"Either of these plans to succeed must receive the support of a majority of the Senate. In other words, the opponents of ratification can beat the treaty by securing one-third of the votes of the Senate to reject the treaty, but in order to amend it they must secure a majority of the votes of the Senate.

"It would require a majority of votes, of course, to strike out the League of Nations article just as it would require a majority to change any part of the League of Nations. It must be evident to everybody that while the Senate can amend the treaty, such amended treaty could not possibly go into effect until all of the nations party to the treaty accepted the amendment. If one refused to accept it that would produce a deadlock and make peace impossible. For all to accept any Senate amendments, even if it were possible, would require a long period of time and that would greatly delay the advent of peace. I can not conceive a majority of Senators will be able to unite on a programme which would produce either of these enormous evils."

INGREASED RATES MAY AFFECT LIVING.

DIRECTOR-GENERAL SOUNDS A WARNING ON THE RAILROAD SITUATION.

CINCINNATI (O.) May 20.—"In my judgment, we ought not to be precipitate in increasing transportation rates," declared Walker D. Hines, Director-General of Railroads, before the convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station House Employees, here today.

"One of the greatest problems confronting the American public," he continued, "is how to prevent further increase in the cost of living and how to get the high cost of living down to a normal basis without interfering with the standard of wages, and improved working conditions that have justly been granted to the workers. There is serious danger, in increasing transportation rates, of giving a pretext for unnecessary and unjustifiable advance in prices of necessities. An increase of railroad rates to produce the $300,000,000 a year needed to cover the deficit in revenue to meet expenses, might result in adding billions to the cost of food, clothing and other articles. In the name of humanity such a condition must be averted, if possible. And I am hopeful that it is possible.

"We are in a period of transition. Business conditions are going to improve for railroads, and improvements will be effected in efficiencies and economies which undoubtedly will increase the revenue and reduce the expenditures, so that it may not be necessary to advance rates; at least, not materially," he added.

VIOLENT RIOTING IS REPORTED AT STETTIN.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, Monday, May 19 (via Copenhagen.)—Violent rioting is again reported at Stettin, where nine civilians and twenty soldiers have been killed. German troops occupy the station houses throughout the city.

It is announced officially that Germany is ready to permit an American commission to enter Germany to obtain information concerning American property here, provided, however, that German representatives be allowed to go to the United States on a similar mission.

WORLD CRUSADE, IS DRYS' REPLY.

Presbyterians are "Pained" at Wilson Views.

of wartime prohibition, and in view of this fact we most earnestly petition Congress that it not only retain the measure, but that the measure be enforced to the fullest extent to the end that the needs of the world for food may be met, and that the efficiency and morale of our own people be preserved."

When the resolution was read, the commissioners applauded for several minutes.

The Rev. Dr. W. M. Hindman of Columbus, O., declared "such a stand is very unbecoming for an elder in the Presbyterian church, and for a man holding so high an office as that of the President of the United States."

B. E. Prugh of Harrisburgh, Pa., State chairman of the prohibition organization of Pennsylvania, asserted "this is the second time President Wilson has stepped in to befriend the liquor interests and means the undoing of all that has been done."

Enforcement of wartime prohibition was emphasized further in the report of the Temperance Committee which requested Congress to "oppose all efforts to rescind any part of wartime prohibition to become effective July 1." The report advocated world prohibition.

The committee deplored the use of cigarettes, especially by women, and urged upon Presbyterians the nonuse of them.

SAN FRANCISCO JUBILANT.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Word of President Wilson's recommendation of Congress that wartime prohibition be suspended in so far as wine and beer are concerned was the signal today for a city-wide outburst of joy by those interested, led by representatives of the San Francisco Brewers and dispensers.

Dudolph Samet, president of the California State Brewers' Association, announced that he has arranged to renew brewing of beer immediately, and that in San Francisco a daily output of 600,000 gallons, compared with an output of 325,000 gallons when brewing ceased, will be started.

He also announced that plans for removal of breweries to China or elsewhere will be temporarily abandoned.

Brewery whistles, including a large siren on one of them, were blown when the news of the President's recommendation spread.

California's 1919 vintage of 350,000 acres of wine grapes, valued at $10,500,000, will be saved if President Wilson's recommendation that the war-time prohibition on wines and beer be suspended is favorably acted upon by Congress, officials of the California Grape Protective Association said here today.

An action to enjoin the United States attorney from enforcing the provisions of this legislation is set for hearing in the United States district court here on Monday, May 26.

Hundreds of Italian and other aliens interested in wine grape growing and wine manufacture are leaving the country, according to the office of the collector of internal revenue here. The office announced it understood that a special steamer had been chartered to take a large number of Italians out of this port to Italy, but no confirmation of this report could be secured.

"Very favorable news just coming from Washington. Barley and malt market is wild. Seems certain that country is not going dry July 1."

This is the optimistic message which came by telegraph yesterday to local brewers. It bore upon President Wilson's recommendation regarding the making of wine and beer.

It was the cause for great rejoicing among the malters, who have close to $3,000,000 invested in the manufacture of beer and other malted products here.

ZOBELEIN DELIGHTED.

Edward Zobelein, secretary of the East Side Brewing Company, said he was delighted, but not overconfident. "The message sent to Congress by President Wilson is hopeful, but by no means final," was his comment. "We are hopeful, however, that we will be allowed to continue manufacturing beer."

At the Maier Brewing Company's plant it was said that everything was in running order and ready to produce capacity output whenever Congress says the word. "We have been hopeful all along that the country would not go dry," said one of the officials, "and we have not demobilized our plant."

The dry forces yesterday were disgruntled and discouraged over the text of the President's message.

DR. LOCKE'S VIEW.

Dr. Charles Edward Locke, pastor of the First Methodist Church, says: "This is the greatest blunder President Wilson has made. It will defeat all political ambitions of himself and his party."

MRS. GRIFFITH AMAZED.

Mrs. Hester Griffith, past State president of the W.C.T.U., says: "I am amazed at the President's stand. The women of the country will fight with all their might to defeat his request."

SUICIDE, SAYS MONTGOMERY.

Dr. S. T. Montgomery, president of the Anti-saloon League, remarks that it looks as though President Wilson were trying to commit political suicide. "I do not believe Congress will yield to his request," is the way he puts it.

The message of President Wilson to the Sixty-sixth Congress, favoring the manufacture and sale of light beers and wines until national prohibition takes effect, in January, 1920, was the subject of considerable discussion among internal revenue officials at the Federal Building yesterday, and its probable effect on the local drinking situation diagnosed. Of course, Congress may not favor the repeal of the food act involved in the liquor legislation, and in that case there will be no change in the present situation, that calls for war prohibition on July 1 next.

ACTS OF CONGRESS.

The acts of Congress have already clipped the wings of the liquor interests to a large degree. Since September 8, 1917, there has been no whisky manufactured in the country. Since December 1, 1918, there has been no beer brewed except what is known as near-beer, with one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol. The regular beer, whose manufacture was stopped at that time, contained 2¾ per cent. of alcohol. Since May 1, 1919, there has been no wine made for beverage purposes.

When prohibition threatened the wine makers of the local internal revenue district ran their presses right up to the date when the embargo went into effect, last May, and millions of gallons of wine were made. A large percentage of this is yet on hand, but there is no information at the office of Collector Carter as to just how much.

LITTLE REAL BEER.

The indications point in the direction of a very small supply of real beer in the hands of the brewers, for they have been prohibited from manufacture since December 1, 1918. The warehouses were full of beer at that time, but the unpopularity of what is called near-beer has been such that the demand for the real article has been very large. If there is no change in the law, when peace is officially declared, the only beer lawful to make will be the near-beer.

With the enforcement of national prohibition, in January, 1920, the brewers will be interested in a legal definition of just what constitutes "intoxicating" liquor, and it goes without saying that that issue will be fought out to the court of the last resort.

The constitutional amendment will certainly stop the manufacture of real beer, some of which has as much as 2½ per cent. of alcohol, but whether the near-beer will be deemed "intoxicating" within the meaning of the amendment is yet to be threshed out in the courts.

RECOMMENDS LIFTING OF TAX ON LUXURIES.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Among special war taxes which the President in his message to Congress suggested should be eliminated, are those on soda water and so-called luxuries, such as expensive articles of clothing and personal equipment, on proprietary medicinal and toilet preparations and on such manufacturers' products as automobile trucks and accessories, pianos, sporting goods, candy, cameras, electric fans, thermos bottles and motor boats.

Taxes on most of the those articles went into effect May 1, and the collection of them, involving innumerable cases of making small change, has caused much complaint from retailers and purchasers.

STANFORD RANCH IS SOLD BY UNIVERSITY.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—The last 2000 acres of the original 55,000 acres of the Vina ranch, near Chico, has been sold to T. H. Ramsey of Red Bluff, president of the First National Bank of that place it was disclosed here today. The Vina ranch was owned by the late Senator Stanford and was a part of the original foundation of Stanford University.

Nine persons, or groups of persons, within the last two months, have bought various sections of the ranch at the aggregate price of $2,240,000.

opened to the use of the world that they will prove immensely serviceable to every maritime people in restoring, much more rapidly than would otherwise have been possible, the tonnage wantonly destroyed in the war. I have only to suggest that there are many points at which we can facilitate American enterprise in foreign trade by opportune legislation and make it easy for American merchants to go where they will be welcomed as friends rather than as dreaded antagonists. America has a great and honorable service to perform in bringing the commercial and industrial undertakings of the world back to their old scope and swing again, and putting a solid structure of credit under them. All our legislation should be friendly to such plans and purposes.

And credit and enterprise alike will be quickened by timely and helpful legislation with regard to taxation. I hope that the Congress will find it possible to undertake an early reconsideration of Federal taxes in order to make our system of taxation more simple and easy of administration and the taxes themselves as little burdensome as they can be made and yet suffice to support the government and meet all its obligations. The figures to which those obligations have arisen are very great indeed, but they are not so great as to make it difficult for the nation to meet them and meet them, perhaps, in a single generation, by taxes which will neither crush nor discourage. These are not so great as they seem, not so great as the immense sums we have had to borrow, added to the immense sums we have had to raise by taxation, would seem to indicate, for a very large proportion of these sums were raised in order that they might be loaned to the governments with which we were associated in the war, and those loans will, of course, constitute assets, not liabilities, and will not have to be taken care of by our taxpayers.

MAIN TAX SOURCES.

The main thing we shall have to care for is that our taxation shall rest as lightly as possible, on the productive resources of the country, that its rates shall be stable, and that it shall be constant in its revenue-yielding power. We have found the main sources from which it must be drawn. I take it for granted that its mainstays will henceforth be the income tax, the excess profits tax, and the estate tax. All these can so be adjusted to yield constant and adequate returns and yet not constitute a too grievous burden on the taxpayers. A revision of the income tax has already been provided for by the act of 1918, but I think you will find that further changes can be made to advantage, both in the rates of tax and the method of its collection. The excess profits tax need not long be maintained at the rates which were necessary while the enormous expenses of the war had to be borne; but it should be made the basis of a permanent system which will reach undue profits without discouraging the enterprise and activity of our business men. The tax on inheritances ought, no doubt, to be considered in its relation to the fiscal systems of the several States, but it certainly ought to remain a permanent part of the fiscal system of the Federal government also.

Many of the minor taxes provided for in the revenue legislation of 1917 and 1918, which, though no doubt made necessary by the pressing necessities of war time, could hardly find sufficient justification under the easier circumstances of peace, can now happily be got rid of. Among these, I hope you will agree, are the excises upon various manufacturers and the taxes upon retail sales. They are unequal in the incidence on different industries and on different individuals. Their collection is difficult and expensive. Those which are levied upon articles sold at retail are largely evaded by the readjustment of retail prices. On the other hand, I should assume that it is expedient to maintain a considerable range of indirect taxes; and the fact that alcoholic liquors will presently no longer afford a source of revenue by taxation makes it the more necessary that the field should be carefully restudied in order that equivalent sources of revenue may be found which it will be legitimate and not burdensome to draw upon. But you have at hand in the Treasury Department may experts who can advise you upon the matters much better than I can. I can only suggest the lines of a permanent and workable system, and the placing of the taxes where they will least hamper the life of the people.

TARIFF VIEWS.

There is fortunately, no occasion for undertaking in the immediate future any general revision of our system of import duties. No serious danger of foreign competition now threatens American industries. Our country has emerged from the war less disturbed and less weakened than any of the European countries which are our competitors in manufacture. The industrial establishments have been subjected to greater strain than ours, their labor forces to a more serious disorganization and this is clearly not the time to seek an organized advantage. The work of mere reconstruction will, I am afraid, tax the capacity and the resources of their people for years to come. So far from there being any danger or need of accentuated foreign competition, it is likely that the conditions of the next few years will greatly facilitate the marketing of American manufactures abroad. Least of all should we depart from the policy adopted in the tariff act of 1913, of permitting the free entry into the United States of the raw materials needed to supplement and enrich our own abundant supplies.

Nevertheless there are parts of our tariff system which need prompt attention. The experiences of the war have made it plain that in some cases too great reliance on foreign supply is dangerous, and that in determining certain parts of our tariff policy domestic considerations must be borne in mind, which are political as well as economic. Among the industries to which special consideration should be given is that of the manufacture of dyestuffs and related chemicals. Our complete dependence upon German supplies before the war made the interruption of trade a cause of exceptional economic disturbance. The close relation between the manufacturers of dyestuffs on the one hand, and of explosives and poisonous gases on the other, moreover, has given the industry an exceptional significance and value. Although the United States will gladly and unhesitatingly join in the programme of international disarmament it will, nevertheless, be a policy of obvious prudence to make certain of the successful maintenance of many strong and well-equipped chemical plants. The German chemical industry, with which we will be brought into competition, was and may well be again a thoroughly knit monopoly capable of exercising a competition of a peculiarly insidious and dangerous kind.

PROTECTIVE MEASURES.

The United States should, moreover, have the means of properly protecting itself whenever our trade is discriminated against by foreign nations. In order that we may be assured of that equality of treatment which we hope to accord and to promote the world over. Our tariff laws as they now stand provide no weapon of retaliation in case other governments should enact legislation unequal in its bearing on our products as compared with the products of other nations. Though we are as far as possible from desiring to enter upon any course of retaliation, we must frankly face the fact that hostile legislation by other nations is not beyond the range of possibility, and that it may have to be met by counter legislation.

This subject has fortunately been exhaustively investigated by the United States Tariff Commission. A recent report of that commission has shown very clearly that we lack and that we ought to have the instruments necessary for the assurance of equal and equitable treatment. The attention of the Congress has been called to this matter on past occasions and the measures which are now recommended by the Tariff Commission are substantially the same that have been suggested by previous administrations. I recommend that this phase of the tariff question receive the early attention of the Congress.

Will you not permit me, turning from these matters, to speak once more, and very earnestly, of the proposed amendment to the Constitution which would extend the suffrage to women, and which passed the House of Representatives at the last session of the Congress? It seems to me that every consideration of justice and of public advantage calls for the immediate adoption of that amendment and its submission forthwith to the Legislatures of the several States. Throughout the world this long-delayed extension of the suffrage is looked for; in the United States, longer, I believe, than anywhere else, the necessity for it and the immense advantage of it to the national life has been urged and debated by women and men who saw the need for it, and urged the policy of it when it required steadfast courage to be so much beforehand with the common conviction; and I, for one, covet for our country the distinction of being among the first to act in a great reform.

RELEASE OF CONTROL.

The telegraph and telephone lines will, of course, be returned to their owners so soon as the retransfer can be effected without administrative confusion, so soon, that is, as the change can be made with least possible inconvenience to the public and to the owners themselves. The railroads will be handed over to their owners at the end of the calendar year; if I were in immediate contact with the administrative questions which must govern the retransfer of the telegraph and telephone lines I could name the exact date for their return also. Until I am in direct contact with the practical questions involved I can only suggest that in the case of the telegraphs and telephones as in the case of the railways it is clearly desirable in the public interest that some legislation should be considered which may tend to make of these indispensable instrumentalities of our modern life a uniform and co-ordinated system which will afford those who use them as complete and certain means of communication with all parts of the country as has so long been afforded by the postal system of the government and at rates so uniform and intelligible. Expert advice is, of course, available in this very practical matter, and the public interest is manifest. Neither the telegraph nor the telephone service of the country can be said to be in any sense a national system. There are many confusions and inconsistencies of rates. The scientific means by which communication by such instrumentalities can be rendered more thorough and satisfactory has not been made full use of. An exhaustive study of the whole question of electrical communication and of the means by which the central authority of the nation can be used to unify and improve it, if undertaken by the appropriate committees of the Congress, would certainly result, indirectly even if not directly, in a great public benefit.

TO END PROHIBITION.

The demobilization of the military forces of the country has progressed to such a point that it seems to me entirely safe now to remove the ban upon the manufacture and sale of wines and beers, but I am advised that without further legislation I have not the legal authority to remove the present restrictions. I therefore recommend that the act approved November 21, 1918, entitled "An act to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to carry out, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, the purposes of the act entitled 'An act to provide further for the national security and defense by stimulating agriculture and facilitating the distribution of agricultural products' and for other purposes," be amended or repealed in so far as it applies to wines and beers.

I sincerely trust that I shall very soon be at my post in Washington again to report upon the measures which made my presence at the peace table apparently imperative and to put myself at the service of the Congress in every matter of administration or counsel that may seem to demand executive action or advice.

CLAREMONT TO HOLD MILITARY GALA DAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CLAREMONT, May 20.—Fourteen high schools will send representatives to the Pomona College campus on Saturday, May 24, on the occasion of the second annual Military Gala Day of Southern California. The annual declamation contest for high schools will occur on the same day.

Elimination contests in both the military and public-speaking activities will occur on Saturday morning and in the afternoon will take place the final competitions, leading up to a grand review of all cadets who have taken part in the day's events. Arrangements are being made to secure a number of returned overseas men as speakers at the closing ceremonies on Saturday afternoon.

Judges for the Gala Day will come from March Field and the Arcadia Balloon School; there will also be present Col. Fail, commanding officer of the junior R.O.T.C. organizations in Los Angeles. Medals are to be awarded to the individual cadets winning first, second and third places, and banners will be presented to the first and second squads in the drills.

On Saturday evening there will be a song recital by Capt. R. Festyn Davies, formerly United States Director of Music at Camp Fremont. Capt. Davies was at one time soloist with the Philippine Constabulary Band at Atlantic City, and more recently conducted a mammoth song festival in the stadium of Stanford University, on which occasion he led a chorus of 10,000 soldiers.

PLAN TO OPEN NEW PUBLIC CAMP GROUND.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FALLBROOK, May 20.—Through the enterprise of the Chamber of Commerce of Northern San Diego county, embracing a dozen or fifteen communities, the Reche grove, three miles east of here, is to be preserved for the free use of this and future generations as a public camping ground and rallying place.

This is made possible through the expenditure of $2100 by the chamber of the $3200 about to come into its treasury from the executors of the estate of George W. Houk. In 1917, when Mr. Houk, who had bought the Red Mountain ranch, was president of the northern chamber he proposed to give the chamber two dollars for every one it might raise within thirty days in a membership campaign, the result being that Mr. Houk, a few days before he was stricken with an illness which resulted in his death, became indebted to the chamber for $2200, which claim he admitted, but which has not been paid.

In honor of the late wire-wheel magnate the grove of oaks is to be called the Houk Memorial Park. Its location is within two miles of the Los Angeles-San Diego inland highway at a point where the highway passes through the Red Mountain ranch, the property of the Houk estate. The chamber will expend several hundred dollars in the installation of suitable buildings and other equipment. It is hoped to hold the dedication in August.

SECRETARIES TO MEET.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VAN NUYS, May 20. — Commercial Secretaries of Southern California, including all counties south of the Tehachepi, will hold their monthly conference at the Woman's Club House here Saturday, May 24. The local Chamber of Commerce is arranging for their entertainment, which will include a luncheon and an auto trip through the San Fernando Valley. Lankershim, San Fernando, Owensmouth, Zelzah and Chatsworth will assist in the entertainment. Edgar Rice Borroughs of the Tarzana ranch on the State highway and Fred Prince, president of the San Fernando chamber, will be among the guests from the valley. The Woman's Club will serve luncheon.

PAY FOR CASTOR BEANS.

Growers who Answered Government Call Collect $18,000.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, May 20.—The castor bean growers of the State have just received a distribution of $18,000 from the War Department for the 1918 crop of castor beans. This practically completes the payment for the crop which was grown on approximately 13,000 acres in various parts of the State under urgent request of the War Department after this country entered the war.

The oil of the bean was required as a lubricant for the army and navy flying machines. The growers raised the crop at a loss and there is now a committee meeting in Washington to consider reimbursing the growers for this loss for the reason that the growing of the crop was a national necessity.

WILLS BIG ESTATE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, May 20.—By a will which he wrote unaided the late Jerimiah Donovan, Santa Maria rancher, who died recently, disposes of a $560,000 estate, which goes in its entirety to the widow, Mrs. Mary Donovan, to be divided at her death among their surviving children. The real estate is believed to be worth $500,000. Personal property in Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo counties is valued at $60,000.

AIR PILOTS PARADE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, May 20.—An airplane draped in mourning behind which 250 airmen will march will be a unique feature of the Memorial Day parade here. Above the mourning airplane a squadron of airplanes will soar over the line of march, the pilots dropping flowers on the marchers in memory of those who were killed during the war in aerial combat. There will be cavalry and other branches of the service in the parade as planned.

PARK OPEN TO TOURISTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, May 20.—All preparations have been completed for the opening to tourist travel of General Grant Park and Sequoia National Park on May 24, according to a formal announcement from W. P. Fry, ranger in charge, who says that roads will be in fine condition at that time, except for some small repair work for which a portion of the mountain highway will remain closed for a few hours each day.

Another line of communication with the park additional to those in service last year will be automobile stage from Visalia to the park hotels.

PORTERVILLE, May 20. — Edward F. Trefz, the field secretary of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who was the guest of the Porterville chamber at a luncheon, and who made the principal address at a special gathering of the officials and members, declared that San Francisco owes her commercial leadership in California to "the dynamic spirit of her people," to that spirit which says not "How much can I get out of this place?" but rather "How much can I put into it?"

Mr. Trefz spoke here particularly on the need for expansion of the publicity body idea among the ranch and stock-growing interests and declared that only through cooperation of the city and country can the best results be obtained.

NO ENTHUSIASM STIRS GERMANY.

Meetings to Protest Peace Terms Dull Affairs.

One Advocate of Bolshevism is Roughly Handled.

Talk Goes from Peace to War and Riot is Started.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, May 18, (via Berne to Paris, May 20.)—There were a dozen meetings all over Berlin today to protest against the peace terms, but all were gloomy and quiet. The best speakers of the government thundered, but not a spark of enthusiasm could they stir up in the cold, stolid crowds which confronted them.

A mournful procession of 1000 war cripples hobbled down Unter Den Linden. A man leaped out from the sidewalk, waved his hat frantically and called: "Three cheers for Germany!" He was met by a storm of "Pfui," a word the German uses when he wishes to express great contempt, and hundreds of voices shouted, "No, no. Three cheers for internationalism."

The big meeting was mostly of soldiers and civilians who are members of the "Heimatschutz" or society for the Protection of the Home.

At Busch Theater was the only mass meeting that had any real pep. There several speakers were howled down and a communist orator chased out of the theater.

COMMUNIST THROWN OUT.

A communist seized what he regarded as a golden opportunity and getting on the stage shouted: "Comrades, save yourself from becoming slaves of the Entente Allies. Save your families from dying of hunger. Become Bolsheviks and carry on a guerilla warfare."

That was as far as he got. Everybody was hissing "Pfui" and eager hands were grabbing for the Bolshevik orator. He turned around and disappeared. At the same time I heard a sound such as is made when somebody is thrown with great enthusiasm through a window.

A soldier stood up in the gallery and shouted: "We've had enough of fighting. You people that are so strong against signing the peace terms, you get out and fight."

This sentiment was cheered to the echo.

WOMAN SAYS GIVE UP BEER.

Then a woman got on the platform and said:

"The French are giving up absinthe and planting wheat. The Allies will not permit any more foodstuffs to be made into beer and wine. Why don't our German men stop drinking spirits, then there would be more food for the hungry."

This sentiment was also cheered.

Then a man got up who said he was from Alsace and that the French soldier billeted in his house treated him and his family with kindness and consideration. This gentleman seemed bent on hunting trouble, for he said:

"The French soldiers tell me the Germans ran away in November. They would not stand their ground and fight."

GOOD TIME TO GO.

Everybody in the house rose up and said, "Pfui" and "Herouse mitt him."

A soldier said, "Our sailors were traitors, they started the revolution."

"You're a liar," yelled a sailor in the gallery. "The Kaiser wanted to save his hide and ran away."

"No, no, no," yelled a man, climbing on the stage. "The Jews run things in America; they made Wilson go to war."

Then general bedlam broke loose. It was good time to go.

WILL SIGN EVENTUALLY.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, May 17 (via Paris, May 20.)—That Germany eventually will sign the peace treaty, but only after a military dictatorship or another revolution, is the opinion of leaders of the Independent Socialist party. They hold the present government, which is now carrying on propaganda against peace terms, will order a referendum by the time the government has succeeded in arousing enough opposition to secure a vote rejecting the terms.

Immediately the government will put a military dictator in power, probably, Noske, the present Minister of War. The people will suffer hunger and living conditions generally will become unbearable, as the allies advance and occupy territory.

SEES ANOTHER REVOLUTION.

This will cause a revolution, upsetting the military dictatorship. Then the present government will put a new government in power, which will sign the peace terms under a strong protest. This prophecy was made to me today by Dr. Rudolph Brietscheid, on of the most prominent leaders of the independent socialists. He said the peace terms were harsh and unjust, but he favored signing because he felt sure political upheavals in France and England, and possibly America, would unseat capitalism and put the proletariat in power. They would revise the peace terms and give the German people more humane conditions.

Breitscheid continued:

"Workingmen, those who are suffering most now, will suffer most if the peace terms are rejected. Those who are loundest in shouting 'Germany must save her honor; down with the Entente' are those who helped to force the country into the war and who wanted the annexation of Belgium.

"Had military Germany conquered, this class would have imposed just as hard terms on the Entente as the Allies have on Germany. The workingmen want the blockade raised to keep their families from starvation. They want raw material so the factories can start and they can get work. It is those, who are getting food supplies through the back door, who say the Entente will starve them into submission. The independent Socialists hold that the present terrible conditions force Germany to sign under protest with the hope that the future will right our wrongs."

I asked Dr. Breitscheid if the great mass meetings which oppose signing the peace terms did not prove that the German people are against accepting the terms.

The doctor replied that the government's zealous propaganda probably would bear fruit and the people would vote against the peace terms. Then would come the military dictatorship, followed by even greater suffering than now and there would be a great shift of popular sentiment. The revolution that would follow, would, necessarily, be bloody such as happened last November when the monarchy was overturned.

The doctor intimated this would bring the independent Socialists into power, who would make a united request to the country to sign the peace terms under protest. Dr. Breitscheid said the present government was doing its best to arouse a great national sentiment, such as prevailed in Germany at the beginning of the war, but the people are tired and sick of war.

BOLSHEVIKI YIELD TOWNS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

OMSK, Friday, May 9.—(Russian Telegraphic Agency.) Admiral Kolchak, the head of the Omsk government, attended a meeting of the military council at Ekaterinburg last night, after which he left for the front.

According to Bolshevik prisoners, the towns of Kazan and Vlatka are being evacuated by the Bolsheviki.

The extraordinary commission to fight the counter-revolution at Vlatka has issued the following order signed by Commissioner Dserginsky:

"The uprisings which are now taking place in Driansk, Samara (captured by the Kolchak forces on May 15,) and Smolensk, and the strikes among the railroad men, point to the fact that the counter-revolution is raising its head. I declare that we are not going to make any distinction between the White Guards, the Social revolutionists and the Mensheviki. The hand of the extraordinary commission will reach out for all of them. All of them will be taken hostages and their fate will depend upon their behavior."

The Russkaiya Armia announces that the General Staff has received information that uprisings have been of frequent occurrence in Kazan in the past two weeks. It says there are reasons for believing that prisoners of war who returned from Germany are especially active in these uprisings.

PARIS, May 20.—The Russian Bolshevik Foreign Minister, Tchitcherin, in a message to Bela Kun, the Hungarian communist leader, concerning the reported advance of Admiral Kolchak, head of the Omsk government, declares that the situation is misunderstood. He says that Admiral Kolchak is in a less favorable position than is supposed and that the Bolsheviki are preparing a counter-offensive which they hope will be successful. This information is contained in a wireless message received here.

SAYS NONE QUESTION AMERICAN AUTHORITY.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Peru's first Ambassador to the United States, Dr. Francis Tudela y Varela, as the guest of honor of the Pan-American Society at a luncheon here today to welcome him to his new post, declared that "Peru considers with sincere gratification the decisive part which has fallen to the United States in the process of world construction."

"None may question the authority with which the United States today addresses the world," he said, "since this authority springs from the most evident impartiality and from the clearest sense of the duty which destiny has conferred upon this great democracy; and still less can that authority be disputed on this continent."

GIGANTIC SHIP DEAL APPROVED

British Syndicate to Buy International Company.

Transaction Involves Values of $135,000,000.

Hurley Revising American Programme to Cut Costs.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 20.—The proposed sale to a British syndicate of the British-owned ships and assets of the International Mercantile Marine Company—a transaction involving five British companies and 750,000 tons of shipping valued at approximately $135,000,000—was approved today by the board of directors and Finance Committee of the company. A stockholders' meeting to vote on the proposition was called for June 16.

The transaction was declared by P. A. S. Franklin, president of the company, to be the largest recorded in the history of shipping.

American and Belgian vessels owned by the International are not affected by the projected transfer, according to Mr. Franklin. He added he did not know what disposition the British syndicate intended to make of its acquisition, about 50 per cent. of which is represented by ship tonnage and the balance by securities and cash.

Ratification of the sale by the stockholders will end a year of negotiation, interrupted by an offer of the United States government for the ships which was recently withdrawn.

TO CUT COST OF SHIPS.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Revision of the shipbuilding programme to a peace-time basis was put before the representatives of Atlantic, Gulf and Lake yards by the Shipping Board at a series of conferences concluding today, which were held preliminary to submission to Congress of estimates of money need to finish the great merchant marine.

The builders were asked if they were prepared to accept flat prices, in lieu of the old cost-plus system, involving a lower margin of profit and no guarantee against increases in the prices of labor and material. About 50 per cent. of outstanding contracts are based on the cost-plus system.

Another meeting soon will be held after the owners have had a chance to study the situation and formulate their answers. Pacific Coast builders will meet with the board Thursday to consider the same problem.

Chairman Hurley told the yard representatives that the industry developed by the war emergency was not on a normal basis now that peace had come, and that reductions in building costs must be made to enable American ships to compete with the foreign product. It was made clear that the board had no intention to interfere arbitrarily with the industry, nor to attempt to prevent legitimate profit on contracts made in good faith, and on which the builders were assured they would receive equitable treatment.

Where keels have not been laid the board expects generous co-operation from the yards in putting down the high cost justified during the war emergency, and where material has not been delivered, in substituting a new flat price contract and types of ships needed to make a well balanced fleet.

Until flat prices can be quoted on tonnage still to be built, the board does not expect to ask Congress for an appropriation. Nearly $700,000,000 will be needed to carry out contracts which the board already has been authorized to make. Approximately 750,000 tons of small ships probably will be canceled to allow the substitution of larger types in the same yards.

Reduction of building costs will save many millions to the government. It is believed the readjustments will reach $150,000,000. Experts of the board did not hesitate to say there are more yards now than the country needs, and regard the passing of the weaker as to be expected, their function ended with the close of hostilities. Owners of all yards built as war measures are being compensated, as other industries are, it was said.

ST. LOUIS WANTS SHIPS.

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) May 20.—The United States Shipping Board will hold a special meeting within the next few days to consider the request of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce for 28,000 tons of ships to carry freight from the Mississippi Valley to foreign countries.

This information was received from Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the board, in a telegram to the chamber today, in which he says the chamber's petition for ships is the first the board has received.

Has this ever happened to you?

AN old-fashioned kitchen is a continual source of trouble and expense. You never know where or when the next leak will start.

Many a time you've cursed the plumbing and the old, troublesome fixtures. But you haven't done it this time. You have always associated modern plumbing fixtures with economy.

We can show you the exact Thomas Maddock's quality kitchen equipment which, in the long run, is decidedly less expensive than the antiquated fixtures you now have.

From any standpoint we can tell you why you can't afford to keep the old fixtures, and why you can afford the newest and best for the old or the new. Let's talk it over.

...women who spoke ... seldom so much as ... their place. After they had finished, one began to feel the day of the man at the bottom had truly arrived, and that the new order, already established in Russia, Hungary, Austria and Bavaria, would spread throughout Germany westward until the whole world was reorganized so some people would not have so much and most of the people so little.

Hearing all these things, one began to wonder how one would feel to be told you could not have more than a certain sum to live on and that those extra rooms of yours must be occupied by the families now living in the slums. There is something about it all that makes one ashamed of one's good clothes when others have not any. The German, Austrian and Hungarian women so plainly show their privations and are living so humbly here that Miss Jane Addams did not care to keep the rooms reserved for her in the best hotel in Zurich and is now staying in a much humbler place.

Dr. Augsburg spoke only briefly on the resolution about the revolution, but when the audience called for the story of the Bavarian revolution Fraulein Gustava Heymann, also of Munich, and long a prominent liberal thinker in Germany, told the part women played and how they had tried at each successive upheaval to avoid bloodshed.

WOMEN ON TRIBUNAL.

"We saw the signs of trouble and we put up posters all over the city exhorting the population to keep calm and avoid violence," she said. "This was especially difficult, after the assassination of Kurt Eisner. But we called attention to his nobility of soul and how he would have wished the people to be strong yet peaceful, how he himself tried to bring about a revolution without arms. We succeeded so that on the day of Eisner's funeral there were throngs of people, but no disturbances."

"We women," continued Fraulein Heymann, "thought of the French Revolution and determined to avoid atrocities in our own revolution. We succeeded in getting three young women on the revolutionary tribunal, who worked for sentences on a humane basis. I can state while I was on the tribunal not one capital sentence was prescribed. One day while I was present forty-eight men were tried, with a maximum sentence of one year's imprisonment.

"Women must and can bring about righteous social changes without violence and thus prove the world has progressed since the French Revolution."

Miss Jane Addams, the chairman, said a request had come to the platform "which we cannot ignore. It asks the Assembly to stand in honor of Kurt Eisner, the first martyr who has brought about a revolution without arms."

TELLS OF AUSTRIA.

After the Bavarian revolution we had something of the Austrian revolution from Frau Yella Hertzka, a prominent radical feminist of Vienna. She said their revolution had been peaceful.

"One day the people told Karl of Hapsburg to go and the next day he went," she said. "We now have the most democratic form of government which represents both Socialists and Democrats. There are five women in the National Assembly. Women have had the vote, but were not prepared to take the active part they now will.

"Already the government has brought about a great transformation in Austria. They have abolished capital punishment. The Austrian capitalists had to give up one-half of their property. We have had confiscation of land and radical land reforms. The great castles have been taken for the homes of invalids. The schools have been socialized. There is a common school which all must attend up to the age of 14 years. Industries are being socialized. This will take time, perhaps twenty years of work.

"Meanwhile, one of our great problems is the housing conditions. In Vienna we have 500,000 people living in small tenements, half of which number belong to families living in one room, in which as many as ten wash, sleep and eat. Our City Council is raising funds and putting the unemployed to work to build new houses. As for the middle classes, they are disappearing, most of them having joined the proletariat. We have learned that that which is not given freely will be taken."

Dr. Helene Stocker of Berlin spoke for the first time during the congress. For the first time the name of President Wilson was mentioned publicly by a German delegate. Frau Stocker said that she did not think socialism was a panacea, nor that it would even guarantee permanent peace.

"We must have something between Christ and Tolstoi," she said. "I think President Wilson has done his best to bring about a mild peace, and the new order, but he was not strong enough. I think the reason that he resorted to war rather than to reason was to bring this about."

Mrs. Patrick Lawrence of London made a ringing appeal for action by the congress against the peace terms in the shape of a great protest meeting in the largest hall in Zurich and in arranging protest meetings in the Allied and neutral countries.

"Upon the peace terms depend the welfare and happiness of the whole world for many generations to come," she said. "We women already have expressed the opinion that they are unjust and contrary to the promises of the Allies. Shall we now remain silent?"

It was decided, however, that the congress would not hold a protest meeting, some of the delegates, mostly the Americans, fearing the big sticks, especially in the hands of M. Clemenceau. Miss Adams called attention to the fact that the German delegation did not vote on this resolution.

ZURICH, May 19.—(By the Associated Press.) At its closing session today the Woman's International Conference for Permanent Peace named a delegation which will be sent to Paris to present to the Peace Conference the decisions taken at the Women's Congress. It is composed of Mrs. Despard and Mrs. MacMillan, England; Mme. Duchene, France; Signora Lenoni, Italy; Mme. Ragaz, Switzerland, and Miss Jane Addams, United States.

STUDENTS PLAY VICIOUS PRANKS

Sierra Madre High School Lads Cause Trouble.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, May 20.—Pranks of roistering high school students from Sierra Madre, who tampered with the air-brake valves and other safety apparatus on a car of the Pacific Electric's Sierra Madre line this morning, sent the car, which was filled with men and women bound for Los Angeles, careening down the Sierra Madre grade to Lamanda Park. The reservoirs of the airbrakes exhausted by acts of the boys, the motorman was powerless to control the car. Officials of the railway here say it is miraculous that an accident, endangering the lives of all on board, did not occur when the car struck a curve at the foot of the grade.

The motorman finally got the disabled car on a siding at El Rincon. Passengers for Los Angeles were delayed more than an hour.

The misconduct of the high school boys on the Sierra Madre line today was the climax, Pacific Electric officials, said, of a series of malicious pranks and depredations the lads have been carrying on while en route to Pasadena every morning for weeks and so grave was their offense today that this evening H. E. Rodenhouse, district superintendent of the Pacific Electric, swore to complaints before Justice of the Peace Ben Strang charging eight boys, believed by the railway company to have been ringleaders in the incident, with malicious mischief and tampering with the safety devices on the car. The boys will be arrested tomorrow morning by Constable J. C. Sossy.

The warrants were issued for the arrest of Max Cowell, Gregory Chase, Charles Klunk, Otto Eisner, Kenneth Cochran, Roy Richards, N. Gerecht and A. Coplan. All are residents of Sierra Madre, but are students at Pasadena High School.

"The depredations of the boys has been going on for some time," said Mr. Rodenhouse tonight. "Before swearing to complaints for the arrest of the boys we appealed both to the Sierra Madre authorities and to the Pasadena school authorities. Each said the situation was up to the other, but the pranks endangering the lives of the public, coatinued, so we were obliged to take this action."

BEN S. ALLEN BUYS SACRAMENTO "UNION."

LONDON REPRESENTATIVE OF ASSOCIATED PRESS TO RETURN TO HOME STATE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 20.—Announcement that Ben S. Allen, formerly connected with the London office of The Associated Press, and veteran newspaper man of San Francisco, had purchased the Sacramento Union from the Sacramento Publishing Company, of which C. M. Wooster, formerly of San Jose, Cal., is president, was made here tonight. The new owner will take possession of the property Thursday.

Allen resigned his position in London when the United States entered the war, returned to the United States and became identified with Herbert Hoover in the work of the Federal Food Administration, as chief of the educational division. Associated with Allen in the purchase of the paper is John S. Craig, his brother-in-law, who for many years was identified with the financial affairs of Woodland.

Allen said tonight he was not prepared to announce the plans for the future organization of the staff of the Union.

Following his graduation from Stanford University in 1907, Allen entered the newspaper field in San Francisco. He was connected with the Daily News, the old Morning Call, and the Chronicle of that city and later joined the staff of the Associated Press in San Francisco. He spent ten years in the Associated Press service, the last six being in the London office.

Allen, a son of David Allen, a pioneer, who drove a pack train between Sacramento and Hangtown, now Placerville, was born in Grass Valley.

While connected with the Food Administration he was decorated by King Albert, being made chevalier of the Order of the Crown.

Frederick P. Raynham, the British aviator whose intention to attempt the ocean flight simultaneously with Harry G. Hawker, believed to have been lost at sea, came to grief when his Martinsyde plane was wrecked while running to the "take-off," announced today the he was in the race again for the first non-stop ocean air cruise. Recovered sufficiently from injuries suffered when his plane collapsed, to leave his bed, Raynham said that the machine could be rebuilt with spare parts at hand here, provided the motor was in working condition.

While the Handley-Page and Vimy mechanics are assembling their huge machines for the Atlantic "hop," the little Martinsyde will be removed from the tent on the Qui Divid Field to town for repairs.

Capt. Charles W. F. Morgan, Raynham's navigator, will not be his partner in the new trans-Atlantic flight he is planning. Morgan's physicians tonight told him his flying days were over and it might take him two or three months to recover from the injuries he suffered in the wreck of the Martinsyde on Sunday. Raynham has not named a substitute for him.

Wireless inquiry in all parts of the North Atlantic has brought no news of Hawker. His plane has never been seen nor heard of since it was glimpsed by the Signal Hill lookout at the harbor mouth, disappearing over the ice-strewn Arctic current to the east.

LOSS WAS EARLY.

Despite the possibility that the Sopwith expedition went to its doom in this gale, some of the aviation and wireless officials held to the theory that Hawker had fallen into the sea between Newfoundland and the trans-Atlantic steamship lane, supporting their contention with the knowledge that none of the many vessels steaming across the Atlantic had reported sighting the plane or hearing its wireless.

Ships at sea from the American coast to the British Isles vainly swept the air throughout the night with wireless queries regarding the fate of the aviators. The Sopwith plane had not been sighted and repetition of its call letters "DKA" went unanswered.

Hawker's associates here express grave fears regarding the missing aviators. They doubt the life-preserving aids carried by the two men would prove seaworthy under stormy conditions.

The Admiralty radio station here picked up last night a wireless message addressed to Hawker warning him of storm conditions off the Irish coast. Hawker's friends believe that this storm may prove to have caused the deaths of the two aviators.

RACE PLANS CONTINUE.

With the result of Hawker's endeavors in doubt, plans for another race began to develop today.

The Anglo-American team, Alcott as pilot and Brown as navigator, of the Vimy bombing plane which is due to arrive here tomorrow, announced that their flight to Ireland would be undertaken with the coming of the next full moon. Alcott today wired to Vice-Admiral Kerr at Harbor Grace for permission to use the flying field of the Handley-Page plane, now assembling there, for a "take off." Alcott said he would fly light from St. Johnstone, Harbor Grace, and there would start with a full load on his trans-Atlantic journey.

CONGRESS GETS AQUEDUCT BILL.

Osborne Seeks Early Passage of Los Angeles Measure.

Much Other Legislation Vital to County Planned.

Passage of Oil Leasing Plan Believed Assured.

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Congressman Osborne of Los Angeles at the opening session of Congress reintroduced all bills relating to Southern California which did not become law in the last Congress and furthermore announced that he would make a fight for two great measures of especial interest to the Southwest. These are conservation of the waters of the Colorado River on a comprehensive plan of reclamation recommended by Secretary Lane by which water for the irrigation of many million acres and many thousand horse power of energy will be provided and the construction of three great transcontinental motor highways from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Capt. Osborne said that he would seek to have the southern route constructed first if possible. Mr. Osborne believes with the great awakening all over the country to the necessity of good roads he will be able to see such a bill enacted into law during the life of this Congress and has great hopes of its early passage as a definite, tangible and country-wide reconstruction measure.

Among the bills of particular interest to Los Angeles reintroduced by Congressman Osborne are the following:

The bill to correct the rights of way of the Los Angeles aqueduct to conform with its construction. The bill as introduced is in the form in which it was unanimously approved by the Committee on Public Land near the close of the last Congress.

LAND MEASURES.

A bill to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to grant to the Los Angeles county flood control district the use of public lands and rights through the Angeles and Santa Barbara forest reserves.

A bill to authorize persons residing in the Los Angeles land district, who have or may initiate claims, entries or applications under the public land laws, for lands within the Visalia, Independence or Imperial land districts, to execute their papers, except final proofs on desert land or homestead entries, before any United States commissioner within the Los Angeles land district, or the judge or clerk of any court of record in Los Angeles county or the register or receiver of the Los Angeles Land Office.

To permit members of the Soldiers' Home to purchase food supplies from the commissary department of the Home for wives and other members of their families dependent on them for support at prices not to exceed 10 per cent. above actual cost; to increase to $30 per month the pensions of Civil War veterans now on the roll and entitled to a less rate who were pensioned prior to June 27, 1890, for wounds or injuries received in line of duty, and providing also that the disability for which the pension is allowed shall be inscribed on the certificate; to amend the Indian War Pension Act to include the Yellowstone campaign and all other wars between the United States and any Indian tribe and all frontier service during actual hostilities between March 1 1866 and March 1, 1891; to appropriate $500,000 for construction and equipment of a sanitary fire-proof hospital on the Soldiers' Home grounds, Los Angeles county.

HUN GUNS FOR DISPLAY.

To increase to $250,000 the limit of cost for a Federal Building at San Pedro; directing the Secretary of War to deliver to the city of Los Angeles for ornamental purposes, ten cannon or field pieces captured from Germany by American forces in the world war, as well as one such relic to Avalon, Sawtelle, Hollywood, Santa Monica, Ocean Park Venice, Redondo, El Segundo, Gardena, Inglewood, Sherman, Torrance San Pedro, Wilmington, Culver City Beverly Hills, Westgate, Soldiers' Home, Manhattan Beach and Hermosa Beach.

The "red flag bill" to prohibit the public or private display of hostile or disloyal emblems, providing that the United States flag shall be displayed in all Federal courts while in session; that the attention of applicants for naturalization be directed to the flag and they be instructed as to its meaning and their duties toward it.

A bill to empower the President to appoint any active or retired officer of the regular army who entered the volunteer service in April 1861, and continued until November, 1865, and attained the grade of major of volunteers, to the grade of brigadier-general, retired; a bill providing that instructions from the Adjutant-General to officers commissioned from civil life to the National Army since the beginning of the world war, shall be accepted as authority for payment of their claims for mileage in reporting for duty.

Also the following special bills to grant pensions to Hannah Barney, Henry Brown, William G. Bryce, Ida Davis, Anna Greer, Hannah Hayes, James Honan, Elizabeth Hooton, Anna Moore, Charles Peters, Delmos, Porter, Rebecca Rush, Carl Shoppe, Claude W. Smyth, Henry Snow, Alice von Pinnon and Sarah J. White; to increase the pensions of Alban Bentley, Paleman Castle, Robert Clark, Llewellyn Cole, Jr.; to correct the records of Andrew Bell, Lewis Crain and Seth Simmonds and to have a Distinguished Service Medal issued to John F. James.

When Victor Berger under conviction for the violation of a law of the United States was peremptorily barred from the floor of Congress, perhaps few moments more dramatic have occurred in the history of the body. There also was a pathetic, but grim side to his expulsion. When he was Congressman before Berger made a number of warm personal friends among the veterans of that body. Most of these were on hand today to take the oath of office. Berger had to make all the advances and the greetings he received were more embarrassed than cordial and th handshakes less hearty than furtive. He was already a pariah and the vote a few minutes later verified the illy-concealed embarrassment of Berger's old associates.

Although the Susan B. Anthony amendment has been considered as assured of passage this session, suffragists did not relax their watchful activity over the fortunes of the resolution. They were lobbying vigorously and were on hand when Congress convened. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, honorary president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, was so busy in interviewing memebrs that she missed the opening ceremonies and Miss Maud Younger, legislative chairman of the Woman's party, made a record by talking to fifty-two members from the time of her arrival to departure at the Capitol.

Regardless of the belief of many Republican leaders that general tariff revision should be postponed Representative Fordney, of Michigan, the new chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which initiates tariff legislation, contends that it should be taken up at once. Mr. Fordney said he construed the declaration of the Republican caucus Saturday night as meaning immediate general tariff revision.

The tariff plank in the resolutions adopted by the caucus was as follows:

"Tariff legislation designed to increase the revenues from imports and to afford adequate protection to American labor and industries."

"That declaration means immediate tariff revision," said Mr. Fordney. "Even if present conditions make it somewhat difficult to ascertain costs it is not difficult to determine that the present valorem duty is too low. I shall call a meeting of the Ways and Means Committee within a few days to adopt a plan of procedure. I shall urge that hearings be begun in the near future."

Representative Copley of Illinois, a Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee, backed up Mr. Fordney's assertion that general tariff revision should be undertaken without delay.

"It is my unqualified opinion that we will have to have a general revision of the tariff," said Mr. Copley. "We are headed for industrial chaos when the war came on and the same conditions will exist again under the present tariff law."

With every prospect of successful passage in both houses the oil leasing bill, of such great importance to oil producers of Southern California, was the first measure to be introduced by the new chairman of the Public Lands Committee of the House. Aside from one or two minor clarifying phrases the oil relief sections of the bills are identical with the legislation as it was finally shaped in the last days of the old Congress. All provisions for the survey of unsurveyed land which in the old bill called for three different plans are made uniform to comply with such regulations as may be made by the Secretary of the Interior.

Most important of all is the abolition of a patent of one-fourth of the successful claims of prospectors for oil and the substitution of a preferential lease for one-half of the total claim.

Western shipyards have wired emphatic protests to the Senators of the Coast States against what the shipbuilders term a string on the opening of the shipyards to the building of shipping for foreign account. According to the telegrams received here today the Coast builders have been formally advised by the Shipping Board that all plans and contracts for shipbuilding for foreign account must first be submitted to the Shipping Board for approval. All the Coast builders object to this as absolutely fatal to competition. Several yards which have foreign contracts pending declare that such a provision will prevent closing of a large amount of desirable contracts and have urged an immediate revocation of the Shipping Board order that all such contracts must be approved by that body.

CAMP KEARNY IS TO BE MADE PERMANENT.

TO BE ONE OF ARMY'S MAIN BASES IN FUTURE, WAR DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Camp Kearny will not be abandoned. The War Department has always planned to make this one of the permanent camps of the army and is carrying forward plans to make it one of the most active ones. It will cease to be used for a demobilization camp for the reason that practically all the men from the States which sent troops to Camp Kearny have been returned. This same policy is true of all the other parts of the country and demobilization camps are being eliminated as fast as possible, depending on the return of the men of the locality served. Permanent demobilization bases are to be maintained in the West only at Camp Lewis, the Presidio at San Francisco, and Fort Bliss at El Paso.

Camp Kearny not only is to be retained as a permanent plant of the army, but the plan is to make substantial improvements and maintain at this point, on account of the weather conditions, some of the advanced schools for soldiers and officers. Every commanding officer ever stationed at Camp Kearny believes it to be the best camp in the United States or in the world for the drilling of men and the education of officers. More drill hours are possible at Kearny year in and year out than at any other point used by the American army, and for that reason alone the War Department expects to continue the development of the plant and enlarge its activities.

Congressman Osborne after receiving wires from Mayor Woodman and the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce interrogated the War Department and confirmed its intention of keeping Camp Kearny as a permanent post.

As soon as the new army policy is determined the work of whipping the permanent armed force of the United States into line is undertaken Camp Kearny will be a busy place and a large number of troops is to be stationed there at all times. The old days of a loafing Regular Army are over and the new army will go to school all day every day. Into this new plan of continued schooling Camp Kearny will be fitted as one of the important units.

CRISIS LOOMS AT WINNIPEG.

Important Developments in Strike Imminent.

Dominion Officals Hurrying to Break Dealock.

Unions Demand Recognition Before Tieup is Ended.

WINNIPEG (Man.) May 20.—Important developments bearing upon the general strike situation in Winnipeg came to the surface in rapid succession today. Although the deadlock between labor and industrial employers will enter into its fifth night without a decision there were many signs that the marking time period was rapidly coming to an end.

Gedeon Roberston, Minister of Labor for the Dominion, Arthur Meighen, Federal Minister of the Interior, T. C. Norris, Premier of Manitoba, Thomas H. Johnson, provincial Attorney-General and Mayor Gray all became prominently and publicity identified with the effort to bring about peace by adjustment.

Ministers Roberston and Meighen are reported to be traveling to Winnipeg from Ottawa. Premier Norris and the Attorney-General conferred with a delegation from the Central Strike Committee and Mayor Gray prior to a conference with a labor delegation, addressed a special meeting of the common council on the strike situation.

The leading strike development came in the form of conferences between union delegations and Premier Norris and other officials regarding the officially announced willingness of the union men to discuss settlement of the strike on the basis of general union recognition and reinstatement of all idle members, who were employed prior to the general strike.

The question of reinstating all former union men is being discussed at meetings apart from the question of union recognition.

WARNING BY MAYOR.

Mayor Gray told the council that a combination of circumstances had been responsible for a mistaken impression throughout Winnipeg regarding the city's attitude toward the union forces. The Mayor said that when the general strike was declared, he gave the Central Strike Committee to understand that law and order must be maintained and that no suffering from lack of food should take place. The result was, Mayor Gray stated, that cards were prepared for union drivers of bread and milk wagons and the movement of these commodities was approved by the union men. The drivers tacked the cards to their wagons and automobiles instead of keeping them for presentation if the vehicles were stopped.

Mayor Gray told the Council this afternoon that the Central Strike Committee should be notified that public display of such cards must be stopped immediately and that if the order was not complied with that the city would use "every available means" to have foodstuffs delivered.

Mayor Gray received a communication from Premier Norris today regarding these placards. The Premier protested against them and said he would not take further steps toward mediation until the practice was stopped.

Whether Ministers Robertson and Meighen, who are expected here on Thursday, have a plan to lend Federal aid to any industrial readjustment here has not been announced.

MANY FALSE RUMORS.

Various reports that Dominion soldiers mobilized here would be ordered to patrol the city kept large crowds moving through the downtown districts. Late in the afternoon when automobiles speeded along the main streets with soldiers arriving from France, a report quickly spread that martial law had been declared. The incident was soon understood, however.

No official announcements were made public after the conferences of provincial, city and union officials, which began this afternoon and lasted until tonight. Declarations made at the City Hall and other places conveyed the impression that every effort would be made to continue such conferences, pending the arrival here Thursday of Senator Robertson, Federal Minister of Labor, and Arthur Meighan, Minister of the Interior.

Passenger service was maintained in and out of Winnipeg today and tonight. Unofficial union publications announced yesterday that the railroad trainmen on the government lines were ready to walk out on call and that trainmen on the Canadian Pacific lines were taking a strike vote. No further announcement had been made, and it is possible that any action by the trainmen will be announced first from Toronto or Montreal.

SHIPBUILDERS STRIKE.

H. F. Lawrence, general chairman of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, arrived here from Fort William, Ont., today. He announced at union headquarters that employees at the Fort Arthur shipbuilding plant had struck.

Voluntary enrolling of Winnipeg citizens for vigilance service in case of strike trouble was continued today at various booths and military quarters throughout the city.

L. R. Barrett, vice-president of the Vulcan Iron Works, one of Winnipeg's leading industrial plants, said: "We can do nothing; the whole situation is in the hands of the citizens' committee and we must await action by that committee. In the meantime, we are going to sit tight and make no concessions."

Neither union leaders nor other prominent figures, including international chiefs and city officials, made any effort to conceal the fact that failure to settle the local trouble may bring about disturbed conditions which would affect the Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

FOOD FAMINE FEARED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) May 20.—Special dispatches received here from Winnipeg today said restaurants and grocery stores of Winnipeg were closing down because the general strike has made it impossible for them to obtain food to sell. The gasoline supply in Winnipeg and vicinity is said to be down to the last 10,000 gallons after weekend sales of approximately 100,000 gallons.

RESULT VS. NEW.

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—The Gardena used cars, has been revolutionized by the "Normal" Plan. The day has passed when the owner of a good used car must buy with no guarantee of any sort. Every Reliable Gardena used car can be truthfully said to be the same class as a new car insofar as the condition of the machine is concerned.

Our expert buyers are constantly on the lookout for good values—cars which can be conserved with clean rebuilt stock.

Each guaranteed car is sent to our large repair station, where it is completely overhauled. If it needs new bearings they are put in. If cylinders and valves need regrinding they are done. Whatever is necessary to put the car in perfect mechanical condition is done. Then the cars are reupholstered in departments maintained for that purpose.

When a car is finally O.K.'d by the Service Superintendent it is as near to a state of perfect condition as mechanical humanity can make it. Tires, when necessary, are furnished at cost to the customer. It assured that the car is in perfect shape. We back up our statements by agreeing to make good any defects that may develop in the machine within a reasonable time to cover normal wear and tear.

Each National Guaranteed car is backed by a free labor service of 30 hours, with no limit as to consumption.

A BEAUTIFUL HOME
FREE TO WIFE OR MOTHER
should you die after the first payment is made on any home and lot we sell you or build for you, or at any time before all payments are completed, your home would not only have your property cleared of all debt immediately, but would also receive several hundred dollars in cash.
FOR EXAMPLE:
Say that you buy one of our beautiful bungalows for $5000, on terms of $500 down and $25 per month, and your death occurs at the end of the sixth year. your family would receive at once a satisfaction of your indebtedness and more than a thousand dollars cash.
Houses cost no more on this plan than the usual way, in fact, we can sell you a modern style colonial bungalow for $5000, while others are asking $6000 or a similar one.
Let us tell you personally how we can do this. Several styles to select from, ranging in price from $2700 to $5000.
This is by far the greatest offer ever made to the desiring a home.

MAY CORRECT ERROR IN PROPERTY BILL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 20.—An opinion holding that it was proper for Gov. Stephens to receive the corrected copy of the Thompson community property bill, which had been sent to him incorrectly engrossed, was received today by the Governor from U. S. Webb, Attorney-General.

Gov. Stephens recently asked Webb for an opinion on the legal phase of the question.

The bill was one of a group of measures passed by the Forty-third Legislature to place a wife on an equal plane with a husband in the ownership and disposition of community property. It would give a wife the right of testamentary disposition of her half of community property.

In the final hours of the Legislature, through an error, the engrossed bill sent to Gov. Stephens contained amendments made in the Assembly after the bill had been passed by the Senate. These amendments, however, had been supplanted by new amendments agreed upon by a free conference committee of both houses and finally accepted by the Senate and Assembly. The error was not discovered until after the Legislature had adjourned, and this caused the question to be raised as to whether the correct bill could be received by the Governor. The law provides that all engrossed bills should be placed before the Governor before the hour of final adjournment.

Webb said: "I am not unmindful that it might be said that to treat such delayed certification as being in time would open the way to possible fraud, for the officers of the respective houses of the Legislature might after adjournment certify to the Governor a bill which had never been considered by the Legislature. The danger resulting from this, however, is more fanciful than real, for if such should be done it would be the duty of the Governor to resort to the journal of both houses to determine if such bill had received the requisite vote, and from such examination the falsity of the certificate would be shown and the Governor would not then have the legal authority to approve the bill so falsely certified.

"I am disposed to subscribe to the doctrine that the mere delay by the presiding officers of the two branches of the Legislature in certifying to the Governor a bill which has received the majority vote of both houses of the Legislature should not be allowed to defeat the legislative intent and purpose."

The opinion held the correct measure delivered to the Governor subsequent to adjournment of the Legislature could be given the same consideration as measures certified to him before the session ended.

DANIELS' AUTOPSY.

County Surgeon Reports Result to District Attorney.

Report was made yesterday by Dr. A. F. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, on the findings in an autopsy performed on the body of Mrs William Daniels of Santa Monica, whose death caused Morton M. Winchell to be held to answer for manslaughter. Dr. Wagner's report was made to Deputy District Attorney Richards, but will not be made public until the case comes up for trial in the Superior Court. Winchell, who was accused of causing the death of Mrs. Daniels by injection of a "cancer cure" serum into her veins, is at liberty on $10,000 bonds.

POWDER IN SHOES AS WELL AS GUNS
Foot-Ease to be Added to Equipment of Hospital Corps at Fort Wayne.
Under the above heading the Detroit Free Press, among other things says: "The theory is that soldiers whose feet are in good condition can walk further and faster than soldiers who have corns and bunions incased in rawhide."
The Plattsburg Camp Manual advises men in training to shake Foot-Ease in their shoes each morning.
There is no foot comforter equal to Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic, healing powder to be shaken into the shoes and sprinkled in the foot-bath, for hot, tired, aching, perspiring, smarting, swollen, tender feet, corns, bunions, blisters or callouses. What wouldn't you give to be relieved of one day's pain of your corns and bunions? Here is relief for every day. You won't realize this until you have tried Allen's Foot-Ease yourself. You simply forget all about your feet they are made so comfortable. Ask your druggist to-day for a package of ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE.

See the Poisons in Your Blood
Mighty Poisons Accumulated Through the Winter Months Mean Disaster and Disease.
Says Rid the System With Sulpherb Tablets Easily.
Springtime always brings with it joy and distress. The distress is in the form of catarrh, neuralgia, rheumatic pains, constipation, inactive kidneys and usually a feverish, sluggish lethargy that is hard to throw off.
Do you remember how grandmother fed you sulphur and molasses every spring to purify the blood? It was a good, old-fashioned but nauseous remedy. Now you can take sulphur, cream of tartar and herbs in tablet form, a better remedy, easy and pleasant to take in Sulpherb Tablets. Sold by all druggists. A laxative, blood purifier of unequaled merit for those who are constipated and suffering in any way from such pent-up poisons. Each package is guaranteed to give wonderfully satisfactory results. Be sure you get Sulpherb Tablets (not sulphur tablets.)

One Cause of a Bad Complexion—the Remedy
"Look at a section of skin under the microscope and you will readily understand why cosmetics generally injure the complexion," says a well-known physician. "The skin, smooth as it looks to the naked eye, under the glass exhibits a lacework of tiny holes, mouths of myriads of little glands. To keep the skin healthy, these holes must be unobstructed, that the perspiration and natural oil can have free outlet. Should the glands be blocked up with irritating gritty particles, a common result of using powders and creams, nature retaliates by causing sallowness, roughness, blotches or pimples.
"As a substitute for all cosmetics I recommend ordinary mercolised wax. It not only does what the various face preparations are supposed to accomplish but its peculiar absorbent action frees the pores from the daily accumulation of impurities, also absorbing the devitalized particles of surface skin. This produces a natural, healthy, youthful complexion. One ounce of this wax, to be had at any drug store, usually suffices to rejuvenate the poorest complexion. It is put on nightly like cold cream and washed off mornings."

SAW SHOW FROM OUTSIDE; PAY UP.

Thousands of Others to be Given Opportunity to "Chip In."

At the headquarters of the National Aeronautical Committee at the Alexandria yesterday, Lieut. R. F. Benham and Robert Elliott were proudly showing a sack containing $102 in real money, received since the air memorial-day programme at De Mille Field from people who saw the show from the outside and thought it so good that they volunteered to pay. Thousands of people who went with the intention of paying 50 cents a head to get inside were forced to look on from a vantage point outside simply because they couldn't get in. By letter and in person these people voluntarily turned in their money to the National Aeronautical Committee in order that the sum realized from the show for the purpose of erecting a memorial to the aviators who gave their lives in the service of the country, may be as large as possible. Lieut. Benham will be at headquarters all week straightening up the affairs of the show and says any others who think that they got their money's worth and didn't get a chance to chip in, may do so by seeing him.

FUN COSTS THOUSAND.

Boys Start Fire "Just to See the Blaze;" Fice as it Spreads.

Two boys started a fire yesterday "just to see the blaze" and it, for a time, threatened to destroy the Wolbert apartments at 930 Potter Park avenue. The fire, which was discovered by inmates of the apartment-house, was extinguished by the department with a loss of about $1000.

According to the police, who investigated, Robert O'Brien, 4 years of age, who lives at 926 Potter Park avenue, and Walter Corey, 6, living in the apartment-house, set fire to a pile of rubbish at the rear of the building. The flames spread to the apartment-house and the boys fled. When questioned later, Walter admitted starting the fire and said he and his playfellow "wanted to see the blaze."

STRIKE PUZZLE TO EMPLOYERS.

Shipbuilders Can Learn no Reason for Walkout.

Six Hundred Machinists Go; Allege Favoritism.

Convict Unionite of Assault on Free Worker.

Officials of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company admitted last night that they are at a loss to understand the latest strike called at the yards by the labor unions, so many conflicting statements have been made by the union men themselves on the subject of their grievances.

Alleging discrimination against union men about 600 machinists in the San Pedro yards laid down their tools yesterday morning at 10 o'clock and walked out. Following the walkout the strikers held a meeting at the Central Labor Council Hall and appointed a strike committee.

The force at the plant has been reduced considerably during the past week, what is known as the graveyard shift being eliminated entirely. Some of the men on this shift were transferred to the other two shifts and some were laid off. Among the strikers the chief complaint seemed to be that some of the men who had been laid off were old employees. Complaint was also made that members of the Shop Committee were among the men transferred so that they could not serve on the committee. The management has never recognized the union, but has recognized the Shop Committee.

LOCAL STRIKE.

The machinists are a small proportion of the men employed at the plant. None of the other departments were affected. Whether the strike is likely to spread to other departments union officers declined to state last night. The Los Angeles Metal Trades Council will meet at San Pedro tonight and may take action on the strike. So far it is purely a local machinists' strike, and it is said the machinists have not asked the members of other crafts to go out in sympathy, believing they can settle their own troubles. If they are unable to do so, however, they will probably ask the council to take up the fight. About 10 per cent. of the employees are machinists.

CONVICTED OF ASSAULT.

After discussing the evidence for over two hours, a jury in Police Judge Crawford's court late yesterday afternoon found A. L. Henderson, a boilermaker, guilty of assaulting Merl Eubanks, a counter at the shipyard. Henderson will appear for sentence Thursday.

According to the evidence brought out in the trial, Henderson is a member of a labor union and Eubanks is a free worker. The trouble between the two men began, according to Eubanks, when he refused to join the union. Henderson, it was stated, in court, first threw a pot of green paint at the counter and then broke his nose.

SLEEPING SICKNESS GETS THIRD VICTIM.

ARMENIAN SUCCUMBS FOLLOWING PNEUMONIA ATTACK; AUTOPSY HELD.

Funeral services for John Popogoloff, an Armenian, who is said to have been the third local victim of encephalites lethargica—the sleeping sickness was superinduced yesterday afternoon at the J. D. Button parlors. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

Popogoloff was a teamster. He died at the County Hospital after an illness lasting several days. The sleeping sickness was superinduced by an attack of pneumonia, with complications, it was said. An autopsy was performed by County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner.

The disease is identified, autopsy surgeons say, by its peculiar symptoms. The patient remains in a comatose stare for several days before passing away. The sleeping sickness is said to be an infrequent aftercIap of Spanish Influenza, taking the form of a lesion of the brain.

SHORT AND BITTER.

"Pack My Trunk!" He Orders Wife; She Gets Decree.

"He came home one night, said 'pack my trunk.' I packed it. There was no conversation. I knew what it meant. He took his trunk and went away."

Laconically Mrs. Mary P. Long thrice married, told in her divorce proceedings before Judge Shenk yesterday how Curtis B. Long left her. His previous wife had died. His second marriage was not happy. They could not get along. They were temperamentally unsuited, the evidence showed.

The court called Mr. Long to the stand and wanted to know if this was the end.

"When I went away," he said, "I did not intend to go back. I am not going back," he added.

Mrs. Long received the decree.

CREDIT MEN DINE.

Frank Bristol, noted locally both as a yell leader and an insurance writer, was one of the leading attractions at the monthly dinner of the Retail Credit Men's Association at the Alexandria last night. He talked of his experiences with the expeditionary forces in France. Albert D. Pearce spoke on "Commercial Law, and the Credit Man." While W. M. Holbrook of the Guaranty Trust and Savings Bank discussed bank credit departments.

DIRECT BUREAU FROM MANSION.

Cravens to Carry on Labors at Pasadena Home.

Dollar-a-Year Man Returns from Washington.

Looks for Big Development in Road Construction.

With the return to Pasadena yesterday of John S. Cravens after twenty months' strenuous labor in Washington as a dollar-a-year man, the work of the Highways Transport Committee of the Council of National Defense will be conducted from his mansion at 1101 South Orange Grove avenue, which has been reopened for the first time since America entered the war.

Mr. Cravens, who is president of the Midwick Country Club and who, until he took up war work, was active in many other Southern California organizations, arrived in the Crown city in his private car, accompanied by Mrs. Cravens. An informal reception committee of Pasadena society people was on hand to welcome them home. "I am through with the immediate work at hand in Washington," said Mr. Cravens, "and decided to come home for a rest. Mrs. Cravens and I were anxious to be at our home again, and to say that I am glad to get back expresses it mildly."

The Federal Highways Committee was formed a few months ago to stimulate the construction and utilization of highway systems in the United States. In connection with his work, Mr. Cravens was the principal speaker at the recent national convention, in Chicago, of motor truck manufacturers and sales managers, when he declared that "the development of road construction and the use of the motor truck will be the next great industrial development."

HOPKINS CONVICTED.

Self-Styled Financier Found Guilty of Embezzlement.

B. H. Hopkins, who styles himself a "financial expert," was convicted of embezzlement yesterday by a jury in Judge Craig's court. He was accused of defrauding Mrs. R. S. Castle out of $191.25, given him by Mrs. C. J. Myers, of Arcadia, to settle a suit brought against Mrs. Castle by the Swanfeldt Tent and Awning Company. The offense occurred on October 18, 1918.

Hopkins's catch phrase, which he used on billboards and cards to advertise his business was: "Are you properly financed. If not, see B. H. Hopkins, financial expert."

The defendant was remanded to the custody of the Sheriff and lodged in the County Jail. He applied for probation, hearing on which was set for June 5.

RECHRISTEN STRIP.

Broadway Place is Name Suggested to City Council.

A petition to be presented to the City Council this morning signed by the Los Angeles Investment Company, by Frank P. Flint, its president; J. B. Van Nuys and Susanna H. Van Nuys, asks that the strip of Broadway that will remain as a connection between Tenth and Main streets when the extension of Broadway reaches from Tenth to Pico streets, be changed to the name of Broadway place. The petition also asks for the establishment of the official grade of Broadway from Tenth to Pico streets.

EMPIRE DAY PLANS.

FINAL ACTION TO BE TAKEN TONIGHT BY SOLDIERS' AID SOCIETY.

Final plans for the celebration of Empire Day will be made this evening at the British Soldiers' Aid Society headquarters in the Westminster Hotel. Arrangements are to be made for a military spectacle which will commemorate the chief events of the war. The celebration is to be held at Shrine Auditorium and the doors are to be opened promptly at 7:30 p.m.

C. White Mortimer, British Consul, will receive the salute of the colors. Miss Geraldine Mortimer is in charge of the programme. It is planned to include special motion-picture features, the military pageant of Great Britain and her colonies, marches by the Submarine Base Band and a dance.

LOW COST OF PATIENTS.

Health Commissioner Powers sent to the City Council yesterday a report with reference to the restorative work being performed for unfortunates at the Los Feliz Hospital, and stated that the cost per day per patient is $1.25.

MOTHER'S FEAT SAVES INFANT.

Hurls Baby Into Car as it Strikes Her Down.

Attorney's Wife Exonerates Driver of Motor.

Mother love and nerve yesterday afternoon saved the life of Charles G. Young, Jr., infant son of Attorney Charles G. Young of 3857 Wisconsin avenue, but cost Mrs. Young two broken ankles and other injuries which surgeons say may lame her for life.

Mrs. Young literally threw her child from her into an automobile owned and driven by Mrs. Henry Cassell of 515 North Kenwood avenue, Glendale, when she saw that the machine was going to strike her, near Washington and Vermont avenues. Although shaken and bruised, the child was not seriously injured.

Mrs. Young, carrying the infant in her arms, ran in front of the automobile driven by Mrs. Cassell in an effort to reach a street car. Seeing that she could not avoid being struck by the automobile, Mrs. Young hurled the baby into the front seat of the machine just as the wheels struck her, passing over her ankles.

Rushed to the Receiving Hospital, the injured woman was treated for fractures of both ankles. She was later removed to the Pacific Hospital. In her story to the police she exonerated Mrs. Cassell.

CONTEST SAWTELLE ANNEXATION VOTE?

LEAGUE OF ANTIS EMPLOYING LAWYERS TO GET SUPREME COURT RULING.

A suit to dissolve the annexation of Sawtelle to Los Angeles will be brought by Sawtelle people in the near future, it was learned yesterday. The Anti-Annexation League of Los Angeles county has already engaged legal talent for the purpose. F. G. Blood of East San Diego, who successfully fought the annexation of East San Diego to the city of San Deigo, it is said, has been retained as counsel for Sawtelle. D. M. Delmas will also be counsel for the league, it is said.

Attorney Blood outlined the probable course of action at a meeting of the Anti-Annexation League of Culver City Monday night. He expects to raise the question of the constitutionality of the statute under which the annexation election was held, and get a ruling from the Supreme Court. An election in which a bonded indebtedness is secured by a community, which cannot be paid off by ordinary taxation within a period of one year, he said, must recure a two-thirds vote in order to pass, which was not secured at the Sawtelle annexation election.

MUST PAY WARRANT.

Orange Treasurer Loses Suit Growing Out of Lot Purchases.

Division No. 1, District Court of Appeal, in the case brought by the city of Orange against W. E. Clement, treasurer of the city, for a writ of mandamus, yesterday ordered the defendant to pay a warrant for $2180 drawn on the city treasury, for three lots purchased by the trustees as a site for a City Hall, or to show cause May 26, why he should not.

The action arose out of a resolution adopted by the Board of Trustees setting forth the necessity of acquiring three lots in the city of Orange, for the purpose mentioned. The lots were purchased in what is known as the J. J. Shaffer addition to the town, but when the order was presented to Mr. Clement to pay the purchase price agreed upon, he refused to honor it. The property was purchased through the Orange County Title Company, and the warrant was drawn on the City Treasurer, April 14.

CAN'T GIVE IT TIME.

A. F. Frankenstein Quits Job as Fire Commissioner.

A. F. Frankenstein, who has served as a member of the Fire Commission for several years, yesterday tendered his resignation to Mayor Woodman, stating that this step was taken "owing to the press of matters of importance occupying my time." Mayor Woodman stated that he will at once appoint a successor to Mr. Frankenstein, and that he has in mind a man who will give much attention to the subject of fire prevention.

HERBERT BOOTH SMITH HONORED AT ST. LOUIS.

ANOTHER PRECEDENT MADE BY PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL CHURCH ASSEMBLY.

The general assembly of the Presbyterian Church, in session at St. Louis, Mo., which established a precedent by selecting a moderator Dr. John Willis Baer of Pasadena—the first layman ever given such an office, established a second precedent yesterday by making Dr. Herbert Booth Smith, pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian Church in this city, chairman of its leading committee, the Committee on Bills and Overtures.

News of Dr. Smith's selection for this responsible position was received here yesterday afternoon by members of his family. In the past it has been the custom for this chairmanship to fall to the retiring moderator. Owing to the ill health of the retiring moderator this year the general assemby conferred the honor upon Dr. Smith.

Friday is the closing day of the assembly, and at the luncheon hour Dr. Smith will address 1000 members of the City Salesmanship Club in St. Louis. On Sunday he will preach in the largest Baptist church in St. Louis.

SHE'S EXCLUDED, WOMAN CHARGES

Compton's Great Grandchild Wants Property Share.

Says is Wrongfully Stopped from Participating.

Ancient Deed of Trust Basis of Court Battle.

Mrs. Maude Goldsborough, great grand-daughter of Griffith D. Compton, founder of the city of Compton, in an action filed through Attorney H. K. Sargent yesterday, alleges that she has been wrongfully excluded from participating in the estate under a deed of trust made in 1892 by Mr. Compton and his wife, Emily.

The complaint alleges that Mr. Compton, by a deed, conveyed all his property to three trustees, directing them upon the death of Mr. Compton and his wife to sell the remaining property and divide the proceeds equally between their five children, Eda C. Prince, Charles G. Compton, William S. Compton, E. C. Harbert and Jordina Flood.

Mr. Compton died in 1905 and his wife in 1909. The plaintiff is the grand-daughter of Jordina Flood. She states that more than $15,000 has been distributed, and about $2000 in property remains in the hands of the present trustees.

G. E. Kimble, Claude R. Prince and Frank B. Hobart are made defendants, together with numerous decendants of Griffith D. Compton.

BOY FLINGS GEM AWAY.

Takes Mother's $2500 "Sparkler" but Soon Discards It.

The infant son of S. F. Senger of 1400 South Figueroa street is fond of anything that sparkles and that is why Mr. Senger is now searching for a $2500 marquise diamond ring, according to a report he made to the police yesterday.

The child, Mr. Senger says, climbed to a chair and investigated his mother's jewel box. He secured the ring and later in the day threw it away. When the ring was missed, the child, according to Mr. Senger, told of securing it, but was unable to remember what he did with it.

A piece of soap, late yesterday afternoon, landed Mrs. Margaret Phillips, 26 years of age, of 825 Merwin street, head down into her bath tub, she received a black eye which was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

According to nurses in the hospital, Mrs. Phillips stated that she slipped when she stepped on a piece of soap and fell head first into the bath tub. She struck her right eye on the edge of the tub.

Chickering-Ampico

—Reproducing Pianos—

At the head of the list of Reproducing Pianos is the Chickering Ampico. In the judgment of world-renowned critics it is the finest reproducing piano made in the world today. The AMPICO is a mechanism, built into the CHICKERING PIANO, which reproduces with absolute fidelity the actual playing of great artists.

Select the Artist from the World's Best!

Rachmaninoff and Lavitski, two of the present season's sensations, have both awarded to the AMPICO the palm of pre-eminence over all other reproducing pianos. They will confine the recording of their playing to the AMPICO exclusively.

Godowski, Bauer, Gabrilowitsch, Ruhling, Ornstein, Copeland, Wynne Pyle, Arthur Loesser, Mme. Wisnegradoff are among the hundred others who have played for the AMPICO and whose interpretations may be enjoyed today in every home where there is a Chickering Ampico.

The CHICKERING AMPICO has opened up a new era in the history of music, affording the means of a musical education never before possible and bringing the joys of the finest music into every home it enters.

WOMEN RIOT IN CITY JAIL.

As the result of a riot in the womens' quarters of the City Jail yesterday, one woman was treated in the Receiving Hospital for painful lacerations and bruises about the head and face, and a second prisoner locked in a separate cell. According to Police Matron McPeak, in a statement to police officials investigating the fight, the result might have been serious except for assistance given her by a number of other prisoners.

According to the police the trouble started when Dorothy Dalton, a prisoner serving a term of 220 days for shoplifting, attempted to assist Mrs. Marie Hessert of 824½ East Fifth street. Mrs. Hessert, the police say, was arrested early yesterday morning on a charge of disturbing the peace, and just before the fight, according to Matron McPeak, was ill.

From what could be learned from the two prisoners, Mrs. Hessert is alleged to have cursed Dorothy Dalton when she attempted to give her a drink of water. Miss Dalton resented the cursing and struck her fellow prisoner. The fight then took place and Mrs. Hessert, who according to the police was the loser, was taken to the Receiving Hospital and treated. She was later released under $50 bail.

The People and Their Troubles

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

Ungratified Tastes.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

When a man permits his family to indulge in extravagances that he cannot afford he justifies his weakness to himself by saying that he loves his wife and children so dearly that he cannot bear to deny them anything.

He thinks he proves his affection by working himself to death so that his husky wife and daughters may not even have to make up their own beds, and the sons may loaf through college and acquire a discriminating taste in imported cigarettes and clothes. He even consoles himself as he lies awake at night worrying about how he's going to get the money to pay for dressmaker bills and millinery bills and imported lingerie bills and automobile bills, by thinking that mother and the girls have had the things they wanted, anyway.

In reality, if a man hated his wife and children with a deadly hatred and planned the cruelest and most subtle revenge upon them, he could take no surer way of venting his spite and enmity upon them than by teaching them the tastes and habits that they will not have the means to gratify. For sooner or later there comes a crash in the affairs of such a man. Some day the flimsy structures of his overstrained credit crashes down about his ears, or else he dies, and his paupered family is thrown out on a practical world that has scant sympathy for those who have been living in a gilded luxury to which they had no right.

Poverty, heaven knows, is hard enough for any of us to bear, but its deprivations are a thousand fold more bitter to those who are unaccustomed to them than they are to those who have never known anything else. Those who have never had anything but coarse and ugly clothes, and plain food, and cheap lodging may vaguely long for something better, but such things are not the nightmare of horror to them, they are to those who are accustomed to fine and beautiful raiment, and exquisite food, and artistic surroundings.

There is no torture equal to the tortures of unsatisfied desires, of tastes that must be crucified at every turn, of habits that must be denied every hour of the day. To have to wear shoddy when you are accustomed to broadcloth; to have to eat margarine when you have never eaten anything but gilt edge butter; to have to walk to save car fare, when you've ridden around in limousines; not to be able to have any of the little luxuries that long custom has made necessities to you, is to be plunged into a misery as acute as can fall to any mortal.

Yet it is this particular brand of misery that the man prepares for his family when he permits them to develop a champagne taste on a beer income, and it isn't fair to them. It isn't playing the game with them. It isn't giving them a square deal.

No man has a right to let his wife acquire extravagant habits unless he has enough money to leave her when he dies to enable her to live in the style to which he has accustomed her. It isn't easy for a woman to change her ways after she is fifty. She can't learn how to manage, and be thrifty, after that age, if she has been easy going and wasteful up to then. Still less can she learn any way of making a living if she has always been kept soft and comfortable at home and has not even had to keep a careful eye on the money she spent.

Every man knows this. Every man has been called on to help some forlorn and bewildered woman whose husband's death has suddenly chucked from the lap of luxury into the arms of want. Her husband was such a good man. So devoted to his wife. Couldn't deny her anything. But her worst enemy couldn't have done her a greater wrong.

Nor has any man a right to raise his daughter up with imported hat tastes unless he is able to give her a dowry when she is married sufficient to pay her millinery bills. Certainly he has no right to expect that a girl who has been accustomed to dressing like a fashion plate, and adorning herself in the most artistic creations of the best dressmakers and milliners, is going to have her tastes so changed by the marriage ceremony that she will be happy and contented in cheap hand-me-downs. Neither has he any right to lay the burden of supplying these luxuries on the hapless young man she marries.

Every girl should be raised in direct ratio to her father's bank account. She should be either brought up to be thrifty and economical, and a good cook and housekeeper, or else she should have enough money settled upon her to pay her bills, and hire somebody to do the work she has not been taught to do.

There is no other mistake that good men make that is so disastrous as that of thinking that they are doing their families a kindness in indulging them in things they cannot afford. The woman whose husband makes her a working partner, and who holds her responsible for managing intelligently and thriftily her end of the business as he does his, makes a better and more loving wife than the woman who is nothing but a parasite and a doll baby wife. The children who are taught self-denial and self-control, and how to make and save money, and how to do without the little things they want so they may have the big things, make the men and women who achieve things in the world.

And that is why a man owes it to his family to make them live well within their income.

A Dollar Tax Rate.

OCEAN PARK, May 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In Sunday's Times I note that the next county budget will show a raise in the tax rate to $2.43 based upon the anticipated overhead cost of government for the next fiscal year.

On May 1, 1908, in Oakland, Cal., I organized the Consolidation League of Alameda county, and have been president of that league subsequent to that date. We have for many years been trying to bring about the consolidation of Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley, Emeryville, Albany, Piedmont and San Leandro into one political unit and reduce the tax rate to $1 maximum. I was a candidate for Mayor of Oakland at the primaries, April 15, 1919, and was defeated by Mayor John L. Davis as were five other candidates. The cost for government to the taxpayers of Alameda county for the fiscal year ending June 18, 1918, was $3,256,666.55, the figures taken from the twenty-ninth annual report of the Auditor of the city of Oakland, incorporated with the annual report of the Board of Supervisors for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918. By consolidation of city and county government our $5,000,000 could have been saved the taxpayers and the consolidation of city and county government over Los Angeles, Cal., would no doubt save the taxpayers of Los Angeles city and county a larger amount of real money and bring down the tax rate for Los Angeles to the maximum rate of $1 or 1 per cent.

It is a positive fact that the high tax rates in Oakland and San Francisco and Los Angeles have kept large industries from locating in the three largest cities in this State. Richmond, Cal., has been built up since 1901 to the detriment of Oakland, simply because of the low tax rate in Richmond, and if Los Angeles, Cal., had a tax rate of $1 maximum, and the charter now in force, your advancement would be more rapid in the future, for Los Angeles, Cal., is now the largest city west of St. Louis, Mo., and has a population of over 150,000 more than San Francisco and is therefore the largest city on the Pacific Coast. No matter where I live or where I go, I have always been a booster for Los Angeles, Cal.; to my way of thinking the best city in the United States of America, and I have returned to once more take up my residence in Los Angeles.

Consolidation of city and county government and a $1 tax rate will increase your population to over 1,000,000 in the next five years.

Yours for consolidation,
ED R. WEBSTER,

Luxury Tax Queries.

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Can you please inform your readers as to what manufacturers of war luxuries can charge the tax to the purchaser when the purchaser resides in Canada, and the goods are sent to that country by the manufacturer?

I have had bills for goods sold to clients when the tax has been added to the export invoices. I do not believe the tax should be charged on exported goods; to do this would be laying the burden of the United States war tax on foreign purchasers instead of where it belongs.

The manufacturers should not charge the war tax when their goods are sold to a foreign purchaser and exported by the manufacturer.

Red Lights.

HOLLYWOOD, May 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the summer of 1908, I was visiting in Los Angeles and Mr. Snyder was one of the city at that time. As I was interested in philanthropic work in Chicago, I wished to visit the "Red Light" district in this city in order to compare conditions. Mr. John Sobieski, who, at that time, was officially connected with the "Door of Hope," a refuge for fallen women, met me at the corner of Fifth and Spring, at 9 o'clock in the morning, and after a few minutes we were in the very heart of the most fearful conditions, for both men and women, that any one could conceive. I was simply appalled at the open flaunting of vice in this horrible region. I saw girls of 16 and 18 years, girls of my own, with only a single garment on. Oh! The horrible things I saw! I was haunted for two weeks and was really ill! We went through this region, by special permission of the officer who did not consider it safe for us to go alone, although it was daylight in the very heart of the business district in this city. I talked with several of these poor young girls, for they were not all bad, and several of them promised me that they would go to the "Door of Hope." Now, I could fill a volume with the horrible things I witnessed on that occasion, but I am sure that neither Mr. Snyder nor the people of Chicago could stand to hear the things obtained there, and I am sure that Mr. Snyder, we could look in vain for such a condition as that which I have described.

Now we have a new administration in this city, let us hope that in the future, in electing a man who is to be our chief executive, we will be careful in selecting a man who is a gentleman, as well as one who is capable of having it clean.

SOCIETY.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS.

A romance that started in North Dakota when the couple were children in school will culminate in the marriage on Saturday of Miss Lisa Neuschaefer of this city and Mr. Henry Gysler of Milan, Italy. Miss Neuschaefer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Neuschaefer of 765 West Seventeenth street, and was educated in Europe. During the war she was with the French to Red Cross work, and is still in the work. Mr. Gysler's father is the largest cotton importer in Northern Italy. Following the signing of the armistice Mr. Gysler, Jr., was commissioned by all the big cotton importers to come to America as their representative. He is well known in America, especially in New York, Memphis and other parts of the South.

The wedding will take place at 11 o'clock at the First Unitarian Church and Miss Anna Neuschaefer will be her sister's maid of honor, while Miss Neuschaefer will stand with her father, Mr. H. C. Neuschaefer, a well known cotton manufacturer, came to Los Angeles with his family in 1912. In 1913 Mr. Gysler came over to this country on a visit to his future bride, and during that time he and his fiancée were much in evidence at social affairs, and left many friends who were kiddies saw them when they were children upon his departure. He has returned to claim his bride and will tour the United States, visiting Washington and Oregon, for several months, and will spend part of the summer in the Maine woods—sailing there, their future home, Australia.

Miss Huntington.

Howard Huntington of Oak Knoll has arranged a charming courtesy for Mrs. Edward Groenendyke and her young son, Edward Groenendyke, Jr., is leaving the first part of the month for a year's visit in the Eastern States and the Hawaiian Islands.

An affair is to be a dinner given by Miss Huntington home tomorrow evening. Places will be arranged for Mrs. John B. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pitcairn, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hixon, Mr. and Mrs. Tod Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Tod Hunter and Mrs. Fred Bixby and Miss Stacy.

Miss Banning.

Miss Hancock Banning and Miss Mary Johnston, her future daughter-in-law, are planning a motor trip to San Francisco, expecting to leave at the end of the week. Mrs. Banning will arrange several little affairs for Miss Johnston and for Lieut. Hancock Banning, who is with his ship, anchored in the Bay City.

Miss Burnand.

Miss Katherine Burnand is to entertain at a dinner-dance on the evening of June 6 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Beely W. Mudd at 2232 Hoover boulevard. The affair is to be a compliment to the senior class of Throop.

A pre-debutante set is anticipating unusually gay evening on Saturday, the supper-dance at which the misses at Marlborough—Misses Ruth Jones, Helen Iten, Mona Lee and Ouida McQuatters—are to entertain 200 guests in the ballroom of the Alexandria. The affair is given in honor of the seniors of Marlborough, although a number of their girl friends from other schools are to be included. The younger set just now seems busily occupying the biggest space in the social calendar of any other week.

Of American Embassy.

Much interest is centered in the news that Capt. Elbridge Dexter of this city has been appointed to the post of military attache to the American Embassy at Brussels. Mrs. Capt. Bland and his young daughter (Miss Gage,) daughter of former Secretary Henry T. Gage, were also most popular of the younger set in society. They were married just before he entered the service two years ago. First he was stationed at the War College in Washington and then abroad for special service with the expeditionary forces. For several years he and his family lived in Portugal and an

RUSSIAN SABLE—
the dominant Summer Fur

FOR centuries sables have been considered the aristocrats of Furdom, but never before this year have they come into such popular favor. In every style center of the globe smartly gowned women are seen wearing garments fashioned from these luxurious peltries.

The vogue of the Sable is due, partly, to the sudden placing on the market of Crown Sables. This magnificent species with its rich, dark coloring and beautiful silver-tipped hairs was bred exclusively for Russian royalty and was never sold.

Through our affiliations in Russia we have secured a fine collection of Crown Sables. We are very proud of this purchase as few American furriers were able to obtain any of these skins. Because of its great value this collection is stored in our vaults and can be shown by appointment only.

HER GOWN TOO DIAPHANOUS?

Court Declines to Qualify as Peek-a-Boo Expert.

So Wife Fails to Prove Her Grounds for Divorce.

Husband Tore up Frock He Said was Immodest.

"My opinion on that dress," said Judge Taft yesterday in the Mitchell divorce action in which Mrs. Marguerite Mitchell's alleged transparent dresses were objected to by her husband, Ross T. Mitchell, "would not be worth the time it takes to inspect it. It was evident it was a dress she wanted to wear, and he did not want her to wear it. She said he tore it up, and he gave a reason for spoiling it; that's enough."

Judge Taft, in short, refused to pose as an expert on whether or not Mrs. Mitchell's dresses were immodest, although Attorney Silberberg had the dress in court and asked him to look it over. When Mrs. Mitchell testified several days ago, her husband was not present. The court continued the case until yesterday when Attorney Griffith Jones produced Mr. Mitchell.

The latter said he and his wife had talked over the alleged objectionable dresses, and they agreed she would not wear an old rose dress and a green dress. He admitted tearing up the green dress, because it was transparent under the arms, showing the flesh when she leaned forward. He said they had a number of arguments over the dress, and he told her he would buy a new one.

"I am not a judge of women's dresses," said the court. "If I was there would be a radical change in the prevailing style."

Mrs. Mitchell accused her husband of slapping her, but Mr. Mitchell explained that. He said his wife talks so fast that she becomes hysterical. He had been told to throw water in her face to revive her or slap her face. Having no water handy, he slapped her. The court denied Mrs. Mitchell a decree.

HEARING POSTPONED.

A number of grocers and storekeepers appeared as witnesses yesterday.

IS DANGEROUSLY ILL.

Miss Elizabeth B. Fremont, daughter of Gen. John C. Fremont, who was prominently associated with the early history of California and a pioneer of Los Angeles, is dangerously ill at her residence, 1179 West Thirteenth street.

She has been ill for some time, but during the past few days her condition has been such as to cause her friends great anxiety. The attending physician states that she is gradually declining. Miss Fremont's father was Governor of Arizona from 1878 to 1881. In the early 40s Americans elected him Governor of California, but the Mexicans were in control here politically at that time.

Suburban Towns Also Make a Creditable Showing.

More than $600,000 of the $853,000 quota apportioned to Los Angeles city in the Methodist centenary campaign, has been subscribed, according to reports received last night by Dr. Byron H. Wilson, district superintendent. The fine work here is being matched by churches in all parts of the State and, although national figures have not been tabulated yet, the leaders of the drive in the San Francisco area, which embraces California, Nevada and Arizona, assert, Dr. Wilson states, that this district has matched in enthusiasm and contributions any other part of the country in providing its share of the $105,000,000 sought.

The Lincoln-avenue church yesterday went "over the top." Its quota was $20,000 and it reported subscriptions amounting to $22,000. The First church of Pasadena also reported oversubscriptions. It was expected to raise $140,000 and exceeded that amount by $2000.

Reports from other churches were: Lake avenue, quota, $3500, raised $3200; Lamanda Park, quota $7040, raised $5040, and San Pedro, quota $11,000, raised $9502.

"Over the top" reports came from Monrovia, Glendora, Ontario, Upland, Yucaipa, Highland Park and Eagle Rock.

From San Francisco headquarters came the report last night that the three States in this area have raised $2,232,000 of the quota of $4,452,516.

Fifty-thousand three hundred and twenty-nine dollars was the report last night of C. A. De Coo, head of the eleven teams working to raise the quota of the First Methodist Church.

Deeds for residence lots, 1000 acres of land, gifts of various kinds were mentioned, but only the cash is included in the $50,329, as the deeds must be appraised and the property given a valuation before the amounts can be included in the grand total. The honor team last night was that of W. F. Cronemiller, which heads the list with a total of $7624 for the day's work. The women were close second, and Mrs. May Bliss reported $3303 for the ladies. The third team was captained by Dr. Ernest Allin with $1127.

There will be an automobile parade today to further stir up interest.

HEADS AD CLUB.

Ray Nimmo is Elected President, Succeeding Harry S. Carroll.

Ray Nimmo, formerly one of the board of director, was elected president of the Advertising Club yesterday, succeeding Harry S. Carroll, who, by virtue of his office, became a member of the new directing board, consisting of P. C. Miller, A. T. Tarbell, Charles L. Lewin, Frank A. Greth and Arthur M. Loomis.

A. D. Smith was elected first vice-president; Bert Butterworth was re-elected second vice-president; W. E. Sibertson was chosen third vice-president, and William C. Kottermann secretary-treasurer.

In an address on "Real Facts About Mexico," Prof. Ricardo Uribe said that America is responsible for what little peace Mexico has known during the last forty years, and he advised Americans to "learn the Spanish language that they may introduce into Mexico and Central America those ideal which have made the United States the greatest country in the world."

Trixie Friganza, musical comedy star, rendered a delightful programme before the club. Trixie jollied her audience along for ten minutes with jokes and comic songs and finished by reciting the story of a crippled Airedale that saved his master from death by gas in the European trenches. Another feature of the programme was the appearance of the Orpheus Quartette of Los Angeles, consisting of S. B. Glasse, Paul E. Adams, V. A. Campbell and H. M. Dudley.

REVERSES JUDGMENT IN SURETY CASE.

A mandate was received from the United States Circuit Court of Appeal yesterday reversing the judgment of District Judge Trippet in the case of the Globe Grain and Milling Company against the National Surety Company.

The judgment, entered in March, 1918, was for $5000 in favor of the Globe company because a trusted employee had defaulted and robbed his employers. The bonding company set up the defense that it would not have bonded the individual if the Globe company had informed them that he was short in his accounts and really not entitled to a bond. The higher court orders a judgment in favor of the National Surety Company, with its costs.

HELD ON CHARGE OF STEALING STOCKINGS.

Ralph Bulger, for many years employed in the freight department of the Union Pacific at Central City, Neb., was taken into custody yesterday at his residence, 1118 Orange street, by Deputy United States Marshal Bassett on the charge of robbing a Baltimore and Ohio freight car at that point of a case of stockings, consigned in interstate commerce from the Interwoven Stocking Company, Brunswick, N. J., to a firm in Central City. The value of the goods is given as $69 in the indictment returned against Bulger, at Grand Island.

The hearing on the removal proceedings will take place this morning, and Bulger was held in $1000 bond. He has confessed his fault, it is said, and wants to return as soon as possible. He has been employed in a Los Angeles shipbuilding yard for some time.

Y.M.C.A. OFFICIALLY CLOSES CAMPAIGN.

OVER HALF DESIRED SUM RAISED AND WORKERS WILL KEEP ON.

While the Y.M.C.A. campaign for $65,000 for current expenses and Americanization fund officially closed last night, all of the committeemen have agreed to continue their work until the sum desired is raised. This was agreed upon, unanimously, by the committee last night at the final meeting, when it was learned that only $38,079.60 had been raised.

All the teams made final reports showing sums raised as follows: Team No. 1, $6093; No. 2, $5018; No. 3, $570; No. 4, $2354; No. 5, $570; No. 6, $570; No. 7, $649; No. 8, $656; No. 9, $990; No. 10, $1059; No. 11, $590; No. 12, $3013; No. 13, $2673; No. 14, $1193; No. 15, $1294; No. 16, $2172; No. 17, $1882; No. 18, $1646; No. 19, $724; No. 20, $1225; boys' department, $454; mail department, $1254.

Following the announcements from the teams, A. E. Cass, president of the association and general campaign manager, said the total of $65,000 was absolutely needed and it would be impossible for the association to get along with any less. He said there were still many other subscriptions promised and he knew that considerable more money would be received. He then asked the committee to continue their work.

The campaign had been conducted by two divisions, the "Angels," under the leadership of George H. Page, and the "Tigers" under former Judge Herbert D. Gale. The Angels reported $18,511.50; the Tigers, $17,560.

At the noon luncheon of workers yesterday the speakers were R. H. Gossom, secretary of the Long Beach Y.M.C.A. and recently returned from service in France, and Rev. T. H. Walker, pastor of the Boyle Heights Presbyterian Church, who served for a year at the submarine base at Plymouth, Eng. The "Angels" team reported $3323 for the day and the "Tigers" $2169. E. G. Judah's team reported a total of $6073, and J. J. Akin's $6026. The team of W. J. Pargellis was third with $2622. The team of fifty boys reported a collection, nearly all in small sums of $274.50. Some of the larger contributions of the campaign are as follows:

Arthur Letts	$2,500
E. F. Clark	2,500
W. A. Wigg	1,000
F. E. Eckhart	1,000
J. C. Warren	1,000
W. L. Valentine	1,000

J. E. Carr	500

COUNCIL APPROVES SUBDIVISION MAPS.

SIX ORDINANCES ARE ADOPTED ACCEPTING DEDICATION OF STREETS AND ALLEYS.

Approval of the map of Tract 3140, being a new subdivision lying on each side of Canyon drive, north of Foothill drive, was given by the City Council yesterday. It referred to the Public Works Committee, the report of the City Engineer on Tract 3239, a new subdivision lying south of Carson street and east of Normandie avenue.

Six ordinances were adopted accepting the dedication of certain streets and alleys. Included in these are some parcels of streets that have been used for nearly half a century, but which, it has been discovered, have never been legally dedicated to the city.

In the list are three parcels of land in the former city of Wilmington; alley south of Pennsylvania avenue, between St. Louis and Cummings streets; alley in the Bellevue-Avenue Tract No. 2; alley south of Seventh street, westerly of Broadway; Mott street, from First to Second streets; College street, between Adobe and Figueroa streets.

The Council approved the assessment district maps for the improvement of an alley south of Third street, between St. Louis and Cummings street, and the City Engineer was instructed to prepare the ordinance of intention for the sewering of Norton avenue, between Eighth and Tenth streets.

Ordinances of intention were adopted for sewer work in Ridgewood place, between First and Temple streets; Sanborn avenue and Hoover street district; Wisconsin place, between Thirty-ninth street and Thirty-ninth place; Mariposa avenue and Melrose avenue district; Meridian street and Avenue 47 district; Eleventh street, between Santa Fe avenue and a point 650 feet easterly; Virgil avenue, between Santa Monica boulevard and Fountain avenue. Instructions were rescinded for construction of a sewer under private contract in Mariposa avenue from Melrose avenue to a point southerly thereof.

TO PROSECUTE COOK ON THIEVING CHARGE.

Assistant United States District Attorney Young went to San Diego last night to appear today in behalf of the government in the case of Sam Tidwell, a civilian cook employed at Camp Kearny, who is charged with stealing a quantity of military goods and stores. The hearing will be before United States Commissioner Andrews.

While in San Diego, Mr. Young will investigate the status of Lucian Heiser, who was formerly employed as a chef at the U. S. Grant Hotel, charged with being an alien enemy. Heiser has been at liberty for some time and wants to be relieved of the disagreeable duty of reporting to the San Diego authorities, under the terms of his parole.

CHURCHES LIABLE FOR TABLE TAXES.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Roper has ruled, says word received yesterday, that billiard tables, whether in regular amusement places, churches or elsewhere, are taxable. The ruling was drawn out by a protest lodged with Collector Carter by Maj. Alfred Moore, representing the Church of the Epiphany.

Maj. Moore was of the opinion that the two tables maintained by the church for the amusement of the members of the congregation were not taxable under the new revenue laws, and told the collector his views on the matter. The latter was stumped and appealed to the commissioner, with the result as given above. The law provides an annual tax of $10 per table.

TAKE STEPS TO CLEAR UP CALENDAR HERE.

Radical action was taken yesterday by the State Supreme Court to clean up the Los Angeles calendar of cases, by making an order transferring forty-four pending civil cases to Division No. 1, Appellate District No. 1, in San Francisco.

The action is taken by reason of the necessity of doing something to relieve the congestion in the Los Angeles calendar. The order will work something of a hardship on litigants interested in the transferred cases, for it will be necessary for the attorneys representing them to make the trip to San Francisco to present the cases to the District Court of Appeal, as there seems to be no fund to pay the expenses of the court to come to this city.

ACCUSED OF BOOTLEGGING.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, May 20.—L. Lara of Lamanda Park, whose arrest on a charge of illegal liquor selling was the sequel of the illicit obtaining of liquor by Pasadena High School boys, was arraigned today in Judge Raymond G. Thompson's justice court. He asked for a trial by jury and his case was set for May 26. In default of $100 bail he was taken to the County Jail. The complaint filed against Lara charged him with selling liquor to Pasadena High School boys. Their names were withheld by the school authorities but Principal W. C. Wilson said today the boys who appeared at school under the influence of liquor had been "indefinitely suspended."

REDUCING CITY INSURANCE.

A new plan to lessen the cost per unit of buildings on which the city is carrying insurance is to be worked out. The Supply Committee of the City Council presented a report making this recommendation yesterday, and it was adopted. The Los Angeles Fire Insurance Exchange and Efficiency Director McQuiston are requested to confer in working out a plan for the city similar to that now in use for the Board of Education, and for which a similar plan is being prepared for use of the county.

CITY TO AID PENSION FUND.

Attention of the City Council was yesterday directed by the board of commissioners in charge of the police and firemen's pension funds to the fact that recent legislation requires that an amount equal to 3½ per cent. of the salaries of employes of these departments should be provided by the city to be placed in these pension funds. The subject went to the Finance Committee and will have consideration in the preparation of the budget for the ensuing fiscal year.

THE REAL THING.

One of our bulging-domed scientists is said to have discovered the real la grippe germ. If he doesn't pull its stinger while he has the thing down he is no friend of ours.

THIS IS NO YARN.

Women who do their knitting and crocheting in the street cars and public places have to be mighty pretty to hold masculine interest and attention nowadays. Mild derision is more likely to be inspired.

ROAD MAKING.

The State of Illinois voted a bond issue of $60,000,000 for highway construction over a period of three years or more. Now it is reported that contracts have been let for 650 miles of road building as a starter. According to the figures, the average cost per mile will be $28,000, which is almost $10,000 a mile above the estimates made by the engineers at the time the vote was taken. It is tough when a war in Germany can boost the price of broken rock and gravel in this country out of sight. But as a people we are now healthily committed to a programme of road construction and we are going ahead with it in spite of all.

FUSS AND FEATHERS.

Now we are told that the ostrich plume is "coming back." We always knew there was a kick left in an ostrich, whether it came from his undraped limb or in the milliner's bill. The ostrich thrives in Southern California. He likes our climate; he loves our tourists, tourettes and tourines; he is considerate in the matter of peanuts. His intellect is one cylinder, and his morals are lax, but fine feathers DO make fine birds, and if the ostrich industry is restored to its pristine importance hereabouts one of the quaintest features of our native heath will be ours again, even though some of our incredulous back-East cousins contique firm in their belief that "there ain't no such animal."

THE TRUTHFUL TICKER.

"The ticker never lies," is a familiar adage in Wall street. The thought behind is that the funny little instrument, which nervously tells off the story of the day on the stock exchange, which in its turn reflects the optimistic or pessimistic trend of business, truly records the pulse beats of our trade and commerce. When stocks are buoyant, money free, credit easy, the public speculatively inclined; when brokers are blithesome and optimists are rampant and entirely surrounded by bulls, the ticker ticks fast and its dots and dashes are of business strength; of development maximus; of prosperity, present and to come. The Times financial columns are the most reliable barometer to be found. They read now, "continued fair weather with steady trade winds."

MERE MATHEMATICS.

If our old fried "A," the hero of many an adventure related in Robinson's 'rithmetic, needs a house and has the money or the credit to build it he will do well to turn to an equally good old counselor, the copybook with its familiar "there is no time like the present." Suppose neighbor "B" did build his house in 1914 and suppose it did cost $3000 instead of the $4000 which "A" may have to pay. If "A" can sell his house upon completion for $4500 or if he can make up the difference in cost in two or three years by his rent savings, it looks to the man on the fence like a pretty good investment, even if there is a slight depreciation in actual value in the course of the next five years. The overadvertised "increased cost" is a bogie. One's own fireside is cheap at any price, but it's good business, too. Look for the answer in the back of the book and build now.

VIBRATORY VALUES.

A French philosopher expressed the hope that the time will come when the correction of the errors of language by mathematical formula will make comparative knowledge absolutely accurate and render our conception of words universally definite. Language, oral and written, is the vibratory representation of ideas. However, in the evolution of languages, there is no question that various sounds and forms have come to bear symbolic meanings not in harmony with their original significance. Even if all men spoke one language, and that language were spoken in all the purity of sounds representative of both concrete and abstract thoughts, one single word might still represent any one of a thousand ideas, according to the pitch or tone in which it might be uttered. Because of this fact the ablest mathematicians would find it difficult to take a simple sentence and estimate the exact vibratory value of each word in it. It will probably be a long time yet before the French philosopher's hope is fulfilled.

KEEP THEM OUT OF POLITICS.

During the last twenty years Los Angeles has sprung from the third-class to the first-class among American municipalities. Its growth has been so rapid, has verged so close upon the phenomenal, that civic problems have been evolved, unknown to cities of slower growth. It has not always been easy to have a new suit provided before the old was outgrown. The average citizen has been too busily engaged in keeping tab on his winnings to pay due attention to growth and betterment.

The Times, with numerous local organizations, has devoted a great deal of study and endeavor to stabilizing the business center of the city, keeping it from drifting like a boat without a rudder, preventing depreciation and loss and insuring permanency of values. The high wind of progress is dangerous to reckless navigation; for the wind is not a navigator. It drives a vessel with equal nonchalance into port or upon the rocks.

Various associations of citizens are at work along the lines of business stabilization. There are the Civic Improvement Association, the Civic Art League and an organization for a union station at the Plaza. A big organization is backing up the plans for a suitable civic center; the North End Improvement Association and the Tunnel Association have rendered valued public service. In fact, we might mention a dozen organizations that have been working to stabilize values in that part of the city north of Eleventh street, as well as for the steady advance of every section of the municipality. Many a promising city has been wrecked by overzealous promoters who have led it into a cul-de-sac, believing it to be an open highway to progress.

But The Times regrets to have observed during the last few weeks that a surreptitious attempt has been made to use these associations for Democratic political exploitation. Adroit politicians are scheming to confuse the plans for civic betterment with the Democratic municipal fight, to infect them with a taint of politics. Any thinking man can appreciate what a serious mistake it would be to permit these projects for civic improvement to become involved in a political quarrel and subjected to the pernicious effects of partisanship. No project of a civic nature has ever succeeded after falling into the hands of the politicians and being bandied about among rival political camps.

We trust that none of the loyal and public-spirited citizens, who have done much to make the efforts of these organizations successful, will be hoodwinked or deceived by Democratic tricks. It is an axiom of politics that he who promises most performs the least. In Aesop's time the farmer and his son lost their donkey through trying to gratify all the whims of public opinion. That fable is frequently repeated in modern politics; but the politician is more adroit than the farmer, and a credulous public plays the part of the ass.

Questions of partisan politics cannot enter legitimately into any of the many and complicated projects for business stabilization and civic betterment; for each of them is civic and not political in nature and interest. Many of the present plans are the outgrowth of movements dating back a generation. Like everything durable they are of slow growth. Administrations pass over them like a wind over a lake, rippling the surface while the depth is undisturbed. Politics is ephemeral, a rag tossed in every breeze; to risk our projects for municipal growth and development upon the cast of a single municipal election would be to gamble on our future with the cards stacked against us.

In every important movement it is the steady pull that wins. Spurts are dangerous and generally disastrous; and the greatest folly of all is frequent change of management. To risk our civic improvements upon the off chance of securing a Democratic administration in a city strongly and almost uniformly Republican would be to agree beforehand that all progress should stop while the opposite party was in power. The folly of that is self-evident.

Most of the projects backed by the associations which we have named are moving slowly but perceptibly forward. They have been formulated during Republican administrations and The Times cannot understand how anyone honestly interested in their success can contemplate placing their fulfillment in new and untried hands. Frequent changes in management are the marks of failure in any industrial or commercial enterprise. During the political reorganization, which a change of administration would now necessitate, all these projects would be held in abeyance. A loss of time and of effort would inevitably follow. And The Times refuses to believe that any great number of the true friends of Los Angeles are of the opinion that civic betterment can be secured through the injection of the virus of Democratic politics.

The advice of the experienced business man would be to trust these projects to those who have started them. Democratic administrations make a proverbial mess of business and finance. There would be a sorry prospect for the future if our projects for business stability and civic growth should be caught in the whirlpool of Democratic politics. That anyone should have tried the scheme at this time is regrettable; and the candidate or candidates seeking to make them a political issue should receive a repudiation at the polls which will stand as a warning for future politicians to keep their hands off of Los Angeles.

And WORST OF ALL, if the directors of these organizations and movements for civic progress and business anchorage permit them to become adjuncts of the Phelan Democratic machine in the fierce fight now going on, antagonism and bitterness, grudges and grievances and vengefulness will be aroused that will be fatal to them. The Times knows whereof it affirms.

Gen. Leonard Wood has accepted the editorship of an eastern magazine and will contribute articles for every issue of the publication. This possibly means that at least one editor will be in favor of the Wood candidacy for President.

Why is it that nobody has the nerve to criticise the lack of education on the part of either a man or woman if the bank account is of the proper proportions?

False alarms are not confined to the fire department. You often see them in everyday life.

CONGRESS ON THE JOB.

For the first time since 1911 the country has a working and not a conversational Congress on the job. There was a gratifying paucity of oratory when the two houses assembled on Monday and an encouraging haste to begin actual consideration of the important and complex problems of the hour. Democratic vacillation has been early replaced by Republican action.

The country knows by the cable dispatches that the war is over; but there has been as yet no government action to reduce the high cost of living which war conditions forced upon us. All the inconveniences and increased costs were accepted as a war necessity; but when the necessity has ceased to exist the taxpayers have a right to demand a prompt return of industry to a peace basis.

It is to facilitate this return that bills have already been introduced in Congress for the return of the railroads, the telephone and telegraph lines and the express properties to their owners. Maintaining war seizures in times of peace is repugnant alike to justice and to free government.

High and oppressive taxes were saddled upon the country by the last Congress. The Democratic leaders made a sorry mess of government finances. They appropriated money with a lavishness without parallel; and to raise that money they levied taxes that were alike unjust and grotesque. A saner financial policy has already been outlined by the Republican majority. The bills which the government has run must be paid. There will be no renunciation or evasion of just indebtedness; but taxes are to be so readjusted that they will not be public nuisances. The Democratic idea of taxation would be to make a passenger on a street car pay a penny every block; the Republicans will fix an adequate rate for the entire trip and permit the passenger to make payment with as little inconvenience as possible.

Prompt action is plainly necessary to restore order out of chaos in the transportation systems. During the first quarter of the present year the net operating loss of the railroads was $176,000,000. For the same quarter last year the loss was $146,000,000. That increased loss of $30,000,000 in time of peace, over the war operation, reveals clearly whither government operation is tending. The records show that, despite the increased rates, there has been an actual loss in operating revenue. This means that shipping is steadily falling off; that production is being strangled by the mismanagement of the great transportation systems. If these conditions are not quickly righted an industrial crisis will follow. Increased production is absolutely essential to reconstruction, and production is now retarded by fictitious prices and disorganized shipping conditions.

Dropping the railroads like a hot potato, after practically wrecking them by impotent management, will not suffice. There must be constructive legislation that will make it possible for the former operators and the owners to bring their properties back to the physical condition of the period before they were taken over by the government. Brains, not bombast, are required.

Shipping conditions are equally involved—and the last Congress adjourned leaving necessary and unnecessary appropriation bills in confusion. The Democrats were sore over their repudiation by the country and they vented their spleen by gumming up the cards for their successors. But the Republican majority is on the job and the Republican leaders have made a beginning that augurs well for the future.

There is a single rock ahead; but if not evaded it may wreck the whole Republican craft. That is the opposition to the League of Nations covenant in the peace treaty. If the Republican majority splits over ratification there may be a repetition of the Congressional blunders of 1911 and 1912 that lost the lower house and, later, the Presidency to the Republican party.

FROM THE PRESIDENT.

Renunciation is the keynote of President Wilson's first message to a Republican Congress. He voluntarily assents to giving back the railroads, the telegraph and the telephone systems to their owners, and he recommends also that the people be given back their wine and beer. Some of his partisan critics will probably liken his attitude to that of the coon saying to Davy Crockett: "Don't shoot; I'll come down."

The President freely admits that the last Democratic revenue bill was unjustifiable in many of its parts and recommends that a number of the excise schedules be repealed. He has evidently heard in far-away France the protest that has gone up against the "nuisance" taxes and recommends that taxes which are levied on articles sold at retail shall be discontinued.

There is a bewildering array of glittering generalities concerning labor legislation; but the recommendations lack point and are inconclusive. The President repeats the question, older than the pyramids: "How are the men and women who do the daily labor of the world to obtain progressive improvement in the conditions of their labor?" But he has no concrete solution other than to suggest that capital and labor should be associates and not antagonists. Some of the best lines of the message contain an appeal for employers and employees to work together for mutual advantage. "There is now in fact a real community of interest between capital and labor," says the President, "but it has never yet been made evident in action. . . . The genius of our business men and the sound, practical sense of our workers can certainly work such a partnership out when once they realise exactly what it is that they seek and sincerely adopt a common purpose with regard to it."

Proponents of government ownership of public utilities will find but cold comfort in the message. The President disposes of the railroad situation with the simple, bald statement, "The railroads will be handed over to their owners at the end of the calendar year." There is no suggestion of extending the time of operation under peace conditions to determine whether government ownership and operation are desirable. The steadily-increasing losses under Federal control have apparently satisfied the President that the transportation systems of the country can be operated to a better advantage by experienced railroad men than by politicians.

The President clings to the Democratic idea of low tariffs and direct Federal taxes. He says that "There is fortunately no occasion for undertaking in the immediate future any general revision of our system of import duties." But he adds that there is serious danger of dumping by foreign governments, and of unfriendly tariff legislation abroad. He recommends that the tariff commission be given authority to retaliate against any government that fails to give equitable treatment to American manufacturers and American-made goods.

There will probably be a hue and cry raised by the prohibitionists against the President's recommendation for the repeal of the ban placed on the manufacture and sale of wines and beers. They may aver that the wines of Capau have not lost their seductiveness. But The Times notes a dispatch from San Francisco states that the lifting of that ban would save California's 1919 vintage of 350,000 acres of wine grapes with an estimated value of $10,500,000. The President has probably seen enough of the confiscations of war while abroad to desire sincerely that there shall be no unnecessary industrial confiscations at home.

Conservatism is assertive everywhere through the message. This, however, was to be expected. The message of a Democratic President to a Republican Congress is always something of an anomaly. But this condition assures that no radical legislation will be passed, that no new national policies will be evolved. And for that we should, perhaps, be grateful.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

DRY TIME DRINKS.

What will we drink when comes July? We hear the thirsty people cry, the friends of old John Barleycorn, who'll sadly miss their frequent horn. In time they'll hit the babbling stream whose waters in the sunlight gleam; at some far day that drink will please, but they would reach it by degrees; a sudden change from booze, sadsocks, to sniffers from the babbling brooks, would give their works too hard a jolt and cause interior revolt. But there are drinks for every toff, with which that gent may taper off. Tobasco sauce is rich and hot, and hair restorers hit the spot, remove from weary hearts the care, and sometimes grow pink whiskers there. And there are divers colored inks which some regard as tempting drinks. Good writing fluid, blue or black, sends pleasant thrills along the back and makes a man so full of vim he'd tear a bobcat limb from limb. When I quit booze I often yearned for something strong that jarred and burned, and then I'd sip some turpentine and found its action very fine. I sampled all the drinks in view, from linseed oil to liquid glue, and finally was reconciled to lapping up the waters wild. And now I would not trade my well for all the booze this side of Hannibal, Mo. WALT MASON.

WAR RISK INSURANCE BIGGEST WAR BABY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) May 16.—While other bureaus created for war purposes are dwindling or being abolished, the Bureau of War Risk Insurance has grown to be the largest of all government departments and the largest enterprise of its kind in the world. It has recently moved into new and permanent quarters in a big building which was originally intended for Washington's most gorgeous hotel.

This government war baby is with us to stay for a long time. In fact, it is a permanent part of the government; for its obligations will not be discharged until the last dependent of an American soldier killed in the war has died, and some of those dependents have just been born. They will give the War Risk Bureau a mission in life for seventy-five or eighty years. If we do not have another war during that time the bureau will possibly go out of existence.

The big business of the bureau for a generation is going to be handling the permanent insurance policies for men who have been in the service which have now been authorized by Congress. This means simply that any man who took out insurance as a soldier or sailor may continue that insurance with the government as a civilian by converting his policy into one of a different type.

There is every indication that a large proportion of the men who were in the service will take this opportunity to obtain cheap life and endowment insurance. Some observers believe that this will lead to the extension of government insurance to civilians generally. With possibly several million Americans enjoying government insurance at low rates, they say, a demand will spring up among American citizens generally for the same benefits. Old-age insurance for government employees is being urged in connection with the proposed reform of the civil service. Government health insurance is also being widely discussed, and several State Legislatures are considering such measures. State or government health insurance means that by paying a certain amount a year to the government you would be assured of medical attention, hospital service and support while incapacitated. The advocates of such a measure point out that medical and hospital service would then be standardized by the government and that proper medical attention would be within reach of many who are too poor to afford it now. Such measures are opposed by many persons, who argue that our great insurance companies are all discharging such functions with great efficiency, and that it would take the government a long time to learn how to do as well.

This is probably true, but the government is now getting some fine practice in running an insurance business. The amount of insurance which the War Risk Bureau has issued is greater than the total amount of insurance in force for all American insurance companies. The statistics about their business which they quote you at the War Risk Bureau are impressive. They are now doing business with thirty million Americans, including over four million fighting men and over twenty-five million dependents. To these dependents has been paid more than four hundred million dollars. In order to make all this real to you some genius has figured out that if the amount of insurance issued by the bureau was represented in dollar bills joined end to end the strip of greenbacks would extend to the moon and back seven times.

This is probably the greatest check-writing institution in the world. It writes more than a million checks a month. If all this had to be done by hand the entire army could be given jobs looking after its own dependents; but all of this work is done by machinery. Every person who deals with the bureau is represented by an individual file, and an address plate is printed for each one. It keeps a hundred operators busy making plates. One machine and two girls can now turn out about twenty thousand checks a day. This used to require about four hundred employees. All checks are signed by a deputy disbursing clerk with a mechanical device which signs twenty checks at one time, all signatures being actual pen signatures.

Checks from the Bureau of War Risk Insurance go to every corner of the world. More than 30,000 checks are mailed monthly to foreign countries. Checks are sent to Africa, Australia, Belgium, China, Haiti, India, Japan, Gibraltar, Spain, Syria, Korea, New Zealand, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland and other foreign lands, each check representing a man from one of these foreign countries serving in the military or naval forces of the United States.

For the present the new permanent government life insurance for men who have been in the service will be issued in six kinds of policies—ordinary life, twenty-payment life, thirty-payment life, twenty-year endowment, thirty-year endowment and endowment at the age of 62. These policies provide for the payment of the insurance at death or on the total permanent disability of the insured, irrespective of the age when that disability may occur, provided the policy is in full force.

The policies are incontestable from date and are issued free from all restrictions as to travel, residence, occupation, military or naval service, are not assignable nor subject to the claims of creditors of the insured or creditors of any beneficiary to whom the proceeds may be awarded, and are exempt from all taxation.

The forms of converted insurance are officially known as United States Government Life Insurance, and it should not be forgotten that the strength of the United States is the security for these policies and that the premiums are lower than those charged by any company for participating insurance with similar benefits.

Red Held, observing these big doings, decided that his own average was suffering, and chased Jack Fournier for kicking on a decision at first in the fifth. Killefer came in from center to relieve Jack, while Driscoll went from the bench to the center patch.

Vic Aldridge hurled the pill with great power and beauty for the Angels except in the second and seventh. A brace of bad hoppers by Compton and Harper and some outs gave Seattle a run in the second. Vic had such a sinking spell in the seventh, that Doc Crandall was sent posthaste to the bull pen. One down and Harper beat a bunt. Knight fouled out. Derrick sifted infield, Cook singled, sending Harper around. Bowman bumped a safety long enough to score a run, but Derrick bogged down at third. However, one run didn't seem to amount to much then, and anyway Aldridge forced Derrick in by soaking Walsh. With the bases still loaded, Gleichman grounded to Kenworthy, and the professional services of Doc Crandall were not required after all.

Bowman did the heaving for Seattle during the heavy hitting, and then retired. Ralph Valencia, who had pitched six innings in the bull pen, then went in and worked the last two in the box.

Killifer started the racket with a single in the first, taking second on Compton's juggle. Haney sacrificed, and Fournier clouted one for two bases that came within less than a frog's jump of landing in the right field bleachers. Cooper walked, and Kenworthy fanned. After both runners advanced on Bowman's bad throw to nip Fournier off second, Ellis sent them around with a well-placed single. Rube got stealing. Haney's pass, hits by Fournier and Cooper and an error by Derrick counted two in the third. Derrick's error, an infield hit by Aldridge, a passed ball in Killefer's sacrifice fly added one to the total in the fifth. Kenworthy planted a double behind a single by Copper in the fifth for the final run.

The game did not require the services of any pinch hitters.

Dutch Leonard of the Detroit club was out warming up most of the afternoon in a uniform very similar to those worn by Seattle. This caused the report to become circulated that Clymer had bought Leonard. Thus the moral effect of Leonard warming up was so great that the Angels decided to beat Bowman before Dutch could get in. DUDLEY CUP COMPETITION.

The entry list for the Dudley cup tennis tournament, which starts on Saturday, closed yesterday. A large number of star high school net sharks will be seen in action, all matches being played on the Santa Monica High School courts. Considerable interest is being taken in the tourney by the prep school players as two beautiful trophies will be awarded the winners.

The tournament will start on Saturday morning. An entrance fee of 50 cents per player, payable in advance, will be charged to defray the expenses for balls and entertainments. Girls will report to high school courts, boys to municipal courts.

The Dudley cup tournament is played every year at Santa Monica under the direction of the Santa Monica High School and on the school courts.

The trophies, two large silver cups, one for girls' singles and one for boys' singles, were presented to the Santa Monica High School by ex-Mayor and Mrs. T. H. Dudley in 1915, and any boy or girl in good standing, of any high school of Southern California, may compete for them—no school, however, to send more than two boys and two girls.

The cup is held by the school whose representatives won it, until the next ensuing tournament, but becomes the personal property of the player winning it three times.

Should a player get his or her name on the cup during the senior year, he may return the following one or two years to play through and defend his title, but is permanently out of the running as soon as beaten. An undergraduate winner, however, has a leg on the cup as long as he is in school and need not win three times in succession.

TENNIS STARS AT DEL MONTE.

WILL BE LARGE GATHERING OF STELLAR LIGHTS THIS WEEK.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DEL MONTE (Cal.) May 20.—It will be a gathering of tennis stars at Del Monte this coming Saturday and Sunday. Billie Johnston and "Peck" Griffin are well known for having held national court honors for several years. It is also well known that Willis Davis was formerly a clay-court champion. Johnny Strachan has been State champion.

The veteran of the outfit, however, is Carl Gardner, who is still the possessor of a rather unique title. Carl is "coming back" this year after quite a long lay-off and he hopes to keep pace with his younger opponents. The title in question, which Gardner holds, is that of indoor champion of the Pacific Coast. Back in 1905 the first and only indoor tennis championship was staged in the old Mechanics' Pavilion in San Francisco. Gardner emerged the winner, and inasmuch as no other tournaments have been held since or were held before, he simply retains the laurels.

In connection with this indoor championship it might be worthy of mention that only the final match was held indoors. Accordingly, tennis players and followers enjoy quite a laugh at Gardner's title.

The five players will give an exhibition at Del Monte on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. It will mark the first time Johnston and Griffin have played together as a team since their return from the war. The court enthusiasts are looking forward to the play with more than a passing interest.

REAL FEATURE OF GOLF SEASON.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DEL MONTE (Cal.) May 20.—One of the interesting features of the local golf season was the fine form displayed the other day by "Col." R. R. Flint of Sacramento. This veteran, who practices a number of theories on the links, stepped 'round the Del Monte No. 1 course in 74. He had for his opponent Douglas Grant, the State and Southern California champion. The "colonel" distinguished himself by emerging winner by a score of one up.

"Col." Flint does not go in for competition very much and an effort will be made to have him enter the Decoration Day tournament here. A number of players from Southern and Northern California are making entries for the three days' play commencing on Friday, May 30, and winding up on Sunday.

HOLLYWOOD NINE DEFEATED.

Los Angeles High School came back strong yesterday and handed a neat beating to the Hollywood High School baseball nine. The ultimate outcome of the battle was 9 to 3, and thus added hopes have been instilled into the Blue and White players as they now have a good chance to finish the schedule in a near-top position. The fray took place on the Los Angeles High diamond and a large crowd of yelling rooters from both schools attended.

The Blue and White diamond experts went into the game with blood in their eyes and with the intention of sweeping everything before them. They succeeded inasmuch as they walked off the field with an exceedingly decisive victory under their belts. By defeating Hollywood, the Los Angeles High team has now won three games and dropped two.

H. Woodward of the winning nine hurled a dandy game, allowing the Foothillers but four hits. The winners chalked up fifteen bingles as their afternoon's work, but executed three bobbles.

The biggest game of the season is on the boards for next Monday, as far as the Los Angeles High team is concerned. The yearly battle with the fast Polyites will take place at that time and plenty of space has been already arranged for, all of which means that the crowd of "yowling" prep rooters will be herded into the Washington ball park grand stand. If by any chance Los Angeles High should emerge victorious from the struggle, the Blue and White team will stand a good chance of effecting a tie for first place honors in the City and County League.

The score:

Team—	R.	H.	E.
L. A. High	9	15	3

Batteries—H. Woodward and Sherman; Adams and Baker.

LONG NOT LIKELY TO JOIN VERNON.

Vernon will be compelled to get along without the services of Tommy Long, one of the Tiger stars last season.

Long is doing duty near Mona, and it seems unlikely that he will be back in this country and out of the service in time to be of any use to the club this season, it was stated last night by Business Manager Halbriter.

However, with Edington hitting as he is, and Meusel available, the outfield problem looks better than it did at one time.

BICYCLE RACING TO BE REVIVED.

FIRST RACE MEET IN YEARS AT EXPOSITION PARK SATURDAY.

A great rejuvenation will take place on Saturday afternoon when the first bicycle race meet held in these parts in many moons will be staged on the Exposition Park track.

The initial affair will be given under the auspices of the Los Angeles Bicycle Association. The affair is being held with the purpose of stimulating general interest in the bicycle racing game, which, in years gone by, was such a fad. The races will be given free of charge.

There will be five events and all will be especially interesting to those who formerly followed the grand old game. The first race will start at 2 p.m. sharp, this being a one-mile novice race for boys who have never raced before.

The second event will be a one-mile open race. The third will be over the same distance and will be open to youngsters who have not reached the 14-year mark. The semi-windup will be a two-mile handicap, while the closing event will be a one-mile consolation race for riders, which will be held for the benefit of the riders who fail to place in the other events.

Nifty prizes will be awarded the winners of all events, while all contestants will be forced to obey the rules of the National Cycle Association. A dandy programme has been arranged and plenty of competition should result. There will be a number of the mounts equipped with Firestone tires.

THINKS RECORD WILL STAND.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20.—Barney Oldfield, America's grand old man of the racing game, takes radical issue with those who predict the fall of De Palma's Indianapolis 500-mile record of 89.84 miles an hour in this year's Liberty Sweepstakes race on the Hoosier Speedway, May 31; in fact, Barney is willing to bet a roll of dough to this effect.

Barney's contention is that in a long race the physical endurance of the driver is of more importance than the speed of the car, and that the favorites of this year's field are not equal in staying power to Ralph De Palma at the time he made his record, De Palma included.

"I used to be quite a driver myself," remarked Oldfield, "but no any more. Age will tell. It is four years now since Ralph De Palma hung up his famous record, and you can bet your life he will never again be in the physical shape he was in at that time. The same thing goes for Resta, who chased him every foot of the way.

"Concerning this argument of physical endurance, you may remember that before De Palma went into the lead, in 1915, Gil Anderson carried the field along for fully half the distance at a heart-breaking pace. The thing that stopped Anderson at the half-way post was simply inferior physical condition. Gil was tired, that's all.

"Then the weather must be taken into consideration. The weather on the day of De Palma's feat was ideal for record breaking, cool and cloudy. The moisture in the air made ideal carburetion, and the lack of sunshine kept the track from getting hot, saving the tires."

At this juncture Don Herr, another retired racing celebrity, driver of Stutz cars, and relief driver for Joe Dawson when he won his 1912 Indianapolis victory, ventured a few remarks on the other side of the argument.

"I figure," said Herr, "that any falling off in the physical condition of the drivers will more than be made up by the greater ease of handling this year's flock of cars. With plenty of speed, it isn't necessary to work quite so hard on the turns, and the drivers can rest up a bit every now and then, leaving them in as good condition at the finish as before.

"The reason Anderson broke down in 1915 was simply that with a slower car he had to kick her in the tail every foot of the way, and this finally got his goat. The boys this year, with much faster wagons, can take it a lot easier and still get De Palma's record.

"As for the weather conditions, I figure racing tires have improved more than enough during the last four years to offset any handicap that might result from a hot day, and carburetion is a minor factor."

Despite Herr's arguments, Oldfield remained unconvinced, and declared that his bank roll was prepared to back up his side of the controversy. If, therefore, gentle reader, you happen to differ with Oldfield's opinions and have the courage to back up your convictions, you can get plenty of action for your money by writing, wiring, or personally interviewing Barney at his Cleveland address.

OPENING OF ROAD DRIVE.

Tomorrow is Day Set for Beginning Campaign.

Purpose to Keep Yosemite Open to Motorists.

Automobile Club is to be the Headquarters.

Tomorrow is the big day set for the opening of the $1,000,000 drive to keep Yosemite open to motorists all the year. It is to be Southern California's chance to "come through."

The scene is all set at the headquarters of the Automobile Club of Southern California for disposing of the magical $5 certificates to motorists which will permit entrance to the fairy valley at any time.

Automobile owners who spend $5 for a ticket into Yosemite will be doing about $200 worth of good to the entire southern part of the State, say Automobile Club officials, in that they will be helping to provide an attraction of national importance.

While Southern California is in itself a magnet which draws thousands of motorists from all over the world annually, it will become a double importance if the Yosemite is open in the winter as it is figured that the number of cars driving to California will be about doubled. On account of the signposting work done by the Automobile Club, practically every motoring visitor coming West enters the State through Southern California, and becomes a devotee of this "gateway."

Every motorist going into the Yosemite pays a $5 entrance fee. Instead of doing this, he will merely use his $5 certificate obtained from the Automobile Club. He is thus advancing his $5 to be used in building a paved highway from Merced to El Portal, which will give him an opportunity to enter the valley in winter as well as summer.

One million dollars must be raised to build the highway. There is $700,000 available already from other sources, but the total cost of the paved route is to be $1,700,000. Therefore it is up to the automobile owners of the State to advance their $5, secure their entrance ticket and thus provide the funds for the building of the road.

Stephen T. Mather, director of national parks, yesterday wired the Automobile Club indorsing the plan for the building of the route, and stating that the certificates purchased now would be good in lieu of the regular entrance fee.

The campaign for the subscriptions is to be State-wide, but it is pointed out that the Yosemite Valley, as a scenic attraction, is not "of any particular locality." It is a California asset in that it will attract thousands of additional visitors every year.

Motorists can only tour to the edge of the Grand Canyon. It is pointed out, but they can tour into the Yosemite. If they are enabled to enter this valley in the winter they will have the privilege of viewing one of the most gorgeous scenic attractions in the entire world.

Beginning tomorrow, the campaign will continue for a limited number of days, when it is expected that the $1,000,000 will have been raised by popular subscription. If it is not so raised, there will be no paved road into Yosemite, and one of the greatest opportunities for motorists to do their bit for the State which has provided them with the finest highway system in America, will have gone by default.

Detroit" was the sign posted on the left-field score board. It is believed that the game was postponed in Detroit until Leonard could get warmed up in California. The bugs back there may rest assured that he is doing his best, and barring unforeseen delays, it should be possible to resume baseball in that city inside a week. It seemed strange to think of the Detroit bugs sitting around hunched up waiting for the game to start, and their first-string heaver warming up out here.

Bad hoppers were again prevalent, and the athletes were forced to struggle along as best they could on the sterile soil of Washington Park. However, steps will be taken to eradicate the bad hops, and cause clean bounders to blossom as the rose. It seems that the wrong sort of dirt was distributed over the diamond last spring. Soil was dug from a new and unried hole and it proved the hunk. Everybody had lost track of the hole which had formerly been patronized, but after a long search it was located yesterday, and several wagonloads of soil sulted to the scientific nature of the game will be extracted from it immediately.

The records credit the Seattle club with containing a number of .300 hitters, but yesterday they displayed more .300 fielders than batters. The score:

BASEBALL NOTES.

Although the Seattle club has a sprinkling of half a dozen .300 hitters, Vic Aldridge prevented them from working at their well-known trade. Incidentally, the size of the local yard does not make it conducive to .300 hitting.

Despite its rather ungainly appearance, Seattle is likely to prove a good attraction. The athletes have a lot of pep, and have the Sacramento club back into the silent drama when it comes to making a noise. Unlike the Solons, they are not given to constant chatter, but are addicted to an occasional loud outburst.

Bellowing Bill Clymer is by all odds the biggest card which the Coast League has seen since the days of Happy Hogan. In addition to being a firebrand, with a temper as hot as the color of his hair, Clymer is just naturally funny without knowing it. There is something about him that gets a laugh out of the crowd even when he is in deadly earnest, and desirous of biting an ear off an umpire. Being unable to keep him down, they put him out.

Prior to the game yesterday Clymer was asked if he expected to win the pennant. "Absolutely not," he shot back. "We are making a desperate drive to finish in fifth place." And he said it in a take-it-or-leave-it tone of voice.

Charley Reilly and Bill Clymer met yesterday for the first time in something like twenty years. It took Clymer some time to realize that the rather portly and prosperous gent in front of him was the man who first reduced playing third base to a science while with the old Phillies.

Neither Brodie Nor Pinkman Become Very Rough.

Young George Bests Golinda in Semi-Windup.

Jack Doyle's main event last night between Herb Brodie and Eddie Pinkman turned out to be a Punch and Judy affair but with no accent on the punch. Both lads were supposed to be proficient in the art of fisticuffs but both appeared after a few moments of pussy footing to have never gotten on any kind of terms with the padded mitts. After mollycoddling along for two rounds in a sort of a parlor pastime in which little rudeness was displayed they drew upon them the wrath of Col. Doyle who hopped into the ring and told each of them what a pavilion gathering was there to expect. The powder puffers agreed to get mussy in the third round but little or no damage was done and the only thing that suffered most was the air, both from the pussy footers and the crowd. Try as they would, neither Brodie nor Pinkham could torture themselves into anything that looked like a bellicose act so the disgruntled crowd took a hand and booed them into shame. At this juncture Doyle gave the high sign to Referee Dick Donald, who declared the bout no contest. Brodie had little or nothing of the dauntless spirit of the once famous Steve and Pinkman could just as easily have changed his named to Lydia Pinkham as far as having any milling essence in his blood was concerned.

The semi-windup brought Young George and Mike Golinda together. This bout proved to be a rather happy-go-lucky affair with a lot of rough and tumble stuff thrown in. George was the personification of wildness and Mike had a holding on fit that could easily wring upon him the nickname of the strangler. Golinda forced the fighting for a long spell and reached the mark often, but in the last round he tired palpably and it was here that George got his swings under control and landed a number of telling blows which won for him the decision. Golinda was very tired at the end of the fourth round and the decision took well with the crowd.

In the night's opener Jack Rodgers knocked out Joe Gill in the second round. The crowd then called for an extra bout and Jack Doyle came through handsomely. In the extra bout Young Chris beat Young Garcia after a gruelling contest in which Chris had his man on the floor twice in the third round. Ted Frenchie took a decision over Jack Stewart and Jimmy Flynn best Joe Smith and Henry Gastine put it on Joe Gomez.

After the Brodie-Pinkman fiasco Brodie declared that he tried his best, but that every time he led Pinkman would hang on to him for dear life. Brodie declared that Pinkman pulled off the same kind of a stunt at San Francisco last Friday night. Brodie felt pretty sore over the affair and said he was trying to make good again after just getting out of the navy.

ROOSTER FISH NEW BEACH ATTRACTION.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, May 20.—Squire DuRee, Charge de Affaires of the Long Beach municipal market at the end of the Pine avenue pier, is today crowing over a rare specimen of rooster fish that was presented him by Prof. R. E. Thompson, local government fish authority.

The curiosity, now on exhibition on the pier, weighs sixty pounds, and is rarely seen outside of Central Mexican waters, where it is considered an unusual find.

VERNON TONITE

Wife of Famous Player Here.

This is Miss Muriel Worth, gifted in the Terpsichorean art, who is playing at the Orpheum. She is the wife of Dutch Leonard, celebrated pitcher of the American League, who has left this city to join the Detroit club.

LEONARD OFF FOR DETROIT

Dutch Leonard, the famous American League pitcher, for years one for the mainstays in the box for the New York Yankees, has left Los Angeles for Detroit to join the Tigers, he having come to terms with President Navin of that club last week. Leonard will undoubtedly make a valuable man for Hughie Jennings, who has been having trouble with the "Chauffeurs" ever since our own Sam Crawford left the Commercial City, even the great T. Raymond Cobb being unable to stem the tide of defeat.

Leonard arrived here last Sunday night from Oakland with his wife, Muriel Worth, who is one of the stellar lights on the Orpheum bill this week. Leonard has always been superstitious about having his wife with him on a trip, but will probably overcome this fault later in the season, at which time she will probably join him for a trip over the American League circuit.

Muriel Worth, the Orpheum dancing star, has been married for more than two years and has never in her life seen her husband pitch more than six innings.

"Dutch," or Hubert B. (the name his family gave him,) prefers that Miss Worth remain away and she, like a good wife, has the profoundest respect for his wishes.

"I'd sort of feel her presence and become overanxious to make a good showing," he says, "and probably ruin my game. On the occasion that she saw me play, late in the sixth inning, a swift liner came out to the box and knocked my thumbs out, and I was forced to retire from the game. Muriel thought that I was killed and couldn't get over it for the longest time. That only strengthened my belief that it is better for her to stay away from the games for a while, anyway."

Notwithstanding the fact that Miss Worth never attends the games in which her husband participates, she is a close follower of the national game. She keeps herself closely informed on the standing of all the big-league clubs. She knows the records of almost every individual player for the season and has an intimate knowledge of their past performances. Nevertheless, Miss Worth and her husband rarely ever discuss baseball.

Y.M.C.A. TO HOLD TENNIS TOURNEY.

EVERY PLAYER TO BE HANDICAPPED ACCORDING TO PAST PERFORMANCES.

Every young tennis player that has any hopes or aspirations at all of ever becoming a champion tennis player, will have a wonderful chance of showing his ability in the coming handicap tournament to be held on the Y.M.C.A. courts, May 30.

The handicaps will be given out by a committee of the Southern California Lawn Tennis Association. Every player will be handicapped according to his past performances in local tournaments.

Using this handicap system will start all the players off on the same level, therefore the old vets will not stand any more chance of winning than some player who has only been at the game a short time.

Due to this fact it is expected that this tournament will draw one of the largest entries of the year. Judging from the number of players who already have signed up this prediction will prove true.

Men's singles and women's singles are the events scheduled and to the winners will go the Express trophies.

Entries can be made with S. M. Sinsabaugh, 545 South Spring, F. P. Winne, 428 South Spring, and R. Allen, 331 West Seventh.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—The Crystal Creameries team of bowlers from San Jose took the lead here today in the Pacific Coast Bowling tournament, winning practically every honor except that for the first team score. It failed, by a few pins, to upset the Stockton "Poppies."

Burt of the Crystals was leading in the all events with a score of 1818 for nine games. In his team event he scored 573, in the singles 603 and in the doubles, 642, an average of 202 for all games.

CONFERENCE FATE MAY BE DECIDED.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, May 20. — The fate of the college conference on baseball will probably be decided this week when Occidental and Throop College meet on the Tigers' grounds. Throop has been victorious so far this season, having won from Redlands and Pomona. Occidental has lost one game to Redlands and has not yet played Pomona.

At the same time Redlands and Pomona will battle. The locals are anxious to win the game for if they do and Occidental should happen to win from Throop, then Redlands will again be in the running for honors in the conference.

Redlands is to play Pomona at Pomona. The Sagehens have a good team this year and a fine game is assured.

BANQUET SOLDIERS.

"Five and Over Club" of Hamburger's Host to Service Men.

The "Five and Over Club" of Hamburger's store was the host last night to forty employees of the store, who have been in the government service during the war, at a banquet at Christopher's. The directors and friends were also guests of the club.

Mrs. Koster, an employee of the store, who has a son in the army, made the address of welcome.

H. A. Dunlop, superintendent of the store, was to have made the address, but was suddenly called East because of the illness of his mother, and after the speech by Mrs. Koster all stood and drank a toast to Mr. Dunlop.

Miss Martha Swiinski was toastmistress and called on several for short talks, including some of the boys who saw service in France. Miss Sybil Johnstone sang several solos.

Mrs. Maud Schultz, president of the club, presided at the banquet, and introduced the toastmistress. In addition to welcoming the returned service men, fifteen new members were added to the club, which is made up of employees of Hamburger's who have been with the store five years and over.

PLAN BIG DAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, May 20.—An Eddie Rickenbacher day and all the daring hair raising stunts that naturally attend him, will be a part of this summer's programme in Venice if the organized publicity commission of the city is successful in its plans.

The commission is a new organization in Venice, working under the trustees and supported by the city. The six members of the body are doing all in their power to put on some unusually big days in Venice, and hope to start off with bringing Richenbacher to Venice as soon as he arrives in Los Angeles.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS.

STAR COMING WEST WITH A MULE, ROOSTER, STEERS.

By Grace Kingsley.

"Arrive Los Angeles Monday. Sending horses by express. Bringing mule and rooster with me. Stop at Cheyenne Saturday to buy steers for use in pictures."

Now who on earth would think of sending a telegram like that except Fred Stone? Fred Stone, indeed, it was who penned the above highly expressive message, and it means that the greatest of all musical comedy stars is on his way to California to appear in pictures again.

The recipient of the telegram was Andrew Callaghan, vice-president and general manager of Fred Stone Productions, Inc., Mr. Stone himself being president of the concern. Mr. Callaghan and his family are at Beverley Hills Hotel, where for two weeks he has been preparing for the arrival of his star. Brunton studios have been selected as the professional home of Fred Stone Productions and Mr. Callaghan has worked so well and so fast that the first scenes of Mr. Stone's first production will be shot next Monday. Frank Borzage will direct, assisted by Eddie Saunders. The title of Stone's initial production is not yet announced, but judging from the telegram one suspects it will be a westerner.

Accompanying Mr. Stone will be his wife and little daughter, together with daughter's pet collie and little young automobile, built especially for her. Already a house has been engaged for the Stone family, who mean to be just as domestic as ever they can be.

Mr. Stone closed his theatrical season in "Jack o' Lantern" at Chicago, May 17, having played the entire season in only three cities, and holding the record for playing to capacity houses throughout his entire engagement.

Mr. Stone will work in Los Angeles until he resumes his theatrical work next fall. His manager announces that several of the best stories obtainable have already been secured.

Daily Meow.

Preparing to be very domestic, indeed, Charlie Chaplin, world-famed comedian, and his wife, Mildred Harris, have taken a handsome new house in Hollywood, and are now engaged in furnishing it.

Says it was Thrilling.

Hiding beneath the shade of a great big picture hat, Lillian Gish stole into New York last week for the opening of the D. W. Griffith production, "Broken Blossoms," adapted from "The Chink and the Child." Lillian has the stellar role.

Before Miss Gish left she told me she hardly had courage to face a New York opening—that she never had been present at one of those fateful affairs. But later, she thought she might be able to, and so she bought herself a great big leghorn hat and sat down in the shade of it, in the back of the box at the Cohan Theater to await the verdict of the metropolis. After it was over, she confessed the occasion gave her the thrill of her life, but even so she didn't know whether she could ever again fact those first awful moments while the star waits for the curtain to ascend on her celluloid double.

Blanche Sweet Soon.

Blanche Sweet is expected in town the next few days, following her sojourn in New York, when it is expected she will start work on a new picture for Harry Garson at the former Selig studio in Edendale, recently purchased by Garson.

He's Said Something.

Will Break Ferry Boat.

Tom Mix has gone to San Francisco, where he will make scenes for his new picture, on which work has just been begun. Tom will himself chauffeur a ferry boat in the interests of art.

Mary MacLaren at Work.

Following a short illness, Mary MacLaren is back to work at Universal making scenes for her newest picture, an adaptation of Fanny Hurst's story, "A Pebble on the Current."

Sob Stuff.

Just think of all those poor fellows that wrote war songs, and who had just learned all the rhymes for "horror" and "sorrow" and "marching home," when they suddenly found themselves up against the necessity for making "peace" rhyme with "ease."

Husband Visits Her.

Sit tight, fellers! Muriel Worth, the beautiful young dancer, who is making a big hit at the Orpheum this week, didn't come to Los Angeles alone. She was accompanied by her husband, "Dutch" Leonard, the well-known baseball player. The two motored down from Oakland, but Dutch left for Detroit Monday, having signed up with that team last week. Miss Worth will close her season shortly, and will go back East to accompany her husband on his diamond tour helping, ever and anon, to "root" for him.

Trixie Will Speak.

While the name Uplifters' Club has of course no physical significance, the fact remains that that husky entertainer, Trixie Friganza, has promised to make a speech for that organization next Saturday noon.

Has Smoking-room.

Geraldine Farrar, whose brilliant chameleon versatility enables her, though one of the world's great singers, to become a great motion picture star the minute she sets her heart on it, has one pet aversion—she can't bear tobacco smoke. But she does like to have other folks enjoy themselves. So, in her Hollywood home, she has established a smoking-room on the top floor, with all those appurtenances considered necessary to the comfort of the average masculine being.

"Peg" at Morosco.

Can't Stay Away.

One of the greatest 'cross-country commuters in America is what Capt. Harold Bolster, Madge Kennedy's gallant husband, has become. Capt. Bolster recently went east after a short visit, but is expected back again within a few weeks.

May Remain with Army.

Declaring he hopes to be able to stay in the West, but anticipating the possibility of having to remain in the British army awhile longer, the famous Maj. Ian Hay Beith, soldier, lecturer and author, who has been engaged by Famous Players-Lasky as a member of Cecil B. de Mille's literary staff at the Western studio, arrived in town yesterday from New York.

It had been expected that Maj. Beith's initial photoplay efforts would be in connection with the coming Artcraft special production of J. M. Barrie's "The Admirable Crichton," in advisory capacity to Jeanie MacPherson, who is writing the continuity, but the major stated yesterday that his plans are up in the air at present, due to the fact he may find it impossible to be released from army service, just now, at least.

One of the smashing successes among war books was Ian Hay's "The First Hundred Thousand." He is likewise author of a number of well-known prewar novels. Maj. Beith served through the late war.

She Likes Soldiers.

Apparently Madge Kennedy isn't satisfied with having a soldier for a husband. She also likes to have soldiers in her picture plays. The latest one to be engaged to appear with her is Lieut. Burnell Manly, one of the leading American aces, who has two Hun planes officially to his credit in addition to several that are now being "traced." Lieut. Manly, who has just returned from overseas, enlisted in the aviation service the day after war was declared, and became a member of the First Aero Squad. In France he was at one time with Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, later being transferred to the Twenty-fifth Squadron.

The officer fought in the battles of Chateau Thierry, Champagne and at the second engagement at the Marne. During the first encounter his plane was in action against all of the enemy, who were using Allied planes captured at Chateau Thierry. As he was sailing above the clouds, he saw a group of supposedly friendly machines below him, and dived to get into formation with them. He did not discover the ruse until almost too late, when five Teuton flyers swooped down on top of him and two came in from the sides. After a desperate encounter, in which he damaged one of the enemy planes, Lieut. Manly managed to escape.

"Hop o' My Thumb" for Mary.

In the meantime, word comes from Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, in far New York, that she has purchased J. M. Barrie's "Hop o' My Thumb" as Miss Pickford's initial story to be picturized for the United Artists' Association.

Also Story for Jack.

Speaking of the famous Pickford family, Mommer Pickford has also been busy shopping for stories for son Jack. She has bought "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," by Charles Fox, Jr.

AVIATING :: IN :: TRAPEZE :: ACT.

WALTHALL IN LOVE TANGLE FEATURE.

That excellent actor, Henry Walthall, appears at Ray's Garden this week in "Modern Husbands," who, according to the author, are difficult creatures to say the least.

The story concerns a couple of triangles, inasmuch as two married women become entangled with the same man, who loves neither of the women, but makes love to them for the purpose of getting a chance to steal their jewels. Of course, he is discovered and punished in the last reel, but not until he has made a whole picture play full of trouble.

Mr. Walthall is fine and sincere as usual. He has excellent support in Claire Dubrey, Melbourne MacDowell, Neil Hardin, Olga Grey, Ethel Fleming and Andrew Arbuckle. The story might have been directed in better fashion, but in any event is interesting.

A comedy called "Taxi" from the story of that name, supplements the dramatic feature, and has the lively Taylor Holmes as its hero. It gets the laughs on odd situations and clever subtitles.

"Wives of Men" Popular.

Large attendance continues to evidence the popularity of "Wives of Men," now in its second week at Tally's Broadway. The photoplay is a strong and vigorous piece of workmanship, and the interesting story is handled with no slacking of intensity throughout the picture. Florence Reed, Frank Mills and the other players have provided a balanced performance in "Wives of Men," and this with the splendid direction make the production one of the most convincing shown here recently.

"Shepherd" Draws Crowds.

The second week of the "Shepherd of the Hills" run at Quinn's Rialto Theater started with crowds laying siege to the Theater. Harold Bell Wright's story picture has had a tremendous attendance ever since the opening a week ago Sunday. The scenic features of this play, and the fact that it is such a remarkably close picturization of the popular story have attracted an increasing number of people. All the characters of the book from Sammy Lane and Matt down to the village postmaster came to life in the film amid the gorgeous natural settings.

"Maggie Pepper" Showing.

The plot of "Maggie Pepper," starring Ethel Clayton, which is having its last showing at the De Luxe today, deals with a department store life. With a sympathetic touch and a knowledge of human nature both author and scenario writer made this an epic of marts of trade. A company of brilliant cinema players support Miss Clayton in this production. Elliott Dexter, well known to followers of Paramount and Artcraft pictures, is leading man. Other notables in the cast include Winifred Greenwood, Tully Marshall, Raymond Hatton, Marcia Manon and others. Other features are on the bill.

MUSICAL.

ZOELLNERS START CONCERTS AT EBELD THIS WEEK.

By Edwin Schallert.

Ten chamber music concerts in as many weeks is the unusual undertaking which will be inaugurated by the Zoellner Quartette Friday evening at the Ebell Club House. They will give their first programme of the series. Many of the music lovers of the city are interested, through their desire to become familiar with the greater compositions in this form, and because of the intimate appeal of the music itself.

The Zoellners have been identified with the musical life of this city for the past two years. They have given a series of concerts each season, bringing before the public both the classical and modern works. Their new concert series promises to be even more unique and attractive, and will be beneficial in broadening public taste, as a large support for the concerts is already assured.

MacDowell Club.

The MacDowell Club of Allied Arts will give the final programme for this year Saturday evening in the Brack Shop Auditorium. The programme will feature the Zoellner Quartette, Estelle Heartt-Dreyfus, contralto, and Charles Wakefield Cadman. The new quartette for strings, by Morton F. Mason, will be presented. Mrs. Cecil Frankel will give a brief report of the Oakland convention, and some points of interest relating to the July biennial of the National Federation of Music Clubs to be held at Peterborough, N. H., former home of MacDowell, and national center of art.

Cadman Compositions.

Compositions of Charles Wakefield Cadman were featured on a programme presented at the morning musicale given by Miss Bessie Chapin yesterday at the residence of Mrs. P. O. Johnson, 1005 West Twenty-eighth street. The composer himself played selections from his operas, "Shanewis" and "The Garden of Mystery," on the piano. Max Alexander sang several new songs, including "Time and I" and "O Moon Upon the Water." Mr. Cadman's trio in D Major for violin, piano and 'cello, was given by Miss Chapin, Mrs. Lucy Fuhrer Genter and the composer. In addition, two interesting novelties, "The Minstrel of Kashmira" and "The Minstrel of Capistrano," were also played by Mr. Cadman. Miss Chapin gave a violin arrangement of "From the Land of the Sky-blue Water," and Cadman's only original published violin composition, "Wah-Wah-Taysee." The selections showed the composer's versatility of expression, which is at its best in the Indian and American ideas. Mr. Alexander, who made his first local appearance at the musicale, has a voice of attractive lyric quality, not fully developed in the upper range, and his enunciation is especially clear.

MISS KELLERMANN WILL MAKE TRIP ROUND WORLD.

Immediately following her engagement at the Orpheum, which starts next Monday, Annette Kellermann will go on a trip round the world. Miss Kellermann will visit Australia, her birthplace, first, and then continue her tour through India and the Orient and then by way of the Suez Canal and Mediterranean to Europe. This is the first extended tour she has made in some years, and it will probably be a year or more before she returns to America.

Hopper Coming Soon.

De Wolf Hopper in "The Better 'Ole" (stage version) will begin his engagement at the Mason, June 2. The original date was May 26, but the arrival of the big comedy with musical features was delayed, owing to its being held over an extra week in San Francisco. Mr. Hopper came direct from the East to San Francisco to play the role of Old Bill, the chief character of the play.

A Parisian Apache Play.

Laid in the Parisian Latin quarter, "Toton the Apache," the feature at the Victory Theater this week, is of the picturesque type. Olive Thomas is seen as the little Paris wild flower, who is occasionally very wild, indeed.

The episodes of the picture, culminating in sorrow for one girl and in happiness for Toton, have their share of excitement. The Apaches of Paris, their haunts and habits are screened fascinatingly, while the ball of the artists' models is a scene of colorful gaiety.

"Eternal Magdalene."

"The Eternal Magdalene" at the Garrick Theater this week, with Margaret Marsh and Maxine Elliott as its featured players, is a screen version of the stage play in which Florence Roberts appeared in this city a few seasons ago. The story deals with the question of rabid reform, reacting on the chief reformer's own household. Much of the story is told in a dream, and is effectively staged and photographed. The stage play had sensational success, and the subject has proved suitable for picturization.

Makes Belts and Things.

Re-enters the Pictures.

William Elmer, manager of the Burbank Theater, has gone back to the movies. Through his connection for more than four years with the Lasky aggregation, Elmer attained quite a following throughout the country, and producers have been angling for his services ever since he became a theater owner. A positive "no" was the only answer producers ever received until William Fox caught him in a pensive mood the other day, and got his signature on a contract before he had a chance to speak. Now the musical comedian is acting in a picture with Peggy Hyland. Mrs. Elmer, professionally known as Irene Franklin, runs the Burbank during the day, but Billy himself is always on the job at night.

STUDIO CLUB IN "HINDLE WAKES."

"Hindle Wakes," a close-up study of the less alluring side of English life in the county of Lancashire, was effectively presented by the Studio Theater Club Monday evening at the Gamut Theater. The play is by Stanley Houghton, and, except for the difference in locale, bears a kinship to the more realistic of the Gerhart Hauptmann dramas. It is a direct and stern portrayal of a girl's refusal to accept a man who had been responsible for her downfall, after the man's father had required his son to agree to marry the girl. Her attitude is that she does not wish to marry him because she does not love him sufficiently to live with him.

The play was produced under the able direction of W. Frayne Williams, who several seasons ago was associated with Richard Ordynsky at the Little Theater. Mr. Williams himself played the role of Nathaniel Jeffcote, the father and successful millworker, giving a true-to-type portrayal. Constance Campbell showed emotional power in her early scenes, and acted out her refusal to marry with reserve and judgment. Much credit for the success of the production also belongs to the other members of the cast, George H. Frenger, as Christopher Hawthorn; Marie H. Bollman, as Mrs. Jeffcote; H. Ellis Reed, as Alan Jeffcote; Jean Copeland as Beatrice Farrar; Constance Campbell, as Fanny Hawthorn; Charles James as Sir Thomas Farrar, and Agnes Kraemer as Ada.

CLEVER STARS IN HIP PHOTOPLAY.

The Hippodrome offers at the head of its new show today one of the best photoplay features that has been presented at that popular playhouse yet. It is the World Film special, "Three Green Eyes." Such well-known stars as June Elvidge, Carlyle Blackwell, Montagu Love, Evelyn Greely, Johnny Hines and many others, all seen in the one unusually interesting story make one of the best photodramas yet shown.

"Mom" and "Sime," or J. C. Mack and company, the great rube comedians, head the vaudeville with gloom-dispelling jokes, etc.

Gene Fowler in sensational and breath-taking head and hand balancing feats will open the show, while the Orth Sisters, known as the Melody Twins, will prove a delightful feature. Zoilnar, the great impersonator, assisted by Elaine Holloway, will present Great Commanders.

Morse and Clark will please with singing, and Kiko Ito and company of Japanese wonder workers and athletes will close the show.

URGE CREMATION OF PAUPER DEAD.

Branch No. 85, Los Angeles, of the Benevolent Society of the United States for the Propagation of Cremation, of which Richard Klewer, 4714 Floral avenue, is secretary, yesterday filed for presentation to the City Council, resolutions adopted by the organization, asking that an ordinance be adopted providing for the establishment of a municipal crematory for the disposal of the bodies of all unidentified or friendless dead who are now buried in the Potter's Field, "and which crematory shall be adopted for the use of the citizens of the city in general for the disposal of the dead."

FOR MUNICIPAL FERRY.

Mayor Woodman will send a message to the City Council today asking it to appropriate funds from the harbor bonds to be used in the establishment of a municipal ferry at the harbor in the near future.

The Mayor was waited on late yesterday by a delegation of San Pedro people who say that a ferry plying between First street, Terminal Island, and Wilmington, with service to all shipbuilding yards, is much needed.

It is the Mayor's belief that the funds for this improvement can be drawn from the harbor bonds and returned to that fund from earnings at some future date.

OWED HIM A LIVING?

But Wife Contended Otherwise and Gets Divorce for Cruelty.

Why should a woman give her new husband money she inherited from a former husband? Mrs. Margaret A. Mahoney had this problem presented to her by her new spouse, Joseph L. Bisbee, she told Judge Crail in divorce proceedings yesterday, and solved it her own way. She refused to turn over the money, she said.

She told the court that after being married a few weeks, Mr. Bisbee hit her on the nose and started the blood.

"He wanted money to go to Vernon," she said, "and I would not give it to him."

He beat her on other occasions, she declared, when she refused to accommodate him with cash. The court granted her a divorce.

RELIEVED AT VERNON.

A watch and pocket knife, owned by D. A. Nelson, were evidence yesterday in Justice Hanby's court against Jose Bursuas and Pedro Vensa, both of whom were held to answer for robbing Nelson at Vernon.

Your life insurance money

According to life insurance experts 85% of all insurance money paid to widows is lost by them within seven years.

Will the beneficiaries under your life insurance policy be experienced enough in financial affairs to safely invest the proceeds or use them to the best advantage? Is it not possible that they may be tempted into making investments that are alluring—but unsafe?

The absolutely safe method is to make Title Insurance and Trust Company trustee under your life insurance policy. You are thus assured that the money will be used in accordance with your directions, to sustain and provide your heirs.

You are always privileged to determine the conditions under which you wish the funds administered.

NOT AFRAID OF MOB OF "REDS."

Women Loudest in Groaning and Hissing Speaker.

Declaring that he had been a soldier in the war and would not fear to break up any meeting of the Bolsheviki or I.W.W., Patrolman Thomas Larnihan testified yesterday before Police Judge Joseph Chambers that Mrs. Anna Hartman and Dave Weifman, charged under the red flag ordinance with displaying a red flag at a labor picnic at Schuetzen Park on May 1, were members of a mob of 250 persons who hissed down an American soldier when he attempted to speak in favor of Victory Bonds.

When cross-examined by Attorneys Ryckman, Kenworthy and Shapiro, Patrolman Larnihan stated that the entire day was devoted by persons attending the picnic in crying down the government and waving red flags and ribbons. He also stated that he arrested only Mrs. Hartman and Weifman, not because he was unable to take the entire crowd into custody, but because he would have been unable to identify all the prisoners. "I don't need help," stated the patrolman, "to break up a crowd of Bolsheviki and I.W.W. I have just been discharged from the United States Army, and I can handle all of these kind of people."

Sergt. White H. Robinson, a discharged soldier, testified for the people that he attempted to make a speech in favor of buying Victory Bonds and was hissed and hooted. Women, according to Sergt. Robinson, were the loudest in hissing and groaning when he attempted to talk.

STANFORD ALUMNI TO FEAST WAR HEROES.

SILENT TOAST WILL BE DRUNK TO MEMORY OF THOSE WHO GAVE THEIR LIVES.

Three thousand Stanford service men who have returned to Southern California will be given a welcome-home reception by their old college friends at a big beefsteak dinner at the University Club Friday evening.

Battle stories, old-time reminiscences, college yells and songs, music by the Stanford jazz band and large, juicy beefsteaks will all go together to make an evening of real joy. Men wearing the Croix de Guerre and the Distinguished Service Cross, will give first-hand information to men eager to hear Lieut. Roland Spers of Santa Monica, who wears both these medals, will be present. Maj. Roy E. Naftzger, '06, who was promoted from a captaincy for gallantry in action, and Lieut. A. E. Hamilton, '11, who was severely wounded in the battle of the Argonne, will both recount their experiences in that titanic conflict. Lieut. James L. Patten, '15, who winged a Hun plane, will tell how it feels to fight in the air.

The Stanford men who will never come back will not be forgotten. Silent toasts will be drunk to the memories of such gallant heroes from the south as Frank P. ("Deke") Gard, '14, captain of the 1915 varsity rugby team; Ralph Noble, '13, football and baseball star; Syd Morgan, '12, tennis captain, and Art Haim, '14, varsity pitcher, Thespian and student body president.

Dean Charles A. Huston of the law school, is coming down especially for the affair and will give the boys the latest gossip from the campus and all the details for the great "home-coming week," to be held at the university the middle of June.

Reservations for the dinner, which begins at 6:30 o'clock, can be made with W. I. ("Bill") Traeger, '01, at 914 Union League Building, or by calling Pico 3621, station 53.

VATICAN TRADITION BROKEN FOR BRAZIL.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ROME, May 19.—The audience and reception of President-elect Pessoa of Brazil and his wife and daughter by Pope Benedict tomorrow will mark an event in the relations of the Vatican with foreign countries without precedent since the fall of the temporal power.

This will be the first time a Pope has received the Catholic head of a Catholic state who is the guest of the King of Italy. Heretofore, all the Popes have declined to receive such visitors.

The visit of Senhor Pessoa to the Vatican is to be made in perfect harmony with the views of Pope Benedict. It is considered an important step in Italian-Vatican relations, and is being much commented on.

Judge Says He Doesn't Send Woman to Jail Because She's not a Man.

What is a judge going to do when a woman says she won't testify in a divorce case on trial and exclaims:

"Send me to jail if you want to."

Judge York faced this problem yesterday. He replied to Mrs. Katherine O'Handley, a witness called in the divorce suit of Charles F. Lake against Francis Lake:

"I would send you to jail if you were a man., you had better moderate your views and testify."

Mrs. O'Handley testified. The case revolved around the alleged liking of Mrs. Lake for another man. She denied the allegation. The court declined to give Mr. Lake a decree.

TO RAISE FUNDS FOR NEW CHURCH BUILDING

CAMPAIGNERS OF ST. JOHN'S PARISH SEEK TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

A campaign to raise $200,000 among the friends of St. John's Episcopal Church to erect a new church at West Adams and Figueroa streets was launched yesterday following a luncheon, Monday evening, at the Alexandria Hotel, at which the fund team captains gathered as the guests of James R. Page, chairman of the Finance Committee. There were present twenty-seven of those who will take part in the campaign. Dr. George Davidson, rector of St. John's Church, presided.

The team captains will begin their canvass immediately, and the drive will continue for thirty days. Individual pledges to the building fund will run over a period of twenty months. More than $40,000 has been pledged in advance of the campaign, though the purpose of the Finance Committee, of which E. D. Roberts, vice-president of the First National Bank, is treasurer, is to broaden the scope of the plan by affording opportunity to the entire congregation to contribute to the fund. Present at the opening meeting were W. M. Garland, E. D. Roberts, J. R. Page, Otto J. Zahn, W. J. Reynolds, Pierpont Davis, R. L. Hogan, B. M. Sawyer, S. J. Coffman, Jr., J. R. Coffman, W. A. FETE IN HONOR OF HOLLYWOOD HEROES.

PARADE, FIELD SPORTS, PROGRAMME IN HALL, DANCING AND REFRESHMENTS.

Not to be outdone by any other community in honoring its service men, Hollywood will stage a victory fete on Saturday afternoon from 2 to 12 o'clock. While every effort has been made to reach all enlisted men, the committee will cordially welcome all who have served with the colors, whether they got an invitation or not.

The exercises will begin with a parade from the Hollywood Free Library to Snyder field at the local high school, where games will take place. In the evening at 8:30 o'clock the soldiers and sailors will be treated to a lively programme at the Woman's Clubhouse. This will be followed with a dance at Garden Court apartments and later refreshments will be served at the Woman's Club House.

The General Committee includes the Woman's Club of Hollywood, Board of Trade, high school, Business Men's Club, headed by Miss Jessica Lawrence, and president Woman's Club, and Mrs. H. T. Wright, chairman.

WORDING BALLOTS.

Council to Frame Questions for Special Elections.

Formal resolutions were adopted by the City Council yesterday providing for the exact wording that is to appear on the ballots at two special elections to be held on June 3, at the same time as the general municipal election. One of these is on the proposal to authorize the issue of $11,500,000 power bonds, and the other is to provide authority to the city for sale of surplus power to the Southern California Edison Company. While these elections will be separate from the general election, the same election boards, voting places and ballot boxes as used for the municipal election will be used for the special elections.

DISMISS BOTH CHARGES.

On the motion yesterday of Assistant United States District Attorney Green, the charge against James Quinn of Fresno, of having failed to register and having violated the Espionage Act, was dismissed by United States District Judge Trippet. It has been discovered that Quinn was not required to register on account of his age, and the evidence as to the espionage allegation was a bit hazy and uncertain.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

Growing after the fashion of a snowball headed down hill the need of some sort of foreign trade programme for Los Angeles is being impressed upon the business consciousnesses of the community. From a theoretical and academic consideration of this phase of reconstruction we are coming to look upon the practical side of the problems and to realize that if Los Angeles is to participate in the development of this great trade she must be up and doing. An interesting and important contribution to the discussion has been made by Henry S. McKee, vice-president of the Merchants' National Bank, in an article on "Banking for Foreign Trade," which is printed in the current issue of the Pacific Export Magazine. The question of credits is one of the most complicated and trying in the building up of an export trade, but Mr. McKee points out the facilities for establishing and handling foreign credits which are being provided by our local banking institutions. A time draft drawn against the values represented by the shipment, bearing the acceptance of his Los Angeles bank will be the means of immediately placing the exporter in funds against his shipment, and it will in due course be paid out of the proceeds of the collection of the foreign draft which he drew against his foreign customer. "In other words," says this writer, "the Los Angeles merchant having goods sent through the port of Los Angeles desires to turn them immediately into money. This his Los Angeles bank can provide him with full facilities for doing, assuming, of course, the bona-fide and legitimate character of the transaction, the satisfactory business standing of the exporter, and the proper compliance with the customary practices of export trade."

In this same article, which is well filled with meat, it is said that the total capital employed in the banking business of Los Angeles is $20,000,000 and its total resources $225,000,000.

It's a poor rule which won't work both ways. The Railroad Administration is making some attractive passenger rates from eastern points to California, effective during the summer months. There can be no fault with any means which serves to bring tourists or homeseekers to Southern California, and the reestablishment of the special rates is greeted with three rousing cheers everywhere, but a correspondent raises the point that in the fixing of these rates California is really being discriminated against because they only operate one way. He suggests that there are thousands of residents of this State who would welcome the opportunity of returning to the old home for a visit with the folks. During the war transcontinental travel was reduced to a minimum, and now there are many who could take the long trek if the railroad fares were reduced on the east-bound haul proportionately to the west-bound traffic. There is really considerable soundness in the argument. The railroads would get a two-way haul, and develop a lot of business they would not otherwise receive; just as many persons would come West, while none of those who returned East would stay. No one ever goes East to stay. California can afford to spend a little of its loose change in car riding and visiting, especially as every traveler is a missionary spreading the gospel of the "Sunkist" land. Mr. Hines would do well to consider the suggestion and give California the benefit of correspondingly low eastern rates.

Another indication of the increasing importance of California as a live-stock producing center was given yesterday in reports from Kansas City, where 3322 head of California live stock were sold at good prices. Hundreds of additional stock from this State were disposed of at the other great trading centers, Chicago and Omaha. Last week 15,000 head of stock from Southern California were sold on these three markets, and at this time one producer near Los Angeles has 40,000 head of sheep ready for shipment.

The financing of the new California Hotel project is proceeding in a favorable manner. A group of local bankers and business men have already bought $1,350,000 second mortgage bonds in this project, and now S. W. Straus & Co., with offices in the Merchants' National Bank Building, are offering the unsold portion of the $3,500,000 first mortgage recently underwritten by them. It is expected that this will be readily taken up, a good proportion of it in this city. These bonds constitute a direct closed first mortgage on both the Alexandria and the California hotels, the completion of the building of the latter free and clear of all prior liens being unconditionally guaranteed to the bond holders. The income tax to include 4 per cent. is paid by the borrowing corporation and the bonds are tax free in California and further protected under the well-known Straus plan. It is announced that construction work upon the new hotel will begin in the near future.

Yesterday was another big trading day on the local stock exchange. The public actively participated in the transactions, and brokers report a large volume of new business. The market generally averaged stronger than on the preceding day. Union Oil showed a tendency to regain some of the ground lost after the peak of last week and sold up from 140.50 at the opening to 141.75 at the end of the day. On the mining side Big Jim continued to be the popular medium of exchange, 30,000 shares going under the hammer at a range of from 17 to 18¼ cents. In the oils, United and National Pacific divided the honors, the former opening at 46 1-4 cents and closing at 46 7-8 bid with a low mark of 45 1-4. National Pacific gained three-eighths over an opening of 11 cents. United Eastern was shaded from the opening of 4.85 to a close of 4.82, which is in line with the range of this stock for several days. Los Angeles Investment was again "up and com-

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Dealings in stocks during the early period of today's session were relatively dull with uncertain price tendencies, but the entire market strengthened later, fresh buying being stimulated by the President's message to Congress.

That document exceeded the most sanguine expectations of conservative interests as well as the speculative element, especially the recommendations dealing with the early restoration of the railroads and utilities to private ownership.

Other features which met with equally favorable interpretation included the suggestion for the partial repeal of war-time prohibition, abolition of the tax retail sales and protection by tariff of chemical industries.

Shippings and oils provided the motive power at the opening. Marine (common and preferred,) American International, Royal Dutch and Mexican Petroleum gaining one to two points, with several of the standard rails.

Marines soon reacted on unfounded rumors reporting delay in the consummation of the deal with British interests and oils and rails fell back one to three points, the reversal suggesting bear pressure rather than profit taking.

In the broader movement of the final hour, interest converged around minor rails, especially Texas and Pacific, motor specialties, such utilities as Philadelphia Company and Ohio Cities Gas, the latter rising about six points and minor metals, notably United Alloy Steel, that stock advancing 2½ points.

United States Steel also made its best price of 103¼ later, but that moderate improvement was cancelled, despite the higher level reached by equipments, notably American and Baldwin locomotives.

The general bond market was firm, Liberty and international issues, particularly French municipals, showing strength. Total sales, par value, were $13,775,000.

Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Final prices on Liberty Bonds today: 3½'s, 99.54; first 4's, 95.62; second 4's, 94.56; first 4¼'s, 95.78; second 4¼'s, 94.70; third 4¼'s, 95.70; fourth 4¼'s, 94.76.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

CHICAGO, May 20.—Trading in Swift rights was active today, reaching a total of 11,000 shares. The start was at 6¾ and there was an advance to 7, with the close at 6¾. Swift regular lost 2¾ points, and International ¼ point, while Libby made a fractional gain. Sears-Roebuck continued its rapid advance, touching a new high of 120 and closing with a gain of 4 points for the day. Pneumatic Tool also was a strong feature, making an advance of 5¼ points. Shipbuilding was up 3 points more, evidently on the prospects of orders from Europe to be brought back by President Parr.

COMMENT.

Beef steers shipped from California sold yesterday on the Kansas City market as follows: 263 steers, average 1134, at 13.50; 272 steers, average 1134, at 12.85; 138 steers, average 1078, at 12.50; 188 steers, average 1062, at 11.75. On a basis of 2.50 per hundredweight shrinkage, the above figures indicate the degree of weakness existing in the beef market. Sacramento and Stockton spring lambs from California sold on the same market for 16.65 to 18.00 and averaged 59 to 68 pounds in the two lots; 479 second quality spring lambs, averaging 67 to 69 pounds, brought 12.50 to 14.50; 624 fall clipped ewes, 72 to 99 pounds, sold at 7.50 to 12.75; 216 clipped ewes, 69 to 113 pounds, at 7.50 to 12.75. A total of 2822 head of California live stock sold on an eastern market in one day proves the statement that California is a coming live-stock producing section.

The bulk of receipts of cattle and lambs are of medium and common quality and this combined with the liberal supply is responsible for the present weak market.

CORN ADVANCES ON WILSON'S MESSAGE.

RECOMMENDATION OF REMOVAL OF BAN ON BEER STRENGTHENS GRAIN.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, May 20.—A combination of conditions favored holders of all grains and made it uncomfortable for the shorts, who covered and sent prices higher.

The most important factor was the recommendation by President Wilson in his message to Congress that restrictions on light wines and beer be removed. This started a buying movement in barley and the advance in it was reflected in other grain. Closing trades were near the highest with gains of 2¼ to 2½ cents on corn with July leading. Oats gained 2@2¼ cents, May leading in Chicago.

Corn in the Southwest closed 1¼@2¼ cents higher, and oats were 1¼@2¾ cents higher. Kansas City reported buying in both grains. Oats in Minneapolis were 2¾ cents higher and rye futures there 2¾ cents better, while barley gained 5¼ cents.

Limiting of trading in corn developed the fact that the long interest was scattered and in small amounts, while the corn, short, accounts were of liberal proportions and in fewer hands. Short covering in volume developed from the start, with the clique within ¼@½ cent of the top with May at $1.70½, July at $1.64¾ and September at $1.58¾.

Wet weather over the belt, with reports that planting was seriously delayed in parts of Nebraska and Iowa, combined with small receipts and better trade in rye and barley, caused some change in sentiment.

Heavy sales of cash oats from western and northwestern markets to southeast, combined with a good export business there, which some [illegible] the trade considered as a forerunner of a liberal trade with Germany led to a slump of shorts and futures advanced 2¼@2¾ cents, and closed with May at the top at 72¾ cents, while the deferred months showed 1¼@1¾ cent under the best figures. July finishing at 68¾ and September at 65¾ cents.

LIBERTIES ADVANCE ON NEW YORK MARKET.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, May 20.—Liberty issues showed some price advances today. Russian bonds were stronger than yesterday. Other foreign government issues were steady.

In investment banking circles the belief exists that well-known international bankers are planning a number of issues of foreign securities to enable war-ridden Europe to set back on its feet, industrially and financially. It is admitted that no one knows exactly what will be the effect of these new issues on our outstanding government war bonds and on the bonds of foreign governments already outstanding. However, it is agreed that if bonds are issued to help Europe, and indirectly help ourselves, much of the idle money now being employed in the stock market is going to find its way to the bond market.

The largest loan made today by Lazard Freres & Co. of an offering of $600,000 first mortgage bonds of the Mount Royal Steamship Company. This is the third offering made during the past few months by this banking house of steamship securities.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE BOOSTS RAIL STOCKS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 20.—Publication of the President's message at midday today was followed by a strong and active stock market.

Promise of the early return of the railroads, telegraph and telephone lines and other utilities to private ownership stimulated the shares of various companies.

No part of the stock list made quicker or more favorable response, however, than those which were threatened with dissolution by the prohibition movement.

PICK WOODMAN AS THEIR MAN.

Weaver, Williams, Alexander Out for Mayor.

Convinced He is the One to Reunite the City.

dorsement of Mayor Woodman by Mr. Weaver. He had the support of men and women who stand for decency in our civic life, and a constructive business policy. The principles he represented are those also voiced by Mayor Woodman, and for that reason I confidently believe we will get 90 per cent. of the vote that went for Mr. Weaver at the primary election."

Former Mayor George Alexander, under whose administration the old redlight district was wiped out, has volunteered his services to help re-elect Mayor Woodman.

"Every citizen having the best interests of Los Angeles at heart should vote to keep Mayor Woodman in office as the present city executive has demonstrated by his constructive administration and by his honesty that he is a true servant of the public," he said yesterday. "Many big projects that will benefit all of the people of this city have been launched while Mayor Woodman was in office and he should not be taken from the important task he has set for himself. Mayor Woodman has had long experience, his integrity cannot be questioned and he is morally good. Add to these sterling qualities the fact that he has keen and exceptional business insight and ability. Could more be desired of the administrative head of a great municipality.

"I appointed Woodman harbor commissioner and it was one of the best appointments I ever made."

Another stalwart to climb aboard the Woodman bandwagon yesterday was Earl P. Low, prominent contractor and builder. Mr. Low said that Mayor Woodman has been the "best Mayor the city every had" and added:

"Woodman is a starter and a finisher—he must be kept on the job. A change now would delay many of the public improvements he has planned and this must not be done."

Negroes in Line.

For the first time in the history of the Los Angeles police department, it is said, the negro members of the force were in line at the annual inspection held at Exposition Park last Saturday. Mayor Woodman eliminated the color line which was drawn some years ago when members of the police force registered objection to having colored policemen in line at the annual inspection and at all times when the police were on public exhibition. That the old prejudice has been removed was evidenced by the fact that no member of the force objected to the negroes being in line last Saturday.

Woodman to Speak.

Mayor Woodman is to speak at two meetings today and tomorrow night he will address women campaign workers, speakers and members of the womens' campaign committee at his headquarters in the Wright & Callender Building.

The first meeting today will be held at noon at Broadway and Daly street, where the city executive will address a gathering of business men. Tonight he will be heard at an open meeting in the Angeles Mesa Club House, Fifty-fourth street and Sixth avenue.

Other Woodman meetings to be held will be one at 8 o'clock tonight at Daly street and Broadway, an open-air rally at the same place, the Mayor will speak earlier in the day, and another at Pasadena avenue and Avenue 58 at 7:45 p.m.

POWER BOND ISSUE WOULD INJURE CITY.

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Having been identified with the city government for some years in a position to note its inner workings and being in possession of facts that every voter should know in order to cast an intelligent ballot on the Eelectric Bond issue, I would be remiss in my civic duty if I longer remained silent.

"FORGIVE US OUR DEBTS."

For the past ten years debts of cities have increased by leaps and bounds. A wise use of public credit is justifiable, but excessive bond issues inevitably bring disaster for a city as well as for an individual or private corporation.

The first thing an investor or homeseeker asks, is "What is your Debt?" He knows that if the debt burden is large, taxes must be levied to pay it. Capital is timid and safety of principal and income must be assured, or it goes elsewhere.

Reliable information as to city debts is not always obtainable. City officials usually disclose the resources of the municipality, the libalities may be only partially shown, or actually concealed and thus a half-truth may work as great an injury as an outright falsehood.

Fortunately the United States government collects and assembles statistics of cities over 30,000 population by its own experts and reduces these to a per capita unit and such data is authentic and our only safe guide.

A comparison of the total debts of cities in dollars seldom brings out clearly their relative status, but the story is rendered simple and intelligible, when the aggregate is divided by the population and thus it is possible to compare a small city with a larger one, but the comparison is more equitable as between cities of similar wealth and population.

The Federal bureau, classifies the city debts into public service and general governmental, each reduced to a per capita basis.

FUNDED AND OTHER DEBTS OF UNITED STATES CITIES.

City or group	Pub. service.	All other.	Total.
Average per capita debt of ten cities above 400,000 population	$17.49	$54.26	$ 71.75

This comparative data shows Los Angeles debt for public service enterprises, which includes aqueduct, electric and harbor about four and half the average for the ten cities compared and about two and half times the average of the whole 219 cities covered by the report.

It is apparent that the municipal ownership bonds in Los Angeles have relegated general municipal improvements such as City Hall, Public Library, and Civic Center to the background.

Let us take the United States statistics for 1917 and add the bonds since authorized and those proposed, to see the relative debt rank Los Angeles will have, if all the proposed bonds are voted.

PROSPECTIVE BONDED DEBT.

	Pub. service.	Total.
U. S. 1917 statistics Los Angeles		$ 79.42 $110.07
Add harbor bonds authorized	$ 4,500,000
Add proposed school	7,000,000
Add proposed electric	13,500,000
Add total	$25,000,000
Deduct estimated redemption	2,500,000
Net proposed increase	$22,500,000
Add per capita based upon 525,000 pop.
	$1.00	40.00

Should the dreams of the bond proponents be realized, Los Angeles will have the highest public service enterprise debt in the whole United States exceeding New York City by about $5.00 per capita and about two and half times the average in Croup II. of United States cities.

An old proverb says: "He who buys what he does not need, will often need what he can not buy." Has not Los Angeles about reached that limit when a new City Hall, Public Library, and Civic Center, things that are really needed, must be subordinated to purchase an electric plant and business, now giving satisfactory service to our citizens?

Los Angeles is staggering under a bonded debt that has paralyzed the real estate market, causing hundreds of citizens to lose their homes and equities in lots bought in anticipation of the booster's dream of a "Million in 1920." The proposed electric bonds will not provide work for the unemployed nor add one dollar to the value of real estate.

It must be evident to the unprejudiced mind that a readjustment of war conditions will follow a safe and sane conservation of the public credit and a vote against the electric bonds will be better calculated to promote the prosperity and best interests of Los Angeles.

WILL CALL SPECIAL ELECTION FOR BONDS.

City Attorney Stephens this morning will present to the City Council an ordinance providing for a special election on June 3 on the proposal to authorize the issuance of $135,000 bonds for a sewer disposal system for Wilmington and East San Pedro. This proposal originally was placed on the ballot for the general municipal election, but it has been decided that it is preferable to submit it under the call for a special election.

Soldier Runs the Mayor's Campaign.

Maj. Frank P. Doherty.

WAR HERO WOODMAN CHIEF

Back from the big fight across the Atlantic, Maj. Frank P. Doherty has jumped into the contest to re-elect Mayor Woodman, acting as his campaign manager. He declared yesterday that whipping a political fight into shape is a recreation for him after his experiences overseas. "We have the organization formulated in good shape now," said Maj. Doherty, "and we are ready to get out a big vote for Mayor Woodman on June 3."

Maj. Doherty was mustered out of service at Camp Lewis on April 30, after having been wounded overseas. Immediately upon his return to Los Angeles he resumed his active interest in political affairs, in which he had been prominent when he entered the Officers' Training Camp at the Presidio in San Francisco in August of 1917.

He was commissioned captain at the Presidio and sent to Camp Lewis. There he was assigned to the Three Hundred and Sixty-first Infantry as commander of a machine-gun battalion. June 22, 1918 he went to France with his company, joining the Ninety-first Division. He went through the St. Mihiel battle, through two phases of the Meuse-Argonne battle and was wounded near Gesnes, France, on October 9, when a machine-gun bullet plowed through his leg, necessitating his being detained in a hospital for four weeks.

It was his action in the battle at Apinonville that won him the recommendation for major, and after his discharge from the hospital, he rejoined the Ninety-first at Audenarde, Belgium, in command of the First Battalion, which office he held until the close of the war.

Maj. Doherty is 33 years old, has a wife and three children and is one of the leading politicians of the county, having been chairman of the Republican County Committee in Los Angeles before he entered the training camp. He is agressive, a tenacious fighter, levelheaded and with an executive ability that wins for him the goal he aspires to.

The same force that pushed Maj. Doherty to the fore in his army life is now being used to further the interests of Mayor Woodman, as the major is campaign manager of the Woodman forces.

COUNSEL GETS MORE TIME TO STUDY CASE.

COURT DEFERS HENDERSON TRIAL TILL JUNE 2; KARR PLANS TO RAISE HOGS.

George Henderson, negro, accused of offering and giving a bribe, will not have to go to trial until June 2, one day before the city election, according to a decision rendered yesterday by Judge Frank R. Willis. In a written opinion the court recites the facts brought out in an affidavit filed by Willis O. Tyler, attorney for the defendant, in which the attorney said he had not received portions of the grand jury transcript in the case until three days before the trial, while the statute provide that it be delivered five days before by the District Attorney.

A strenuous fight was put up by Dist.-Atty. Woolwine, Chief Deputy Doran, and Deputy Van Cott to bring the case to trial yesterday. The court recites that a reasonable continuance was asked in order that the defendant's attorney might prepare for trial. It was pointed out by the court that, following out the District Attorney's suggestion, the defense counsel would have to read 1379 pages of testimony in the Woodman trial, a trial which consumed twelve trial days, and also 200 pages of grand jury transcript, the latter within three days.

It was said yesterday at the District Attorney's office that a number of witnesses were subpoenaed for the trial, which was scheduled to begin yesterday. Horace W. Karr, who will be the main witness against Henderson, will reman here until after the trial in June and will then return to his old farm in Ohio, where he will raise hogs, he says. George Brown, negro gambler and next to Karr, the State's star witness against Mayor Woodman, testified on the stand that he is also raising hogs.

SAY THEY WILL ROUT APATHY.

Betterment Men Promise Us a Whirlwind Finish.

Think Position Good Because of Primary Success.

What has so far been an apathetic campaign for election of Councilmen was enlivened yesterday at an executive meeting at the headquarters of the Association for Betterment of Public Service, and a whirlwind finish was promised.

The association heads discussed methods and resources, and concluded that as seventeen of its candidates were nominated at the primaries, and one elected, it has every reason to believe that every candidate indorsed will be elected.

"The organization intends to go before the people on a platform calling for clean government on a business basis, to leave out of its consideration as an organization the Mayoralty contest and to seat if possible every one of its Councilmanic and Board of Education candidates," said Secretary Harry Hill.

"Every legitimate means of advertising these candidates and what they stand for will be used. Every effort will be made to get out a big vote on election day. Between now and election every candidate indorsed for Council and Board of Education will be busy with meetings, and with the work of securing indorsement from practically every civic and business organization in the city. Many of these have already been received.

VIEW OF TACTICS.

"At headquarters publicity matter is being prepared which will give in detail the aims the organization seeks to attain, and information as to the qualifications of each candidate.

"Different combinations are being made by opposing camps in an effort to effect an alliance in some manner that will beat the association ticket, but our information is that these alliances are having little success. We feel that as the people gave such a flattering response at the primaries to our recommendation of men for the Council and other offices we are more than justified in the work so far done.

"During the next two weeks we will make an intensive effort, with every part of our organization working smoothly. Teamwork will do wonders, and we have teamwork in every part of the city.

"President W. A. Barker will return to the city Thursday morning and will jump into active command of the campaign forces. With him are associate experts in campaign management, and with unlimited speaking forces; and with nearly a score of candidates working day and night there will be some red fire before election day. The association offices are full of men and women working overtime, and if we don't carry our ticket to success at the final election it will not be because the effort has not been made."

POWER BOND BODY ELECTS OFFICERS.

ONE OF FIRST ACTS WILL BE TO LEARN CANDIDATES' VIEWS ON ISSUE.

Watt L. Moreland was elected chairman of the Power Bond Campaign Committee at a meeting of the Executive Committee yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce. Maynard McFie was chosen vice-chairman, and A. S. Dudley, secretary. Mr. Moreland is president of the Chamber of Commerce; Mr. McFie is a vice-president, and Mr. Dudley is assistant secretary.

One of the first acts of the committee will be to ascertain from the candidates who are for and who are against, if any, the power-bond issue.

Following are members of the Executive Committee: J. C. Austin, Mrs. C. C. Ashley, G. M. Babcock, Dr. G. B. Ballou, W. T. Bishop, G. A. Brock, Seth R. Brown, R. W. Burnham, J. A. "DIPS" MAKE RICH HAUL.

Jewelry valued at $1000 and a small amount of cash was the loot secured by pickpockets yesterday afternoon, when they opened and ransacked a handbag carried by Mrs. F. McVicker of 776 East Forty-seventh street. According to Mrs. McVicker, in her report to the police, the handbag was opened while she was shopping in a down-town department store.

COUNCILMEN EMBATTLED.

A lively scrap was precipitated in the City Council yesterday over a communication from property owners on Carillo street, who reported statements alleged to have been made by Councilman True at a neighborhood meeting, regarding the Carillo-street improvement, over which there has been much controversy. It was stated that Councilman True said he believed there had been collusion with the contractor, and that the property owners had been compelled to pay an excessive price for the work to be done.

This brought about a wordy time in the Council, in which Col. True was accused of playing politics. The upshot of it all was that other Councilmen declared if he was aware of irregularities in connection with the award of the contract for the street work, he should make an investigation and report to the Council. Councilman Olsen sustained Col. True and he and Col. True were appointed a special committee to make an investigation.
